JAYCEE BOOTHEEL RODEO CHAIRMAN Jim E. Cox poses with winners of the Little Miss and Little Mr. Western contest Saturday. Jill Ann Humphries, 4, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Amon Humphries, 607 Montgomery St., is the queen. The bright-eyed boy winner is Lee Van Marshall, four, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rene DeKriek, 317 Kramer Drive.

Jill Ann Humphries and Lee Van Marshall Chosen Little Miss and Little Mr. Western

"Look at the people. Show them your number. Walk slowly to the end of the stage, then turn around and come back."

With these instructions the annual Little Miss and Mr. Western contest opened at 8 p.m. Saturday on a platform on New Madrid street between American Legion Park and the Frisco parking lot. The event is preliminary to the Jaycee Bootheel Rodeo opening Thursday.

Ten boys and 27 girls between two and seven years old entered the contest.

Patti McMullin, Rodeo queen, received more whistles from little boys in the audience than the little girls.

Art Hobbs and his wife, Clara, coordinated the program as contest chairmen.

Jill Ann Humphries, 4, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Amon Humphries, 607 Montgomery, was selected Little Miss Western.

Lee Van Marshall, 4, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rene DeKriek, 317 Kramer, was named Little Mr. Western.

Ronda Jaynes, 2, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ron Jaynes, Parma, and Rob Aldrich, 2, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Aldrich, 316 Matthews, were first runners up.

Second runners up were Tonya Greenwood, 5, daughter of Jerry Greenwood, East Prairie, and Robert Bird Jr., 4, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bird, Kewanee.

Third runners up were Stephanie Michael, 2, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Michael Jr., Benton, and Kevin Dale West, 5, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth West, route three, Sikeston.

Last year's winners Tommie Ray Love, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Love, 909 Sikes, and Christopher Vinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Vinson, 801 Ruth, attended the contest.

Other boy entrants this year were Roger Bolin, 3, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russ Bolin, Morehouse; Brett Alan Roberts, 3, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Roberts, 505 Clayton; Douglas Alan Scott, 6, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Scott Jr., route three, Sikeston; Jimmy Cook, 4, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Cook, 515 Clayton; Kerry Ray Northcutt, 6, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Northcutt, 727 West North, and Kevin L. Nall, 4, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Nall, 222 Hardin.

Girls who entered the contest were Pamela Carroll, 4, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Newton Carroll, 128 South Ranney; Kelley Jo Sherry, 2, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Sherry, Oran; Veneita Kay Williams, 3, daughter of Mrs. Barbara Wright, Sikeston.

Lisa Gail Rider, 3, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Rider, 819 Ladue; Kimberly Shuffit, 5, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tony Shuffit, 304 Moore; Regena Burch, 6, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Burch, Matthews.

Vickie Jane Throgmorton, 6, daughter of Mrs. Judy Throgmorton, 911 Lora; Rebecca Sage, 4, daughter of Mrs. Carol Sage, 215 Dorothy; Debra Hon, 5, daughter of John Hon, 121 West Kathleen; Cheryl Kindle, 3, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Kindle, 200 Petroleum.

Lora Holloway, 5, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Holloway, 909 South Prairie; Kim Bridger, 3, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Bridger, 800 Ladue.

Mother Charged in Death of 4 Children

DUNSTABLE, Mass. (AP) — The bodies of four children, all of whom had been shot, were found today following an early morning fire at their Main Street home.

Dist. Atty. John J. Droney of Middlesex County said the children's mother, Mrs. Mary Connolly, about 40, had been booked and that the charge would be murder.

Droney said the four children had been shot and apparently had been dead since Sunday night.

The victims were the children of Mr. and Mrs. Francis G. Connolly Jr. Officials said the parents had returned to their home at 7 a.m., after the fire, which was discovered by a neighbor about three hours earlier, had been extinguished.

The victims were identified as Brenda, 16; Gregory, 11; Gary, 7, and Thomas, 3. Droney said three of the bodies were discovered in the living room, two of them on a mattress. The fourth child's body was found in a first-floor bedroom.

Capt. Baniel Murphy of the state police said the mother admitted shooting the children Sunday evening and setting fire to the house about 3:30 this morning.

He said she then drove to the town dump intending to commit suicide by carbon monoxide poisoning. The attempt failed and she was treated at St. Joseph's Hospital in nearby Lowell.

Dunstable is a small town in northeastern Massachusetts near the New Hampshire border.

A fifth Connolly child, Debbie, 18, who is working as a waitress on Cape Cod, was not at home at the time.

Heinkle Lists Plan for Fair Farm Standards

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — A five-point "fair farm standards program" to correct "chronic disparity of income realized by farmers," was proposed today by Fred V. Heinkel, president of the Missouri and Midcontinent Farmers Associations.

Speaking at the annual conventions of the two cooperatives, Heinkel pointed out farmers have efficiently utilized mechanization, research and education with the hope of improving the quality of their products and of bettering their individual position.

"However, this has resulted in greater total production than the free markets will take at prices that provide farm people with an income commensurate with the income of non-farm people," he said.

To correct this "chronice disparity of income realized by farmers," he proposed a "Fair Farm Standards Program," which should consist of:

Continuation of the Agricultural Act of 1965, with emphasis on Administrative policy to improve farm income.

Increase efforts toward development of more effective marketing cooperatives, including needed legislation and administrative assistance from the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Additional sources of capital for farmer cooperatives.

New legislation to provide market power for farmers.

A national food reserve.

"New legislation to permit the Commodity Credit Corporation to purchase farm products in the open market at up to 115 to 120 per cent of the loan rate could be most helpful," he said. The same law should provide that these products cannot be dumped back into the market but can be used only in case of emergency."

He said the loan rate on corn should be raised to $1.15 a bushel for 1968 and that the parity payment should be increased 10 cents a bushel. He added that that loan rate and parity payment for grain sorghums should receive similar increases.

More than 6,000 farmers are expected for the convention.

Ike's Illness Rated Minor

WASHINGTON (AP)— Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, suffering a minor digestive ailment, continued under observation today at the Army's Walter Reed General Hospital, his condition unchanged since Sunday, a spokesman said.

The hospital issued a one-sentence statement saying, "There has been no appreciable change in General Eisenhower's condition; medical observations continue."

The 76-year-old five-star general became ill Friday night at his home in Gettysburg, Pa., and was flown to Walter Reed on Saturday by helicopter.

His ailment has been described by hospital spokesman only in general terms, as a "minor gastro-intestinal upset."

On Sunday his condition was reported as greatly improved, and the statement said Eisenhower probably would not stay long in the hospital.

Medical tests and X-rays, they said Sunday, were encouraging.

Eisenhower's doctors, it was announced, planned to take advantage of his present stay to perform routine examinations and dental work which had been scheduled for later this month.

Eisenhower suffered an attack of acute gastroenteritis — an inflammation of the lining of the stomach and small intestine — last May and was hospitalized for eight days.

There has been no indication whether his present illness was recurrence of that ailment.

Hearing Set for Youth Held in Family's Deaths

GEORGETOWN, Tex. (AP) — James Wolcott, who won't be 16 years old until Aug. 14, was held today for a juvenile delinquency hearing after gunfire killed his father, mother and sister.

Victims of the slayings in their home early Saturday were Dr. Gordon Wolcott, 56; his wife Elizabeth, 43, and their pretty daughter, also named Elizabeth, 17.

The father was a biology professor at Southwestern University in Georgetown. He formerly worked with the U.S. Public Health Service.

Funeral services for young Wolcott's family were set for today at the First Methodist Church.

Late Sunday night the youth said, "For all concerned it is best that I don't attend."

Officers said he had made an oral statement about the three deaths but they disclosed no details. He has been held in the Williamson County jail since the shootings. No charges had been filed.

County Judge Sam Stone said he would set the juvenile delinquency hearing, a civil proceeding, after burial of the slain Wolcotts.

Police Chief Frank Masur said seven shots from a .22-caliber rifle killed them.

The professor was found on a living room floor, two bullet wounds in his chest, his daughter, in her room, apparently shot twice as she prepared for bed. Mrs. Wolcott apparently was sleeping, the police chief said, when she was struck with three bullets.

Waters Files for New Senate Term

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Sen. William Baxter Waters, D-Liberty, filed for the Democratic nomination for state senator from the 17th senatorial district Friday.

General Trying Rescue Hit

SAIGON (AP)— A U.S. Army brigadier general was wounded in the leg today when Viet Cong fire hit his helicopter as he was trying to rescue two crewmen from a downed helicopter on the outskirts of Saigon, U.S. sources reported.

There were other reports that three U.S. helicopters burned after being shot down and that two more were badly damaged in action 12 miles north of the capital.

The sources said the general, wounded in the lower right leg, was taken to the U.S. Army 3rd Field Hospital in Saigon, where he was reported in good condition. They said his aide, a lieutenant, was wounded in both legs and was also in good condition.

The names of the two officers were not disclosed pending notification of relatives.

The U.S. sources said the general was directing an air mobile assault of one American company and a company of South Vietnamese rangers when he saw that the helicopter had been shot down.

Just as the general's helicopter set down to try to rescue the crew, Viet Cong guerrillas opened fire with small arms and automatic weapons.

The helicopter quickly took off again without picking up the downed crewmen, the sources said. The crew of the general's helicopter was not hurt.

Military spokesmen said ground units were within 100 yards of reaching the two crewmen.

In other action, North Vietnamese troops stormed a U.S. Special Forces camp near the Cambodian border, inflicting moderate casualties on 600 South Vietnamese irregulars and their families. The Vietnamese army said the Communists left the bodies of 60 of their men when they were driven off after hours of fierce fighting.

There was no word if any of the dozen or so Americans in the camp were casualties.

In the air war, bad weather around Hanoi limited U.S. warplanes to strikes in the southern part of North Vietnam, with 134 missions flown against truck parks and storage areas. But Air Force pilots reported setting off 70 secondary explosions at one truck park just north of the demilitarized zone and believed they hit either surface-to-air missiles or artillery pieces.

The United States lost three more planes; an F4 Phantom shot down in the north with two crewmen missing, and a F100 Super Sabre shot down just south of Saigon, and a small observation plane shot down on a reconnaissance mission just below the demilitarized zone.

11 Injured Taken To Hospital

Eleven emergency patients were treated Saturday and Sunday at the Missouri Delta Community hospital:

Saturday Martha Ice was in a car accident on Davis Boulevard; Kenneth Wayne Marcum, East Prairie, was bitten by a dog.

Sunday Matthews Stevenson injured a finger on a jack; Carol Mulcahy was injured in a fall; Anderson Moore, East Prairie, stuck a stick in his eye; Russell Jones, New Madrid, fell and hurt an arm; Angela Ditto, East Prairie, cut her head on a coffee table; Barbara Dock stuck wire in a foot; Amos Pulliam, St. Peters, injured in a motorcycle accident; Virginia Pulliam, St. Peters, injured in a motorcycle accident; Chery Garrett, East Prairie, fell out of a car.

Fall Injures Cyclists

Two Sikeston youths were taken to Southeast Hospital in Cape Girardeau Sunday afternoon after suffering minor injuries in a motorcycle accident.

Clarence Templeton, 211 Daniel, the driver, and passenger Tony Poole, 16, 822 Ruth, were treated and released for cuts to the knees, elbows and shoulders.

The accident occurred at 2 p.m. Sunday in the 500 block of Carroll street when a large white German Shepherd ran in front of the motorcycle.

The dog was not injured.

Willard C. Reine

Former Area Man Named to Revenue Post

JEFFERSON CITY -- For the first time the Missouri department of revenue has engaged an assistant to the director for research and counsel.

Willard C. Reine joined the departmental staff Aug. 1 to assist the department of revenue in all phases of legal problems that might arise. He also will be responsible for determining the best method of updating the state revenue laws and associated rules and regulations.

Reine's appointment to the department of revenue was made in the conjunction with recommendations submitted in the Herzel Report, a study on departmental reorganization.

From 1960 to 1965 he was engaged in private law practice in East Prairie, and Charleston, Missouri. For the last three years he was assistant general counsel for the state division of insurance where he participated in the revision of the Missouri insurance law, adopted by the last general assembly.

Reine received a bachelor of science degree in political science from Central Missouri State College at Warrensburg in 1957. He graduated from the Missouri University law school at Columbia in 1960.

Enrolling Will Begin

Parents of elementary school children, grades one through six, who have moved to Sikeston and whose children did not attend in the public schools at the close last year, can enroll their children Thursday and Friday at the elementary school nearest their home.

Pupils will be assigned to their building and other enrollment procedures will be completed.

Parents who have first-graders who were not enrolled on spring enrollment Day May 12 may enroll their first-graders Thursday and Friday. First-graders must be six years old on or before Sept. 15, 1967.

All new students should present a valid birth certificate and a record or other evidence of a smallpox vaccination and immunizations against tetanus, diptheria, and polio.

Parents who have moved to a different location within the Sikeston school district may call the school where the child last attended and give the new address. If they are in a different school attendance area, their child's records will be sent to the school where he will attend.

A few of classrooms are expected to have excessive enrollments, making it necessary to transfer children to other schools.

Parents who have questions are asked to call the elementary school nearest their home or call the director of elementary education at 471-4454.

Policeman Beaten

EAST PRAIRIE - Jimmy Welch, a night policeman, was found beaten unconscious at 2 a.m. today.

He was taken to Missouri Delta Community hospital at Sikeston.

Sheriff's officers are investigating.

Welch suffered a blow on the right side of his forehead and reportedly is doing fine, Mrs. Welch said today. X-rays will be taken later today.

Welch had stopped near the bowling alley to question two persons in an nearby alley. They ran and he followed. Someone jumped from some bushes and struck him, Mrs. Welch related.

East Prairie police reported that Welch's blackjack was found near the scene. Welch said he did not use the blackjack.

The average cacao tree yields between 20 and 40 pods a year, and each pod contains from 20 to 50 beans from which chocolate is prepared.

Troop Shifting Planned

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Pentagon plans to order to Vietnam large chunks of the last remaining combat divisions in the United States - and may not replace those units, sources report.

This would help meet President Johnson's new troop authorization for Vietnam which would raise the U.S. manpower commitment in the war to 525,000 by next summer.

Two top White House advisers indicate that meanwhile, U.S. allies in Vietnam are considering what additional troops they might send to back up their reported agreement on the need for increased pressure now against the Communists.

The advisers, Clark Clifford and Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, reported to President Johnson Saturday upon their return from a visit to South Vietnam, Thailand, Australia, New Zealand and South Korea.

"In each instance in our talks with each country, there was recognition that additional pressure should be exerted," said Clifford.

"Everyone feels now is the time for maximum effort," said Taylor, a former ambassador to Saigon. But both said they did not directly ask allies for more troops.

The 45,000-man increase in U.S. strength over the currently authorized 480,000 will go to Southeast Asia between October and next July and will consist mainly of units now classed as part of the Strategic Reserve.

This is an active duty force kept at home primarily to meet sudden contingencies abroad. For example, one Strategic Reserve division - the 82nd Airborne in North Carolina - provided a brigade to help squelch the 1965 Dominican Republic crisis.

Sources say Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara probably would defend this approach on two grounds:

-The Strategic Reserve exists to be used.

-President Johnson has directed McNamara to help hold down military expenditures.

The Pentagon could replace units pulled from the Strategic Reserve only after perhaps a year or 18 months, sources say. They reason the country might be able to risk temporary diminishing of the force while meeting the challenge of Vietnam.

Another alternative to meet the new manpower authorization is raising draft calls to levels much higher than the planned 24,000 a month. These men would go into entirely new fighting units for Vietnam service.

Police Report Three Accidents

Sikeston police investigated three accidents Saturday.

Charles C. Aters, 19, 846 Vernon, was charged with driving while intoxicated and operating a vehicle with defective brakes at 6:29 p.m.

The automobile he was driving struck the rear of a car driven by George B. Rucker, 214 Goode Dr., at North Main and Hunter, police reported. No injuries resulted.

Cars driven by Robert A. Grojean, 133 West Wakefield, and Mrs. Martha A. Ice, 28 Green Meadows, collided Saturday at Baker Lane and Davis Road. Both drivers and Charlie Ice, 3, a passenger in the Ice vehicle, were taken to the Missouri Delta Community hospital. Only Mrs. Ice was admitted. She is reported in satisfactory condition today.

A three car accident occurred at 8:15 p.m. Saturday in front of the Malone Theater on Malone. A car driven by the Rev. Fr. Justin Monaghan struck the rear of a stopped car driven by Michael Andrews, New Madrid, forcing it into the rear of another stopped automobile driven by Larry G. Gady, 627 East Gladys, police reported. No injuries resulted.

In other police activity, Ronnie R. Crawford, route four, Sikeston, and Lewis M. Gilliland, route four, Sikeston, were each charged with careless and imprudent driving at 7:45 p.m. Sunday at Main and Malone.

W. D. Simmon, Parma, was charged at 9:50 p.m. Friday on Murray Lane with driving while intoxicated, operating a vehicle with improper registration and improper exhaust.

Earl Watson, 320 Edmondson, reported to police that his daughter's blue and white English racer bicycle was taken from the front yard Saturday night.

Mrs. Doris Overby, Miner, reported that a gold and silver bicycle was taken from her residence during the weekend. She called police at 1:30 p.m. Sunday.

John Heller, 413 Illinois, reported to police Sunday that his daughter's blue and white bicycle was stolen.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

THE U.S. BUILD UP IN THAILAND

The United States is carrying out a military build up in Thailand against the possibility that the Vietnam war may spill over the Thai borders and spread to all of Southeast Asia and beyond.

From the viewpoint of both the nations the move makes sense. Thailand has been designated as a Communist target by a dissident Thai element operating from Communist territory and believed coached by the Red Chinese. There has also been Communist infiltration into the country. So far this country is putting millions of dollars into building air and land bases, ports and roads, and railroads to serve them. It has increased the size of the U.S. military contingent in Thailand to 12,000 men, and more are believed to be on the way. There is some indication of plans to station big B52 bombers in the country.

BACKGROUND

Background of the buildup:

- Thailand is the United States' staunchest friend in Southeast Asia, the home of SEATO. It is strongly anti-Communist.

- There has been talk recently about a possible American move into Laos to cut the flow of Red troops and arms from North to South Vietnam along the Ho Chi Minh trail. There has also been talk about chasing Communist troops across the Vietnam border into Cambodia, which the Reds are using as a sanctuary.

- Thailand has been used by the United States as a base from which to bomb both North Vietnam and Communist positions in Laos.

The Communists - well aware of the U.S. buildup, Thailand's position and their own effort to infiltrate the country and set up a guerrilla campaign like that of the Viet Cong in South Vietnam - charged a few days ago that Thialand has moved invasion forces into Laos.

The U.S. State Department termed the report a bit of Communist propaganda.

KHORAT

The United States has a big base at Khorat (Nakon Ratchasima), 155 miles northeast of Bangkok, the Thai capital, with at least three squadrons of F-105 Thunder chiefs and F-4 Phantom jets presently used for patrolling Laos and Thailand.

Khorat also serves as headquarters for the 9th U.S. Army Logistical Command. Five miles outside the city, the U.S. has $50 million worth of tanks, armored personnel carriers, jeeps, artillery, field hospitals and heavy construction equipment.

Engineers built an all-weather road from Khorat to Chon Buri Port, 40 miles southeast of Bangkok, bypassing the congested Bangkok area and providing a separate supply route directly to the interior of the country. They are planning a 120-mile railroad on a parallel route.

Improvements are also being made on Sattahip Navy Base, 30 miles south of Chon Buri.

Khorat is ideally located for supporting operations in Laos or Cambodia, or both, if the war should break out in either place.

RAIL JUNCTION

Khorat is the junction for the two major railways serving the Thai northeast: one runs east to Ubon where the U.S. has a major air base; the other travels northwest to Udon Thani (and a third air base) and on to its terminal at Nong Khai, just across the Mekong River from Vientiane, the Laotian administrative capital.

Udon Thani, 420 miles northeast of Bangkok, has at least one squadron of Voodoo jets flying reconnaissance missions over Laos and Vietnam.

Ubon is connected by road to the north with Nakhon Phanom, across the Mekong from Thakek City, where there has been fighting between Laotian government forces and the pro-Communist Pathet Lao for the past three months.

Thakek, astride the easiest overland route into Communist - held Tchepone in Eastern Laos, is believed to be a threat to the Communists, since Tchepone would be the easiest from which to attack the Ho Chi Minh trail.

The Americans have a battalion of Seabees near where the Burmese, Laotian and Thai borders meet and they are busy constructing roads leading toward that border, intersection and toward the border of Laos' Houa Khong and Luang Prabang provinces, which the Pathet Lao have controlled for several years.

As we checked, very, very few drivers knew the transmission oil should be changed every 25,000 miles. CHANGED, not checked!

* * *

Weeds grow high on vacant lots on Davis Boulevard.

They are rank and unsightly, marring the well kept beauty of landscaped adjoining homes and are a menace to safety.

Particularly at intersections the high weeds obscure the view and could cause or contribute to an automobile accident in which occupants of cars might be killed or injured with heavy property damage.

Davis is posted for 30-mile-an-hour travel but some motorists go much faster than that probably because it normally is not heavily traveled and goes through a comparatively isolated area not built up on both sides of the street.

The speeding adds to the hazard to which high weeds are a contributing factor.

Property owners should cut the weeds.

If they don't the city should lose no time in cutting the weeds for them and billing the property owners for it.

This policy should be maintained throughout the summer for esthetic and safety reasons as well to maintain real estate values in an otherwise inviting residential area.

Continuous police patroling for speeders should hold down the temptation to convert the stretch into a raceway.

WHY ALLIES SHUN U.S.

Increasingly the United States finds itself virtually alone in meeting threats to the peace in the Far East, the Middle East and elsewhere around the world.

Our ally-less position is drawn into sharp focus by the announced plan of the British to pull out of the Far East entirely by the mid-1970s.

It also is underscored by the necessity to send Gen. Maxwell Taylor and Clark Clifford to allied nations fighting in Vietnam to request they increase troop commitments.

Just prior to the start of the Arab-Israeli war the United States attempted to gather together a task force of allied ships to test Egypt's blockade at the Gulf of Aqaba, but reportedly found so little support that plans were under way to go it alone when the war broke out.

Why does the United States find so little genuine support from once firm allies?

Undoubtedly a great deal of coolness stems from the indecisiveness and confusion that has marked our foreign policy since the Bay of Pigs fiasco. Some of it is probably due to a failure of our leaders to inspire allies to meet their responsibilities and help check Red aggression.

An amazing lack of discernment over which nations are friends and which are foes has marked this country's foreign policy in recent years. This dismal myopia has caused billions of foreign aid dollars to go to such tyrants as Tito of Yugoslavia, Sukarno of Indonesia, Nasser of Egypt and Nkrumah of Ghana.

Our allies must have weighed the advisability of lining up too strongly with a nation that apparently is unable to distinguish friend from sworn enemy.

Leaders of Rhodesia and Israel must wonder how United States foreign policy is formed.

With great gusto the United States joined in a United Nations punitive essay against friendly Rhodesia, voting to invoke economic sanctions against that African nation. Rhodesia's only offense was its refusal to bow to a demand by Great Britain that it turn over its government to natives totally incapable of ruling.

After watching the Russians send great quantities of planes, tanks and all manner of arms to Egypt, to replace perhaps half the equipment lost in the Arab-Israeli war, the United States Government continued officially to support a policy that would mean disaster for Israel - namely that they pull back from territory taken in the brief war.

In response to the heavy Russian arms buildup, the Administration's sole reply was to talk peevishly about punishing the amount of arms that had gone into the area.

Until the President resolves to win the war in Vietnam and greatly strengthen United States foreign policy, a continued coolness by our once strong allies can be predicted. - Globe-Democrat

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

If you had all the gold ever mined by man, it would be worth $112 billion and could be stacked, 90-feet deep, within a single baseball diamond. Incidentally, gold is so well distributed throughout the earth's crust there is probably some right in your own back yard—about a penny's worth per ton of dirt.

There are only three kinds of animals in the world that have black tongues—polar bears, chow dogs, and children who eat licorice.

The spirit-electrifying words of Jesus Christ have been translated into scores of languages, but if He returned to earth and spoke again in the same tongue, He would be understood only in three small villages on the Syrian-Lebanese border. They are the only places left where Western Aramaic, the language of Christ, is still in daily use.

No, Matilda, "blueberry slump" isn't a posture ailment among underprivileged berry pickers. It's a type of bread pudding popular on Cape Cod.

Still room for more: Despite all the worry about the population explosion, the United States is far from crowded. Only 6 per cent of our land is used for residential purposes.

Quotable notables: "Unrest of spirit is a mark of life."— Dr. Karl Menninger.

Can you recall later in the day the dream that seemed so vivid last night? Inability to do so may indicate you're aging. Tests show that young people remember their dreams better than old people.

How it began: In the 12th century Emperor Swun-ho of China became so annoyed with the bickering in his harem that he invented a game played with 120 cards to keep his quarreling wives quiet. This may have been the first forerunner of the modern bridge club.

Quips from our contemporaries: Catholic Digest magazine reports this sign in a toy store: "If you don't see what you want, just cry for it."

Pleasures of the rich: For a man once believed to be the wealthiest in the world, the old Nizam of Hyderabad, who died last February, had a couple of inexpensive hobbies: he liked to write poetry— and to watch surgical operations.

Worth remembering: "There is no use going back to look for a lost opportunity. Someone else has found it."

Money to burn: Despite the popularity of the credit card Americans still wear out about $40 million in paper currency each day, which the government consigns to the flames. They say it makes a lovely light.

History lesson: Can you identify these U.S. presidents by the following nicknames— "Farmer President," "Ten-Cent Jimmy," "Grand Wrestler," "Prosperity's Advance Agent," and "Houdini in the White House"? They were George Washington, James Buchanan, Abraham Lincoln, William McKinley, and Franklin D. Roosevelt.

It was John Masefield who observed, "Success is the brand on the brow of the man who aimed too low."

LOVELY LIFE FOR THE LAZY

We know all about tired blood, of course, from watching the television commercials.

But it's getting harder and harder to have tired blood. Or tired muscles, or tired bones, or tired anything except tired bank accounts.

That's because more and more things are being invented to make it easier and easier for us to put out less and less physical effort --and more and more money.

We can now, for example, sit hour after hour in front of the television set without once getting up or without moving anything but our eyes and, occasionally, a finger.

We can switch programs, adjust the picture, control the volume, turn the set on and off, even silence the commercials -- all by fingering a little gimmick in our hand.

On the highway, we can shift gears with minimal exertion by automatic drive. We can stop effortlessly on a devaluated dime by tiptoe - pressure power brakes. We can raise and lower the car windows, the radio antenna, the trunk lid, the convertible top, and goodness knows what else, by fiddling with little buttons and things here and there.

We can heat the house all winter long without ever doing anything but soaking up the heat -- and paying for it.

If we care for our lawns, we can ride a nice, comfy power mower.

Haul out garbage? Use the disposer.

Tired businessmen can avoid the toil of changing razor blades by using miracle cutters which, you get the impression, outlast the shaver.

Men are also spared the fatigue of handknotting a cravat by wearing one that comes already tied. And the labor of stuffing a pocket handkerchief into a pocket has been eliminated with prepuffed kerchiefs.

Pants are now perma-pressed, shirts and dresses dry and iron themselves. And the ladies are promised that they soon can have a dishwasher that also scrubs pots and pans and polishes silverware, a light beam that disintegrates garbage and waste, an automatic potato, vegetable --yes, and onion -- peeler, a home laundry that washes, dries, irons, folds and . . .

What are we going to do with all our unused energy?

No problem. We can yell louder and fiercer at other drivers, travel farther and faster on more crowded highways, pay extra for stick-shift autos, lug logs for fireplaces, and eat outdoors, where we have to tote all the stuff back and forth.

And be as tired as ever.

Replied the mother: "My son, the yolk flinger."

DISQUALIFY THE POOR

One of the big issues in Washington these days is whether or not "poor" people should have a part in setting policy in the "war on poverty," or if they should be given jobs at "the neighborhood level" carrying out orders of Washington bureaucrats or local politicians. This, we agree, is a tough problem. Somehow, it just doesn't seem right to set some poverty-stricken fellow down as a member of the planning board alongside a bureaucrat who is drawing $18,000 a year -- unless you pay him something. Yet, if you pay him even a fraction of the salary of his bureaucrat fellow board members, suddenly he "ain't poor no more" and, theoretically, is disqualified.

If the poor fellow sits with the board at little or no pay, and doesn't get to say anything, or if the others pay his comments no mind, then sooner or later it will dawn on him and the impoverished citizens he supposedly represents that he's there just for show. On the other hand, if he makes suggestions which are adopted by the high-priced officials, then the question will eventually arise as to why he shouldn't be in charge.

Similar problems are certain if a few impoverished individuals are given anti-poverty jobs at the neighborhood level. From the moment they receive their first paycheck, those fellows will no longer be in the poverty class and other down-and-outers not lucky enough to get on the anti-poverty payroll will be aware of the fact. Anyone who thinks this will inspire impoverished onlookers to go out and look for real working-type jobs had better enroll in a correspondence course on human nature.

One side fears that unless the poor set policy, political bigwigs will exploit the program and the funds to further their own political ambitions. The other side contends that if the poor set policy, the program will be taken over by dissident political factions and opportunists who claim to speak for the poor. And Solomon himself would have to admit they are both right.

If the whole program can't be cancelled, what about converting all the funds into small bills, loading the money into crop-duster airplanes, and shovelling it out over poverty-stricken areas? Such a "dusting" would eradicate some poverty at least.

H. L. Hunt Says

SUBVERSION ON OUR DOORSTEP

Last week the Latin American Solidarity Organization held a convention in Havana. This outfit is an offshoot of the 1966 subversive Tricontinental Congress, also held in Havana. The recent meeting drew an attendance of far - out leftists from all parts of the Western Hemisphere. Their objective was to conspire with Fidel Castro on ways and means of escalating the bearded dictator's openly proclaimed program of spreading sabotage, terrorism and armed violence throughout the Americas.

The announced goal is to create "little Vietnams" in South America. Recent riots in Detroit, Newark and other U.S. cities should give Americans a good idea of what Castro is trying to do in neighboring countries to the South. And his territorists are making headway.

Castro said recently that the uprising he has manipulated in Bolivia, for instance, "proves that a regular army cannot defeat guerillas." A guerilla landing on the Venezuelan coast in May has been found to have been planned and executed under Castro direction and the landing force included Cuban military personnel. A branch of the Latin American Solidarity Organization has been established in Chile.

No doubt there was much gloating at the Havana meeting over such events as these. The U.S., incidentally, was "represented" at the convention by none other than Stokely Carmichael, who said in Havana: "In Newark, we applied war tactics of the guerillas. We are preparing groups of urban guerillas for our defense in the cities."

The Castro problem will not go away. It is literally on our doorstep, and is a constant theat to the hemisphere's freedom. HLH.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON - Vice President Hubert Humphrey pointed an accusing finger in the right direction when he blamed Congress last week for failing to respond to the crisis in our cities.

What Humphrey could have said, but discreetly didn't mention, is that Congress is run by a gaggle of old men from small towns, who have never been much interested in the problems of the cities.

Even as riots raged out of control in city after city, the old men cracked the whip and the House obediently voted down the rent-subsidy and rat-control programs. They also looped a whopping two thirds off the model-cities program. These are measures that would ease the pressure in the slums and help to prevent future riots.

Nor did the Senate Appropriations Committee, contemplating the House action, show much disposition to restore the cuts. Throughout the three-day hearings senators wandered in and out of the Ornate Committee Chamber without the slightest show or urgency.

At its most crowded moments only eight of the 17 committee members bothered to show up at the hearing. Usually only two or three were present.

Only 69-year-old Sen. Milton Young of LaMoure, N.D., showed any awareness that the riot-wrecked cities might have to be rebuilt. He demanded to know whether these cities would be "rewarded by receiving priority over other cities in the model-cities program."

Robert Weaver, the Negro secretary of Housing and Urban Development, hastily assured Young that no favoritism would be shown to cities hit by riots.

"It's a sad commentary," piped up 60-year-old Sen. Gordon Allott of Lamar, Colo., "that the Federal government has to provide 80 per cent of the money to help cities do the things they should have done anyway."

Weaver suggested tactfully: "The cities just don't have the financial capacity to do this."

PORK MORE POPULAR

Meanwhile, the House demonstrated far more eagerness to vote $4.6 billion for dams, parks, harbor improvements and other public works projects. This is the pork that wins them votes back home.

The bill was steered easily through the House by 80-year-old Rep. Mike Kirwan of Youngstown, Ohio, who received enthusiastic back pats from his pork-hungry colleagues.

One of the most ecstatic was 57-year-old Congressman Jamie Whitten of Charleston, Miss., who has blocked funds to help feed hungry Mississippi Negroes. Yet while he opposed spending one cent for food, he got $4 million out of Kirwan for public works projects in his state.

He verbally embraced Kirwan. "I have come to love him," exclaimed Whitten happily, "and to appreciate his great contributions to our nation."

This was how Congress fiddled while Newark and Detroit burned. It is also typical of how Congress has lost touch with the times.

For Congress has become largely a council of elders, dominated by tired old men whose only claim to power is their ability to outlive their colleagues. The seniority system has given command of the committees to these men, with no consideration for their ability, honesty, or possible senility.

The system has produced chairmen who are not representative of the country's geography, its desires, its politics or its people.

ALL-POWERFUL CHAIRMEN

The committee chairmen have the power to appoint subcommittees, to set hearings, to decide what witnesses will appear and to determine when and whether committee meetings will be held. They also have the first and last words in the floor debates.

With half the electorate under 30, the committee chairmen average more than 67 years of age. Most of them come from small rural towns. Most are southerners; thus Congress is not unlike a union army run by Confederate generals.

In the Senate, ten of the sixteen chairmen are from the south; the rest are westerners. Although 65 is often the mandatory retirement age in private industry, ten of the Senate chairmen are past that age and six are past 70.

The situation is much the same in the House. Of the twenty chairmanships, fourteen are held by Congressmen from southern and border states. Thirteen of these legislators are past 65, seven over 70.

Texas alone has five house chairmen -- Agriculture Chairman W. R. Poage, 68, of Waco; Appropriations Chairman George Mahon, 68, of Lubbock; Banking and Currency Chairman Wright Patman, 75, of Texarkana; Administration Chairman Omar Burleson, 62, of Anson, and Veterans Chairman Olin Teague, 57, of College Station.

The clamor to investigate big-city riots has come chiefly from House Un-American Activities Chairman Edwin Willis, 64, of St. Martinville, La.; Senate Internal Security Chairman James Eastland, 63, of Doddsville, Miss.; House Armed Services Chairman L. Mendel Rivers, 63, of Charleston, S.C., and Senate Armed Services Chairman Richard Russell, 70, of Winder, Ga.

Most of them belong to the clique in Congress which blames the Communists for all our evils. They apparently believe the race riots can be solved by sending Stokely Carmichael and his ilk to jail.

But while these old men are busy looking under their beds for the culprits, Humphrey's accusing finger is really pointing at them.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Harassed Firemen, Terrified Service Workers Urge 'Ghettos' To Cooperate With Them Against Guerrilla Hoodlums.

WASHINTGON, D.C.: -- Some call them "dangerous areas." Some call them "ghettos." But call these locations what you will, tens of thousands of unionized men and women, troubled and terrified, fear going into the districts to service them in "peaceful" moments or help reconstruct them after the turbulence.

For the first time, national labor leaders who have been in the vanguard of the fight to aid these very same ghettos are talking bluntly though not yet publicly.

These union chiefs want the ghetto to protect its friends -- the men and women who work for a living making life more livable in the big cities' inner cores. Hoodlum guerilla bands "in peace time" have assaulted female social workers, robbed and shot even sexually molested male telephone repairmen and installers, and during the riots have developed a system of fire bombings to draw off the police so more stores can be looted. There are local police records and FBI reports to verify all this.

Just the other day the leaders of the International Assn. of Fire Chiefs, conferring with William Buck, president of the International Assn. of Fire Fighters (AFL-CIO), realized there has been far more excessive guerrilla punishment of firemen than had been reported. The Fire Chiefs now are polling scores of communities for statistics on injury as well as publicized deaths occurring during civil disorders. When these questionnaires have been returned and analyzed there will be joint action by the Fire Chiefs and the Fire Fighters.

Few realize how many injuries, cripplings and defacements have resulted from the hurling of Molotov cocktails or rocks into fire squad cars, cutting the men or causing crashes.

The FBI has traced the riot strategy of the criminal bands. An incident flares on a hot weekend night. The hoods whip up "the action." Then they loot. Then they fire some buildings. This brings the hook-and-ladder equipment screaming in. Snipers take over. Police reinforcements are summoned. In one big city the red wagons have been protected by police cars manned by officers carrying submachine guns. This draws the cops from the store fronts. More looting.

Also, the thieves turn in false alarms on the theory that the howling sirens will excite and incite the community. So, the sirens are turned off. This results in auto crashes since the warning sounds are no longer heard. Thus there are hundreds of unreported injuries inflicted on the firemen.

Now the fire fighters union is offering $1,000 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of anyone thus causing the death or permanent injury of a fireman. The union still is fighting for Congressional legislation to make it a federal crime to interfere with firemen doing their duty.

This could cut down the vast number of false alarms now turned in. Over 60 per cent of all fire alarms in this city are false.

". . . (the fireman) must cope with great dangers: onrushing flames, great heat, poisonous gases, falling walls and the dangers of driving vehicles through crowded city streets," said Bill Buck recently. ". . . (but) we need help in getting protection in our flank from gun-toting, rock-wielding rioters."

The protection and cooperation of the ghetto community itself is being sought, too, by the Communications Workers of America (CWA), thousands of whose members struck AT&T in New York City the other day.

The local there has been urging the training of Negro youth for telephone company repairs and installation jobs -- there are many vacancies. Yet in some of the "dangerous areas" CWA men working in manholes or backyards are hit by garbage and tin cans, say the union officials bitterly.

"We want to help and will work anywhere," said Morton Barr, one CWA official. "But our people are frightened, not so much by the number of incidents but by the constant danger.

"We work alone. One of our men was picked up by three young hoodlums, two males and a girl. They took the chap's trousers. They put a gun to his temple. They rushed him to the roof. They wanted to amuse themselves, while waving that gun, by inflicting homosexual indignities on him. Today that chap's nerves are shattered. We got him transferred. But what of his replacement?"

The telephone installers go into dark basements and on to roof tops. They have had their cash and wristwatches stolen. Now they want to work in teams and help the ghettos. But they insist there must also be self-help. Otherwise the national union will offer a plan to bunch up all installation jobs on one street, close off that block and do the works in groups under protection.

Working in teams or groups has saved the electricians and the utility people.

But there is an uneasiness among all the skilled workers. The New York walkouts, involving all telephone service, including the overseas communications, are warnings which must alert the nation to the threat of a spreading boycott which can only irritate social wounds -- already raw.

The service men and women work hard for their daily bread. They want to make life easier for all communities. But theirs is an appeal to reason. They demand the hoodlums be taken off their backs.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Joseph Miederhoff

Deloma Carol Jordan Weds Paul Joseph Miederhoff

Miss Deloma Carol Jordan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Loy Jordan, Morehouse, exchanged marriage vows with Paul Joseph Miederhoff, son of Mrs. Clara Miederhoff, 321 Edmondson, at 10:30 a.m. June 12 in a ceremony at the St. Francis Xavier Catholic church.

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Walter J. McGrane officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride wore a white lace over satin street-length dress. Her nosetip veil was secured by a chiffon bow and flowers. She wore a corsage of pink carnations.

Miss Bonnie Warren, 404 West Murray Lane, was maid of honor. She wore a pink chiffon street-length dress. The empire waist was overlaid with pink cotton lace. She wore a corsage of white carnations.

Bob Wilson of Springfield, Ill., was best man.

The bride's mother wore a blue cotton print dress with white accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

The groom's mother wore a green whipped cream dress with beige accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

A reception was held at the home of the groom's mother.

The bride was a waitress at Thelma's Cafe in Morehouse before her marriage. The groom is serving in the navy.

Triplets Inseparable

LUBBOCK, Tex. AP - G. C. Adams and his two sisters, possibly the nation's oldest living set of triplets, celebrated their 80th birthdays at a party Sunday, and President Lyndon B. Johnson was among those sending congratulations.

Adams is a retired school teacher from Ardmore, Okla. His sisters are Nettie Clay of Lubbock and Cora Comer of Plainview, Tex.

Mrs. Clay said the trio never kept secrets from one another.

"We were inseparable," she related.

"That's for sure," broke in her husband, Tom. "Why, I could hardly ever get her alone when I was courting her. Those two were always around."

SNAKE SELLER

ELGIN, Ill. (AP) – Roy Memmin is in a business where there is no room for mistakes.

He has been collecting snakes for 42 years. He has supplied many zoos throughout the U.S. with reptiles he's caught.

"It's a nonpaying hobby," Memmin said. "I get $11 a snake for rattlers five feet and over – delivered. I sold 14 to Brookfield Zoo last year, but this year they're full up already."

He hunts snakes in Arizona's deserts, Oklahoma's hills and northwestern Illinois' hilly country around Galena.

He's only been bitten once, he said. That was in 1950 near Baraboo, Wis., and was hospitalized three days.

"Then I waited a day more, and went back to look for the one that bit me, but he'd cleared out," he said.

Mr. and Mrs. Orrin Hunt, Route One, will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary, Sunday at an open house from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. at their home given by their son, Orrin Hunt, Jr. and daughters, Mrs. O.M. McNeil and Mrs. Virginia Wray.

Woman Refuses To Be Given In Marriage

NOTTINGHAM, England (AP) – Elaine Boyes had no objection to marriage– she just didn't like being given away.

She insisted on walking alone to the altar rather than on her father's arm. She also objected to the Baptist minister's question: "Who gives this woman to be married to this man?"

"Marriage is an equal partnership," said Elaine, "and I have no intention of being given away like a cooker."

The preacher agreed to her objections, and without being given away she married Ian Whiting, 26, over the weekend. Elaine is 22.

The bride told newsmen: "The custom dates back to the time when girls were handed over to be dominated by the man."

Nancy Nyquist Pledges Vows With Gary Jolly

TWO HARBORS, Minn. ----- Miss Nancy Nyquist, daughter of Roy Nyquist, Hawthorne, Wis. became the bride of Gary Jolly, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland Jolly, Sikeston, Mo., at a 4 p.m. ceremony at the Bethlehem Lutheran church. The Rev. John Reppe officiated. The church was decorated with coral gladioli and yellow carnations. Paul Larson was the organist.

The bride chose a floor-length gown of chantilly lace over linen for her marriage. The lace bodice featured an oval neckline and dainty short sleeves. A veiling of lace was worn over the high waistline. A streamered bow added aisle interest. A pillbox held her veil of imported silk illusion. The bride carried a bouquet of white roses and stephanotis.

Miss Christy Larson, Two Harbors, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. Miss Shirley McCuskey, Solon Springs, Wis. was bridesmaid. The attendants' dresses were streetlength and were fashioned of coral bloom satin under chiffon. A satin ribbon encircled the empire waistline and formed a bow in the back. Pillbox hats of matching color were chosen to complete the attire. They carried bouquets of yellow roses.

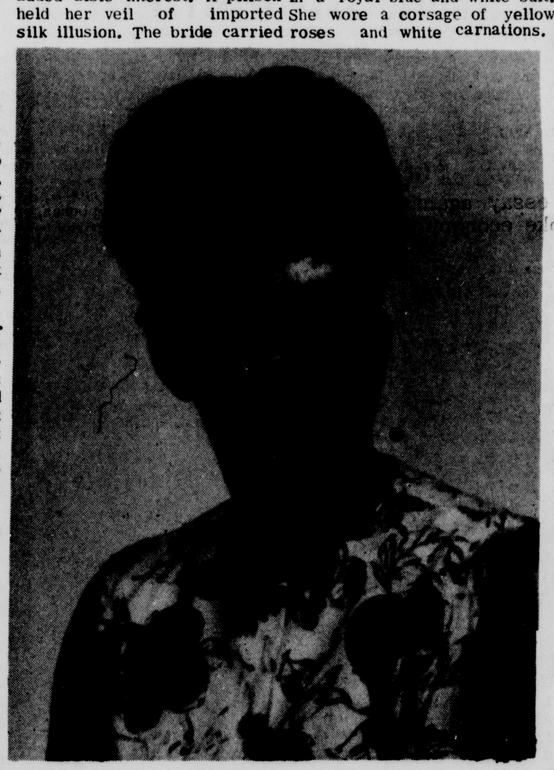
Best man was David McGroth, and James Williams was groomsman. Both are from New London, Conn.

The groom's mother was attired in a royal blue and white suit. She wore a corsage of yellow roses and white carnations.

A reception dinner at the Bon Aire Tea Rooms followed the ceremony.

For her going away costume the bride chose a navy and white suit with an orchid corsage.

The bride attended the University of Minnesota, Duluth, and was employed by Spooner City Schools, Spooner, Wis. The groom attended Missouri School of Mines. He is now serving with the navy. The couple will live in New London, Conn.



ARLENE STAGGS' engagement to Edgar Sexton of Cleveland, has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Skinner of Chester, Ill. The bride - elect, a resident of Morehouse, is employed at the War Drum. Sexton is serving in the army.

Couple Plans Oct. 8 Vows

PORTAGEVILLE --- Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hurley announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Carolyn, to Michael Lee Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Wilson of Benton, Ark.

The bride-elect is a 1965 graduate of Portageville High School and is presently employed with Cook's Gift and Jewelry.

The prospective bridegroom is a 1966 graduate of Benton, Ark., high school and is stationed at Blytheville air force base.

The wedding will be Oct. 8, at the First Methodist church.

It was my first contact with the early morning commuters on the Long Island Railroad. As the regulars started to arrive, I was surprised not to hear the expected casual exchanges about baseball and golf. Instead, the conversations ran mostly to numbers: "Nineteen," "Twelve," "Fourteen," etc. Curiosity drove me to listen more closely. I then discovered that the current status symbol is the imported stainless - steel razor blade. The commuters were reporting the number of shaves they'd had from one blade.

Dinner will begin at 6:30 p.m. and the party at 8 p.m. All Eastern Stars and their home guests from 49th, 50th, 51st and 52nd districts are invited. Admission is one covered dish.

I was completing my barn chores on a snowy, blustery November evening in nothern Minnesota when I saw the snow-covered figure of a hunter approaching. In the barn doorway the hunter wriggled out from under the carcass of a deer, which fell with a thump on the snow. "Pretty nice reward you have for bucking this kind of weather," I said.

"I was sure glad to see your lights!" a feminine voice replied. "For a while I thought I was lost in this storm."

I recognized my neighbor who lived about three miles away. "Why, Mrs. Clark," I blurted, "what are you trying to do? You're supposed to be in the hospital."

"No," she said, "the doctor discharged me yesterday - but he warned me to get more meat in my diet." E. O. Knight

Walker Gives Foresters Series

Lamar, Colo., Next

Gene Walker, a pickup by the Sikeston Potlatch Forest Connie Mack baseball team is perhaps the number one reason the Foresters leave for Lamar, Colo., Thursday.

Walker, who shut out Pine Bluff, Ark. in the second game of the best two out of three series for the Midwest regional Connie Mack championship Saturday with a one hitter walked to the mound for the Foresters Sunday and pitched them to a 7-2 win and the title.

Walker, who played for Dexter in the Black River league this past season, was asked to join the Sikeston team after the Foresters claimed the league title.

In Saturday night's contest that tied the playoffs at 1-1, Walker was sailing along on a no-hitter until the sixth when the leadoff batter, Joe Grayson, laid down a bunt that was fielded by Walker but no one was covering the bag. This ended his no-hit bid. He won 6-1.

Walker pitched the Foresters to the victory after Pine Bluff jumped ahead 2-0 in the third. The Foresters, behind the strategy of N. P. McDaniel and Wayne Limbaugh Sr. went ahead in the fourth with three runs and added three more in the fifth before capping its victory with a tally in the sixth.

Walker gave up three hits Sunday not allowing a run and got an 11-hit barrage from his teammates to corral the Arkansas.

Saturday, Sikeston battled through three scoreless frames before breaking lose for four runs in the fourth and added two in the sixth.

Gary Owens and Bruce Farris collected two hits for the Foresters Saturday while teammate Terry Scudder blasted a booming triple in the fourth to start the team off in the scoring column.

Farris and Owens again collected two hits in Sunday's game, while teammate Mike Garner had a two-hit day, including a triple. Owens had a two-run double.

Sikeston faced a pair of lefties Saturday, stroking eight hits and handing Hal Garman the loss.

Tommy Wilson, a hard throwing righthander, was the losing hurler in Sunday's game.

Ray Harrison had a double in Sunday's final game for Pine Bluff's only extra base hit of the series.

Sweep Cincy Series

Cards Continue

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The year of the streak in the National League is continuing along and about all the opponents of the St. Louis Cardinals have to console themselves with is a bit of ancient history.

The Cards won their fifth in a row Sunday, edging Cincinnati 3-2, while the Chicago Cubs lost their sixth straight, 6-4 to Atlanta, and fell into third place nine games off the pace.

The Cardinals should beware, however. It was almost exactly 10 years ago today that they started a nine-game losing streak while the Milwaukee Braves -- remember them? - won the first of 10 in a row and went on to the pennant.

In other National League games Sunday, San Francisco swept two from New York 9-7 in 10 innings and 4-1, Philadelphia beat Houston 8-4 and Los Angeles edged Pittsburgh 5-4.

In the American League, Minnesota no-hit Boston 2-0 in a rain-shortened 4 1/2 inning game, Baltimore won a doubleheader from Chicago 5-2 and 4-0, Washington bounced California 7-2, New York took Kansas City 9-6 and Detroit split with Cleveland, winning 7-3 and losing 6-3.

If the Cards are to start losing games instead of winning them, they'll have to play an entirely different brand of baseball. Not only are they hitting the ball quite nicely -- Orlando Cepeda hit his 20th homer Sunday -- but also they are taking care of each other.

Nelson Briles was breezing along on a shutout until the sixth, for instance, when all of a sudden his curve ball straightened out and the Reds got two runs.

But Ron Willis came in and took care of things and not another run scored. In his last 12 appearances, Willis hasn't given up a run.

The Cubs, on the other hand, can't seem to do anything right lately.

"We need a win," moaned Manager Leo Durocher. "Any kind of win and I don't care how we do it. Just a little hitting and one lousy damned win."

Joe Torre's two-run homer went a long way toward denying the Cubs that one win Sunday. Adolfo Phillips hit one out for the Cubs.

The Giants moved into second place on the strength of their two victories over the Mets. Ty Cline drove in the deciding run in the opener with a single in the 10th and Willie McCovey's three-run homer in the eighth won the nightcap.

Bill White clubbed a three-run homer, highlighting a five-run Phillies' rally in the eighth inning. It was the sixth win in a row for the Phillies. Ron Davis and pitcher Dave Giusti homered for the Astros.

Len Gabrielson had three hits and Ron Hunt drove in two runs for the Dodgers, who ended a five-game loss streak. Bob Miller got the Pirates out with men on first and third in the eighth by getting Donn Clendenon to hit into a double play.

COLUMBIA AP -- The Missouri junior boys' golf tournament was won Sunday by the four-man Columbia Country Club team for the second year in a row.

Scott Bess, Durk Price, Charles Diggins and Jeff Smith had a 36-hole score of 598 in the two-day tourney. Par on the University of Missouri course is 70.

Mike Farmer of Jefferson City was the individual champion with 141. Bess was second and Bill Koob of St. Louis was third with 144.

All-Stars Claim 12th Annual Title

By Ron Jaynes

Sikeston's All Stars captured the 12th Annual Sikeston Little League baseball tournament championship with a victory over Ilmo-Scott City Saturday night.

The Stars banged out 10 hits and 10 runs in hustling to their 10-1 championship victory before a capacity crowd at Puckett field.

The Sikeston Aces claimed third with a 6-0 victory over Portageville after dropping an 8-2 decision to Ilmo-Scott City in a semi-final contest.

Lynn Miller of the Sikeston All-Stars and Grant Volkerding of Ilmo-Scott City were named as the tournament's outstanding players with Ken Stokes of the All-Stars, Steve Hanschen of Ilmo-Scott City, Dewayne Self of the Sikeston Aces, Danny Brooks of Ilmo-Scott City, Mark Becker of the Aces and Roy Bowman of the All-Stars being given honorable mention.

Ken Stokes teamed with Lynn Miller, Charles Miller and Roy Bowman to lead the team in hitting with two safeties each. Stokes hit a leadoff homer in the fifth inning while teammates Lynn Miller and Charles Miller connected on doubles.

Sikeston pushed across three runs in the first and added one in the fifth before wrapping up the victory with six in the sixth.

ISC's run came in the sixth. Terry Blattel led the six-hit ISC attack with a three for three performances at the plate, including a double.

Ken Stokes was the winning hurler for the Stars. Danny Brooks took the loss.

In the consolation contest, Timmy Watkins collected two hits including a double in leading a five-hit Ace attack against Portageville's Greg Jones.

Mark Becker pitched a one hitter against the Portageville squad, giving up a double with one out in the sixth.

Sikeston broke lose for four runs in the third and added two in the fifth for its six.

Mike Schaffer scattered six hits to the Sikeston Aces in the semi-final contest and sailed into the championship game with an 8-2 win.

Terry Blattel and Steve Hanshen led the six hit Ilmo attack with two safeties. Hanshen had a double, as their team scored a run in the top of the second after Sikeston jumped out front in the first and added four in the fourth and three in the fifth for the victory.

James Long had two hits for the Aces in two trips to the plate. Dewayne Self, Bruce Lawrence, Rich Schwartz and Hanshen doubled.

Softball Action Continues

BELL CITY -- The SEMO softball tournament moved along over the weekend with two games Saturday and two Sunday.

In Saturday's round, New Hamburg Shindlers rode the perfect game pitching of Gil Roberts to a 4-0 victory over the Benton Aces. Robert struck out 13.

Ray Scherer was the losing hurler.

Ken Scheeter collected the game's only extra base hit, a two-run triple for New Hamburg.

General Tire blanked Blodgett 4-0 in the final game Saturday night as Earl Cotner won, striking out seven while giving up only two hits.

General had seven hits off loser Sonny Glaus.

Sunday's games had Bell City squeaking past Atlas 3-2 and New Hamburg Blues edging the Benton Culls 5-4.

Don Robert gave up six hits, two more than the loser, Ferrell Marler, but won the game, capitalizing on Atlas walks and errors.

Norman Heuring gave New Hamburg Blues their win with a homer in the sixth inning as Junior Kern hurled a three hitter for the win. Larry Glaus was tagged with the loss, allowing five hits.

Action resumes Tomorrow night as Isco meets Oran at 7:30 p.m. and Rose Con goes against Kelso at 9 p.m.

Oran Claims

MORLEY -- Oran, behind the two-hit pitching of Tim Halter, claimed the SEMO high school baseball crown Saturday with an 8-0 victory over Scott Central.

Both teams were tied with identical records going into the game, 11-2. Oran's defeats were at the hands of Chaffee and Benton while Central's were administered by Oran and Delta.

Halter fanned 13 Central batsmen, allowing one walk and two hits in seven innings of pitching.

Morris Karnes was knocked around for 15 hits while striking out nine and walking two.

Cairo, Bloomfield Truimph In Tournament

Cairo and Bloomfield opened the 12th Annual Sikeston invitational baseball tournament for Little Leaguers 11 and 12 years old yesterday afternoon with victories. Cairo edged Sikeston's Aces 2-1 and Bloomfield crept past Bertrand 6-4.

Eighteen teams have entered the tournament. The winner will be determined Saturday night.

Three games are slated for tonight beginning at 6 p.m. with the Sikeston American League All-Stars meeting Matthews followed at 7:30 p.m. by the game matching Lilbourn and Charleston. At 9 p.m. Chaffee meets Dexter.

Jimmy Warden pitched a two hitter at the Aces. Teammates Kevin Hill and Billy Story singled in the sixth inning and scored to overcome a 10-deficit.

Dennis Breedlove was the losing Sikeston hurler, allowing four hits, two in the final frame.

Rick Eisenbach did all the hitting for the Aces with singles in the first and third innings.

Bloomfield jumped to a 4-0 lead with four runs in the bottom of the second inning and sailed to its victory, adding two runs in the fourth after Bertrand tallied in the third and pushed across three in the sixth.

Each team had a player smack a homer, Bob Roundsville connected on a two-run blast in the fourth while Bob Crosno scored a three-run job in Bertrand's sixth.

Chester Marrow had the games only other extra base hit, a double in the sixth.

George Baldwin was the winning pitcher, allowing four runs on three hits. Boyd Pattengill was the losing hurler, giving up five hits and six runs.

Letters to the Editor

August 3, 1967

Mr. C. L. Blanton, Jr.
SIKESTON STANDARD
Sikeston, Missouri

Dear Mr. Blanton:

A poll financed by the AFL-CIO reveals that union members do not share the hostility of salaried union officials toward state laws prohibiting compulsory union membership.

This revelation confirms the widespread suspicion that union professionals speak for themselves - and not for the rank and file -- on this fundamental issue.

Union officials obviously have a selfish interest in collective bargaining agreements which authorize the firing of employees who refuse to pay union dues. Today thousands of Missouri workers are victims of such agreements.

There is nothing wrong with the labor movement which cannot be cured by a dose of voluntarism. A Missouri Right To Work law will benefit union members and the general public. It will restrain dictatorial union bosses by restoring control of the unions to the rank and file.

Very truly yours,
Gene Mittelberg
Executive Secretary,
Missourians For Right To Work

The Sikeston Standard
Sikeston, Missouri

Gentlemen:

Enclosed is a statement of facts concerning my recent arrest for speeding and the disposition of the case in BENTON, MISSOURI which I am sure will interest your legal department.

Records will show that my drivers license of the State of Illinois does not show any violations other than a meter parking violation in past years and that insurance companies have issued a safe driver certificate for my liability and accident insurance.

In this matter, however, I believe that the Sikeston Standard should be very much interested on behalf of their readers as well as the motoring public who visit your city. On the evening in question, I had a guaranteed (hold for arrival) reservation in the Holiday Inn in your town and therefore was not in any hurry reach my destination. I am sure that incidents like this have come to the attention of the Sikeston Standard in the past and I know that your paper is interested in stamping out practices such as these.

This was not an isolated incident over this holiday week-end as I personally observed radar patrols on I-55 in various sectors of SCOTT County on succeeding days and I am sure that a check of past holidays will show a high record of arrests of this type.

Cordially yours,
S. J. Rowley
2700 S. Avers Ave.
Chicago, Ill., 60623.

This statement of facts by S. J. Rowley is not offered as a defense or alibi for the speeding charge involved, but is detailed because of his belief that his treatment by officials of SCOTT COUNTY, BENTON, MISSOURI is not in the best interests of the motoring public that use interstate highway I-55 in SCOTT COUNTY, MISSOURI.

On June 30, 1967 at 9:05 p.m. I was stopped by the MISSOURI STATE HIGHWAY PATROL on interstate I-55 approximately 5 miles north of Sikeston, Mo., and informed that their radar unit showed me to be speeding 81 M.P.H. I protested that my speedometer showed 69 M.P.H. and that if their radar showed a car at 81 M.P.H. then they had apprehended the wrong motor vehicle. I was told to follow the officer to the sheriff's office in SIKESTON, MISSOURI.

I was introduced to deputy sheriff of SCOTT COUNTY, "J. STEWART" who showed me a graduated bond and fine schedule for arrests of this type. It called for a $25.00 bond for up to 10 M.P.H. over the speed limit of 70 M.P.H. and $1.00 per mile fine for each mile over the limit of 70 M.P.H. and $35.00 bond for over 10 M.P.H. and $1.50 per mile for each mile over 70 M.P.H. and over 15 M.P.H. the bonds and fines graduated upwards.

I then realized why I had been conveniently charged with 81 M.P.H. and so informed both the arresting officer "N.R. GRISSOM" as well as deputy sheriff "J. STEWART" but to no avail. I then offered an American Oil Motor Club bail bond certificate and was informed by deputy "STEWART" that it would not be accepted. I then questioned the acceptance of an "A.A.A." bail bond card and was told that it would not be accepted until the "A.A.A." representative was contacted in Cape Girardeau, Mo. and came to Sikeston, Mo., which is over 30 miles away and of course as this was the July 4th week-end this would be most impossible. Personal checks would not be honored and a cash bond was the only alternative.

I then supplied the $35.00 cash and was told to sign the appearance bond, (per copy) which I did, and was then told to sign a plea of guilty to which I refused. When I refused to sign this plea of guilty, deputy "STEWART" informed me that this would change matters and that it was within his power to lock me in his jail until court convened on July 5th. I still refused and after considerable discussion in which I informed deputy "STEWART" that I intended to appear on my court date "JULY 11, 1967" and to be represented by consul and even though I did not expect to win the case, I still would protest the statement of the arresting officer as well as the correctness of his indentification of my vehicle due to poor visibility at the time of night as well as the fact that he allowed a truck that I was behind to proceed unmolested.

On July 5th, by telephone from Chicago, I called Att. C. Matthews in Sikeston, Mo. to employ him to represent me on JULY 11, 1967 and was informed that because his law partner was the prosecuting attorney, ethics would prevent him from doing so. I then called Att. Dement and because of economics did not employ him at that time. The next day I received an envelope post-marked JULY 5, 1967, Benton, Mo. and it contained (per copy) a refund check for $6.50 and with an itemized statement that a fine and court costs of $28.50 had been levied against me on JULY 5th, 1967 - A FULL 6 DAYS BEFORE MY COURT DATE OF JULY 11, 1967.

I believe that the denial of acceptance of a bail bond certificate of a reputable motor club plus the threat of incarceration to await trial and the PRIOR DISPOSAL of a court case before the trial date clearly indicates a violation of the rights of the American motoring public and should be given the maximum amount of publicity so that these rights of the motoring public can be protected to the fullest extent of the law.

Senath Man Charged with Bluff Shooting

POPLAR BLUFF -- Mickell C. Crossno, 22, a Senath area laborer, was arraigned in magistrate court on a charge of felonious assault in the alleged shooting of Clarence Allen, age 30.

Crossno waived his right to a preliminary hearing and was bound over for trial in the Circuit Court. Magistrate Jack Jolly set his bond at $10,000.

Crossno allegedly shot Allen about 8 Wednesday night at Allen's home situated just north of the Poplar Bluff Job Corps Conservation Center on Highway 67 North.

Officers arrested Crossno as a suspect a few minutes later as he drove south on the highway at Osborn's Market, south of the Loma Linda.

Authorities said Crossno formerly was married to Allen's wife.

Dexter Signs Planning Contract

DEXTER -- Formal contracts, between the city of Dexter, the General Planning and Resource Consultants, and the State of Missouri, were formally approved by Mayor Willis Conner and the City Council here Wednesday and Dexter's share of the total cost of the project, amounting to $5,265, has been sent to the state agency in Jefferson City along with the signed documents.

The actual planning program is expected to start early in September. Gerwin Rohrbach, president of the General Planning and Resource Consultants, said this week that he was prepared to meet with the City Planning Commission early in September so that the work could begin.

Under the terms of the contract, the federal government, acting through the state agency, is paying two-thirds of the cost of the planning program and the city is paying the other one-third.

The planning program is expected to take 18 months to complete. Officials of the planning agency have emphasized that the project will need the support of the entire community if it is to be successful. A detailed "scope of services" has been approved, which calls for a detailed study of all phases of life in the community, plus recommendations for changes and improvements to meet the needs for the next several years.

The City Planning Commission will have nominal charge of the program working with the City Council and officials of the consulting firm, as well as State officials.

THIS IS A SMILING LOT following a day's work at the North Lilbourn housing group after five weeks of repainting and remodeling homes on Delmo projects. Shortage of Teachers Continues in State

JEFFERSON CITY - Missouri's public schools are about to begin another school year with a tremendous shortage of teachers.

The shortage was revealed today by Commission of Education Hubert Wheeler of the state department of education.

Wheeler said that more than 400 public school administrators were surveyed today at the conclusion of a two-day cooperative conference of the administrators and State Department of Education personnel at Jefferson City.

"The reports submitted indicate that we need some 1,600 additional teachers -- about the same as last year at this time -- when we open the new school year in a few weeks," Wheeler stated. "The situation is a critical one and we're doing everything that the professional limitations will allow to alleviate the problem."

Wheeler noted that the report represented 39,878 professional employees in Missouri's public schools -- or approximately 90 per cent of the total staff. Total vacancies listed in the survey numbered 1,455.

The classification and number of teachers needed:

Agriculture 2, English 73, home economics 13, music 59, art 30, foreign language 42, industrial arts 73, science 67, business 31, physical education and Driver Education 77, mathematics 82, total secondary teachers: 584.

Elementary 552, kindergarten 83, special education 147, guidance counselors 51 and librarians 39.

At the conference, Wheeler reminded the superintendents that the state board of education has approved an emergency measure which was designed to assist in alleviating the teacher shortage. The measure reads, in part:

"A person holding a baccalaureate degree such as a bachelor of arts, bachelor of journalism, bachelor of science, etc., with an academic major, even though he has little or no professional education, may be able to qualify for a one-year teacher's certificate. The prospective teacher must first sign an academic contract with an accredited college outlining all requirements for full certification. Signing the contract will signify the person's commitment to work toward full certification as a teacher. The state department of education will then, on the request of the superintendent, issue one-year teacher's certificiate."

The 24 - year - old soldier is a 1961 graduate of Dexter High School.

His wife, Carolyn, lives in Bloomfield, Mo.

Four mockingbirds top the list of pet species - not counting the customary dogs - that have shared the households of Presidents of the United States. Martha Washington brought to the President's Palace (there wasn't yet a White House) a mockingbird given to her by a suitor who predated George. Thomas Jefferson, a widower, got much enjoyment from his pet mockingbird; when alone, he let the bird out of its cage to perch on a shoulder and pluck a cherry from his lips. Grover Cleveland was irked by his wife's mockingbird. Its outpouring of song disturbed him, as well it might; a robust mocker has been clocked by an orinithologist at 143 calls in 16 minutes - averaging nine per minute - that included imitations of 24 other kinds of birds. The Calvin Coolidges in 1924 received a gift mockingbird that became musical director of the Coolidges' canaries. The somebody informed Mrs. Coolidge that, as its owner, she was liable for a fine of $50 or a month in jail -- so the bird went. Wild-songbird protection laws had decreed that the era of mockingbirds in the White House -- or any other house -- has passed forever.

Insurance Rates on Dwellings Increased

CHICAGO --- Dwelling insurance rates and coverage in Missouri have been revised by companies affiliated with the Missouri Inspection Bureau.

The revisions, based on adverse loss experience in the state, will apply to homeowners policies as well as fire and extended coverage policies.

For most policyholders, the rate will be increased between 15 and 25 per cent, depending upon the specific type and amount of insurance selected. For most policyholders, deductibles will apply to more perils than before.

The bureau said it is expected that the wider use of deductibles will eliminate the immediate need for a much larger rate increase.

A deductible means that the policyholders pay for the first $50 of damage. Under the homeowners policy, the deductible is the disappearing type in that it gets smaller as the claim increases, disappearing altogether when the claim reaches $500.

For the vast majority of homeowners policyholders, rates will be raised 15 to 20 per cent. Homeowners policies are written for three years and include reimbursement for loss caused by fire, storms and other perils as well as comprehensive personal liability coverage and theft insurance.

Most persons who insure their property by fire and extended coverage policies will receive about a 20 per cent increase. Extended coverage is a form attached to most fire policies and includes protection against windstorm, hail, explosion, riot and other perils.

Persons who desire full coverage (without the deductible feature) will continue to have it available to them. For homeowners as well as fire and extended coverage policies, the cost of full coverage is being increased.

The Missouri Inspection Bureau said that companies have been consistently losing money on dwelling insurance in the state in recent years.

For example, the bureau said, since the introduction of the homeowners policy in Missouri in 1959, companies have paid out $1.18 in losses and expenses for every $1 received in premiums.

On fire insurance policies, the losses have been even more staggering, according to the bureau.

The last rate revision on homeowners policies in Missouri was in 1964. The last fire insurance rate change was in 1965 and the last extended coverage change was in 1964.

The revisions announced have been approved by the Missouri division of insurance.

Car Topics For Lady Pedal Pushers

CARS AND PEOPLE ON VACATION

As evidenced by the travel boom, American families do enjoy traveling by car. It is the most flexible and least expensive way to go.

There is nothing like a vacation trip to bring out the best or worst in the family car and its passengers. And the condition of the vehicle itself can make a big difference in the family's emotional, even physical condition.

Car sickness, for example, can be exaggerated by a car that sets up a bobbing motion on secondary roads. Weak shock absorbers can cause this.

A shimmy or shake, caused by unbalanced or misaligned wheels, can insidiously fray passengers' nerves, not to mention what it does to the driver. Fumes from leaking exhaust or a clogged engine ventillation valve can induce nausea, or worse yet, drowsiness.

Rattles, smeary wiper blades, an erratic radio or even concern about an over-heating engine can disquiet an otherwise happy family. As the miles roll up on the odometer, the condition worsens for both car and driver, the net result often being an accident.

To help prevent this, have your car in good shape before you leave home. Then, at least, you will have started out on the right foot. And if problems should develop en route, as they sometimes do, have them corrected right away. It is foolhardy to try to live with them when excellent parts and service facilities are scattered in every city and hamlet throughout the country.

Some families keep their schedules sufficiently flexible to allow for service stops in case they should need them. This can even provide a pleasant relief from driving and give you a chance to see something of the areas you normally would roar right through.

Best of all, when the family climbs aboard to continue the trip, you all will be in a better frame of mind, knowing the car is safe. The driver particularly will be benefited by this.

With mechanical problems out of the way he can concentrate on what he is doing and, of course, watch out for th a t crazy driver who is bound to show up sooner or later.

Bombs on Coventry

For 11 hours of that night in 1940 when the Germans were bent upon the destruction of Coventry, England, the Luftwaffe dropped 225 tons of bombs on the city, practically destroying it and its famous cathedral.

Saltpeter Source

During the War of 1812, Mammoth Cave, Ky., was almost the only source of saltpeter for the blockaded and powder-poor United States. The saltpeter, an important ingredient of gunpowder, was extracted from the bat guano of the cave.

WHERE'S MY BABY?

PERTH (AP) — Taxi driver Glen Lawson, 39, picked up a young woman and four young children in the suburb of Floreat.

As the family climbed into his taxi, Lawson folded up the woman's pram and packed it in the trunk of the car.

They had travelled only half a mile when the woman suddenly asked: "Where's my baby? I've got five children."

Lawson pulled up quickly and opened the trunk. He pulled the pram out, unfolded it—and found the baby unharmed.

Said a shaken Lawson: "I thought she had groceries in the pram. We had a good laugh over it."

Scott County Health

1966 Annual Report

INTRODUCTION

1966 was the first year for some time that the Scott County Health Department operated without a deficit. We are in the black again. The coding system of recorded work was again simplified. This left off some items we would like to record at the local level. Our personnal tried to keep separate records for these, and succeeded partially.

In August 1966, our very superior nurse, Mrs. Sandra Burke, who was working on a special state immunization project, was sent to the District Number 4 office. Her departure left a decided gap in our staff.

In September, Mrs. Anna Smith, P.H.N. and Midwife, who taught parent classes, trained and supervised our midwives, retired after years of excellent service. Miss Emily White, PHN, who worked under Mrs. Smith's guidance, replaced her in Scott, Mississippi, and New Madrid Counties. Since her work was not entirely satisfactory, she left December 23, 1966.

Dr. Buckthorpe, Health Officer, went on part time; because full time employment had become difficult for her.

SHE FLUNKED

PRESTONSBURG, Ky. (AP) — Norman Allen overheard this conversation while a woman was taking her exam for a driver's license.

"What is the white line for in the middle of the road?" asked the state trooper.

"That," she replied positively, "is for bicycles."

HINTS FOR TEENAGERS

...From your Sewing Editor

CLOTHES CRAZY IN PAPER

Would you rather be a paper tigress or a paper doll? Throw away your fashion inhibitions and wrap yourself up in a bright, new paper package. Paper fabric is now available by the yard in bold prints, brilliant colors and textured solids. If you tend to be timid when choosing a fabric and style for a garment you expect to wear several seasons, turn yourself on to the possibilities of paper. Paper clothes are inexpensive, quick to make and meant to be utterly mad.

Paper dressing started as a larky party thing and exploded into a whole new way of thinking about leisure-time clothes. Begin your paper wardrobe with a brief Bikini, for sunning only, and finish with a floor-length hostess gown. Fill the blank spaces in between with any whim your sensible side has been repressing; and don't forget to add paper jewelry and accessories. Wear a paper garment once, twice, even three times and throw it away. You might find a new style that's absolutely you and make it again in a durable fabric.

Is paper fabric really paper? No, if you want to be technical, it's a nonwoven cellulose strengthened with a synthetic fiber. It should be flame proof. Always check the label to be sure, before you buy.

HOW TO

To make a paper dress, you need a pattern. We asked the sewing experts at Coats & Clark for some words of wisdom on the subject of what and how. This yoked tent dress with an inverted front pleat (McCalls 8755) perfectly illustrates their pointers for sewing paper material. The style is simple: collarless, sleeveless, easy-fitting. It has few pattern pieces to cut and few seams to sew. The new "Dual Duty" thread is ideal. Adjust your machine for a long stitch (8-10 stitches per inch); a smaller stitch would chop too many holes in the paper. Press seams open with a dry iron set for synthetic fabrics.

Neck and armhole facings are out; double fold bias tape is in, as the best way to protect these stress areas. A zipper is optional. It can easily be removed from a discarded paper dress to use again. The zipper alternative is to leave an opening in the center back seam large enough for your head. Close the neck opening with a loop and button. The loop is made from an extension of the neck binding and the button must be stitched to the fabric tape, not the paper. The final step is snip . . . snip . . . snip around the hemline. Are you ready for the fun of your first public appearance in paper?

The Quick Cover-Up

It's a summer when towels are made for wearing. They're too pretty to waste their talents indoors.

Intricate sculptured designs and rich colorings of new cotton terry towels lend themselves beautifully to beachwear.

Here's an example of what can be done with just two bath towels, some pre-folded cotton tape, and your sewing machine. It's a clever cover-up called a "mini-toga" that can be made without a pattern. And you'll have enough fabric left to make a matching beach bag.

Instructions also include easy-to-follow directions for stitching up an ankle-length toga from two bath towels.

For free leaflet, send a self-addressed stamped envelope to The Singer Company, Mini-Toga Leaflet, Box 224, Times Square Station, New York, N. Y. 10036.

Mill Building Carpenter Moves to Sikeston

50 years ago
August 7, 1917

William Wallace moved his family to Sikeston from Cape Girardeau Thursday of last week. Mr. Wallace is one of the carpenters on the new Scott County Milling Co., building.

Miss Esther Moore, who visited Mrs. Cliffie Gallian over Sunday, left Tuesday morning for an extended visit in Olney, Ill.

Clay Stubbs of Sikeston, who has been in Bloomfield acting as organizer for the big Ezzell Store Company's sale, was kicked by a Ford car while cranking it Wednesday, and sustained a fractured arm.

William T. Rushing, who has been studying music under a former teacher, Sam Bollinger in St. Louis during the past two months, has returned to his home in Bertrand. He will teach music in Sikeston this winter, beginning classes in September.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Hall announce the birth of a daughter on August 2.

Hess & Co., one of the leading drug stores in Sikeston, will occupy the room, formerly the home of the DeCant Shop, in the McCoy-Tanner building, by the 15th of August, if the room is ready for occupancy.

Due to the heavy supply of beans that were picked last weekend, the canning factory was forced to work overtime. There were no beans brought in after noon on Saturday, but the amount already on hand kept the force busy until after midnight Saturday and busy until noon again Sunday.

The poems of Mrs. M. M. Beck are gaining in popularity. Two more of her poems were published in the St. Louis papers last week.

August 7, 1937

Ben Harrison Hazel, 45, residing in Southeast Missouri nearly all of his life, died Sunday noon in St. Francis Hospital of typhoid fever.

Dr. and Mrs. H. E. Reuber, who had been visiting in Canada, Minnesota and other northern points for the past five weeks, returned home Tuesday night.

Mr. and Mrs. Larry O. Hatfield of Laurel, Miss., announce the birth of their daughter, Ann Elizabeth, at St. Francis Hospital in Cape Girardeau on August 7. Mrs. Hatfield was formerly Miss Emily Blanton of Sikeston.

Neighbor Girl in Bikini Increases Yard Work

Dear Ann Landers: I just walked out on the front porch to check the mail box and I was amazed to see our neighbor, a 15-year-old girl, washing the family car. Nothing unusual, you might say? Well, it is 65 degrees outside and the girl is wearing a bikini.

This young lady is as voluptuous and full blown as any Hollywood star you can name. You ought to see the husbands on this block gawking. Two of them suddenly decided to work on their lawns. My old geezer is out there now, fixing the front step. I've been begging him for two months to do this repair job for me but he was never able to find the time. Until NOW.

Is there a law against appearing in public almost naked? To whom should I complain? --- LOVE THY WHAT?

Dear Love: You complained to me. That's enough. There is a law against indecent exposure, but since bikinis are not illegal, you would have no case. Be glad you got the step fixed and forget it.

Dear Ann Landers: Our two-year-old son had some dark spots on his teeth which I feared might be the start of decay. I made an appointment with a new dentist in town.

When we arrived the nurse informed me that mothers are not allowed beyond the reception room door. I might add our child is very shy and is not accustomed to strangers.

The dentist heard me arguing with the nurse and agreed to let me come in with my child since he was only having a checkup. One of these days the child will need dentistry and then what should I do?

My husband who will not even leave our car alone with a mechanic says I should leave the boy in the hands of the professionals.

I can't help but feel it would be a mistake to dump a shy child with two strangers and a drill. What do you say? --- CONSCIENTIOUS OBJECTOR

Dear Con: It's time your child become "accustomed to strangers" because he will be meeting a good many of them out there in the world.

Apparently you selected a dentist in whom you had confidence. Now you must abide by his rules. One thing is certain -- the dentist has had more experience along these lines than you.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a mother who needs an answer to something that has been bothering me for quite some time.

I have two daughters -- 14 months apart. The younger girl is quite a bit larger than the older girl. She is also quicker to learn and makes better grades than her older sister. The younger girl breaks, tears and spills things about three times as often as the older one. She has fractured the same arm twice and has dislocated her collar bone three times. What does this mean? --- RIVERSIDE

Dear Riverside: It means that the younger girl is high-strung, less careful than her older sister, and she is also accident-prone.

Confidential to Best Foot Forward?: Who are you trying to kid? You know perfectly well if you really wanted to put your best foot forward you would step out of the picture.

What awaits you on the other side of the marriage veil? How can you be sure your marriage will work? Read Ann Landers' booklet "Marriage -- What To Expect." Send your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper enclosing 50¢ in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Symington Opposed to Troop Order

WASHINGTON -- In answer to requests for comment on the President's message to Congress, asking for a tax increase and additional troops in Vietnam, Senator Stuart Symington (D-Mo) said:

"No one wants to pay higher taxes, but if the President believes additional taxes are necessary, because of this great and growing debt, along with our continuing unfavorable balance of payments, I will support his decision.

"But I cannot support a decision to send additional ground troops to Vietnam. The new figure mentioned will result in our having over 500,000 troops in the Vietnamese theater, not counting the Fleet.

"For over two years it has been my considered opinion that we would have far more success in Vietnam with less troops if we would take the shackles off of our air power and sea power so they could both attack the scores of meaningful military targets in North Vietnam which even today remain untouched."

Parma Circle Has Luncheon

PARMA -- Mrs. Tom Womack of Catron was hostess at a luncheon at her home Thursday. Guests were women of the afternoon circle of the Women's Society of Christian Service of the First Methodist church.

Mrs. E. J. Reynolds, secretary-treasurer, conducted the business meeting in the absence of the circle chairman. A social hour concluded the afternoon.

Others attending were Mrs. Walter Frailey, Mrs. C. D. Brorain, Mrs. H. R. Woodside and Mrs. Sidney Lindley of Parma and Mrs. Martin Bondurant and Mrs. Henry Womack of Catron.

Ste. Genevieve to Greet Visitors This Weekend

STE. GENEVIEVE -- St. Genevieve will be host to its second annual Jour de Fete celebration Saturday and Sunday. A variety of continuous and special activities is being planned for the days of celebration.

Highlighting the program of continuous events will be tours of historic buildings and sites. Among them are the Bolduc House, Amoureaux House, Old Slave House, The Green Tree Tavern, Old Brick House, Ste. Genevieve Museum, the old cemetery and the churches. The city has more than 20 homes built before 1800.

An art show will be held during the two-day festival with professional and amateur artists exhibiting their works. The work of many Ozark craftsmen will be on isplay.

The city square will be transformed into the village Ste. Genevieve was in the 1700's. Store windows will display antiques of a bygone era. Storekeepers and townspeople will be dressed in costume of 18th century Ste. Genevieve. A French market place will grace the city square with booths offering for sale the typical products for which Ste. Genevieve is famous; sausages, hams, homemade foods, quilts, soap, pecans and pralines. Traveling bands of musicians and dancers will perform.

Special events are planned. The Jour de Fete will officially begin with the dedication of the Pierre Marquette park at 10 a.m. Saturday. Following will be a parade featuring floats recalling the history of Ste. Genevieve. Other events scheduled for Saturday include an antique auction, German beer garden, old tyme street dancing, and the king's ball. A western rodeo will revive the Spanish and Wild West days. The famous La Guinolee also will appear.

Sunday morning is reserved for worship services in the city's churches. Sunday afternoon there will be a repeat performance of the rodeo together with band concert by the municipal band. A swimming exhibition and a muzzle loading rifle contest will round out the program.

Food is an important part of any celebration. In addition to Ste. Genevieve's famous restaurants organizations will offer everything from French ice cream to fried chicken and liver dumplings.

For those who venture to Ste. Genevieve, the oldest town West of the Mississippi a weekend of fun, excitement, and adventure is in store. For more information write: Ste. Genevieve Jour de Fete Committee, Box 368, Ste. Genevieve, Mo.

The Prayer From The Upper Room

Whosoever heareth these sayings of mine, and doeth them, I will liken him unto a wise man, which built his house upon a rock. (Matthew 7:24)

PRAYER: "In thee, O Lord, do I put my trust; let me never be ashamed: deliver me in thy righteousness. Bow down thine ear to me; deliver me speedily: be thou my strong rock, for an house of defence to save me. For thou art my rock and my fortress; therefore for thy name's sake lead me, and guide me." Amen.

In certain instances, if President Charles de Gaulle wants to charm or dazzle, he gives one a glimpse of his phenomenal memory.

A prominent financier called to discuss a complicated technical problem. With the help of his associates, he had prepared a careful summation. His arguments were closely reasoned and in perfect order. He had committed them to memory and recorded his talk on tape. It covered 11 points and took exactly 16 minutes.

He was ushered in and invited courteously to explain his problem. The banker discussed the 11 points according to plan. When he finished, de Gaulle took over, repeated the 11 points without distortion and in order, and methodically gave his advice on each one.

The financier left stupefied with admiration and permanently won over. - Pierre Viansson-Ponte

If You Were the Judge

Mental Patient Must Pay For Damage on Highway

By Jack Strauss, LL.D.

Patient Patty strolled nonchalantly out of a mental institution, found an automobile with its motor running and drove out onto the highway. Unfortunately, Patty's driving proved worse than her mental condition.

After scaring a dozen or more motorists off the road, she crashed head - on into Melvin's shiny new sports car. Hobbled by the accident, Melvin limped ferociously into court where he sued Patty for the damage to both himself and his car.

"I would have given her half the road," he told the judge plaintively, "but I couldn't tell which half she wanted. The girl drove like a nut!"

"That's exactly right," snapped Patty's attorney. "That's our defense. Patty was a nut! She was a patient in a mental institution and therefore Melvin can't collect. A person who isn't responsible can't be held responsible."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you make nutty Patty shell out?

This is how the judge ruled: He held that Patty had to pay. In doing so, he pointed out that as a general principal, an insane person may be held responsible for his civil wrongs the same as a sane person, except, perhaps in those cases where malice and therefore intention is a necessary ingredient.

In this case, concluded the judge, the general principal was applicable since the negligent operation of an automobile requires no specific intent or malice.

Macon District Highway Officals Visit Bootheel

Charley Rhea, district two, highway department engineer and his foremen from the Macon area, visited the Azalea Park on Missouri Route 72 south of Fredericktown while the men were on an inspection tour of district 10.

Other district 10 news:

F. M. Johns, maintenance foreman at Fredericktown, served as guide and accompanied the group on their trip through Madison, Bollinger and Wayne counties where they viewed phases of maintenance activities.

In the group were George Gatlin, area supervisor, Unionville; Wendell Harrison, area supervisor, Kirksville; Albert Enderle, area supervisor, Milan; Norman Mears, maintenance superintendent, Macon, John Goff, area supervisor, Brookfield; Harold Boxley, area supervisor, Macon; Richard Owens, area supervisor, Keytesville; and Ottice Jacobs, area supervisor, Chillicothe. Earl Crawford, construction inspector, retired June 30 after working for the department for 20 years. He will move to his farm home near Brighton.

Promotions this month included: James Robertson of Sikeston to district traffic studies engineer.

Russell Henry to maintenance crew leader at Wolf Island.

Miss Barbara Gaines of Charleston has been employed as a stenographer in the district office for the summer months.

Donald Gray of Steele has been reemployed as a maintenanceman.

Dennis Miller, computer - draftsman, has returned from military leave. Wayne Landis, inspection assistant, began his tour of duty June 20.

James Stephen Hogg, who served as governor of Texas from 1891 to 1895, was the state's first native-born governor.

Seven Vie in Primary Race For Governor

JACKSON, Miss., (AP)--Mississippi holds a Democratic primary election for governor Tuesday.

For any of the seven candidates for governor, a victory in the primary would be only one stop on the hard road to the governor's office. The consensus among political observers here is that the top two candidates will meet in a runoff second primary Aug. 29.

The victor in the second primary will face Republican Rubel L. Phillips in the general election Nov. 7. Phillips is a proven vote-getter who ran for governor in 1963 but lost to Paul B. Johnson.

Mississippi governors are forbidden by the state constitution to succeed themselves, so Gov. Johnson took the unprecedented step of running for lieutenant governor. He held the post when Ross R. Barnett was governor, from 1960 to 1964.

Observers generally agree that the leaders in the campaign for governor are Barnett, 69, whose determined opposition to integration of the University of Mississippi brought him national notice in 1962; U.S. Rep. John Bell Williams, 48, who bolted Democratic party discipline in 1964 to support Republican Barry Goldwater for president and as a result was stripped of his congressional seniority; and state Treasurer William F. Winter, 44, whose record as an administrator has been established in a series of state offices he has held.

William L. Waller of Jackson, the district attorney for three counties, and James E. Swan of Hattiesburg, part owner of a radio station, are also considered strong contenders, but not eough to earn places in the second primary.

Grandson of Morley Man Dies in Vietnam

MORLEY -- Word has been received of the death of Sgt. Le Roy O'Neal of St. Charles, grandson of Walter O'Neal.

Sergeant O'Neal died from gunshot wounds accidentally inflicted by American soldiers in Vietnam.

He had been in a hospital being treated for wounds sustained in combat and had walked outside the hospital, where he was shot by American soldiers.

The announcement of his promotion was made three hours after his death.

Survivors include his grandfather; his parents, the Rev. and Mrs. Leon O'Neal, St. Charles; three uncles, David and Abraham O'Neal, both of Morley, and Jim O'Neal, Sikeston, and three aunts, Mrs. Kenneth Emerson and Mrs. Jim Milan, both of Advance, and Barbara O'Neal, Morley.

O'Neal died July 31.

Services will be at 2 p.m. Thursday at Baue Funeral Home at St. Charles.

Burial will be in a St. Charles cemetery.

Spirit of Jesse James Haunts Former Home

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP)— The ghost of Jesse James hovered over his former home Wednesday when two billfolds were stolen there.

Missouri's well known train robber once lived at 1002 South 21st St. The present home of Miss Cumi Murdock, who reported the theft.

Miss Murdock and John Cox, were in the front yard working when the house was entered during the afternoon. Both Miss Murdock's and Cox's billfolds and a checkbook were stolen.

The man's billfold held between $125 and $139, police were told, while Miss Murdock's contained about $130.

The house was the home of Jessie James before he moved to the better known residence in the 1300 block of Lafayette St. where he was killed a few months later.

Woman Political Leader Dies

MEXICO, Mo. (AP) - Mrs. Linda Buffington, prominent in Missouri Democratic politics for many years, died Saturday in Audrain Hospital. She had been ill for months and had been hospitalized several times.

She was 78, had been a delegate to state and national Democratic party conventions, and had served as vice president of the Missouri Federation of Democratic Women.

She had been president of the League of Women Voters in Mexico and former president of the Women's Democratic Club of Audrain County.

She was the widow of James W. Buffington who practiced law here for more than 50 years before his death last year. Her father had been the mayor of Louisiana, Mo., the site of her birth.

Surviving are three children; Jim Buffington, Detroit, Mich.; Mrs. Melvin Whitesides, Jefferson City; and Mrs. W.E. Treibly, Overland, Mo.

Funeral services will be at 10:30 a.m. Monday at Arnold Funeral Home with burial at Elmwood Cemetery.

One of former President Eisenhower's favorite golf stories concerns a golfer who tried to induce a friend to join his foursome one day. "I'd love to," said the friend, "but I promised my wife. . ."

"Ah, come on," the golfer persisted, "forget your wife. Are you a man or a mouse?"

"I'm a man," the friend replied. "My wife is afraid of a mouse."

Mother Charged in Death of 4 Children

DUNSTABLE, Mass. (AP) — The bodies of four children, all of whom had been shot, were found today following an early morning fire at their Main Street home.

Dist. Atty. John J. Droney of Middlesex County said the children's mother, Mrs. Mary Connolly, about 40, had been booked and that the charge would be murder.

Droney said the four children had been shot and apparently had been dead since Sunday night.

The victims were the children of Mr. and Mrs. Francis G. Connolly Jr. Officials said the parents had returned to their home at 7 a.m., after the fire, which was discovered by a neighbor about three hours earlier, had been extinguished.

The victims were identified as Brenda, 16; Gregory, 11; Gary, 7, and Thomas, 3. Droney said three of the bodies were discovered in the living room, two of them on a mattress. The fourth child's body was found in a first-floor bedroom.

Capt. Baniel Murphy of the state police said the mother admitted shooting the children Sunday evening and setting fire to the house about 3:30 this morning.

He said she then drove to the town dump intending to commit suicide by carbon monoxide poisoning. The attempt failed and she was treated at St. Joseph's Hospital in nearby Lowell.

Dunstable is a small town in northeastern Massachusetts near the New Hampshire border.

A fifth Connolly child, Debbie, 18, who is working as a waitress on Cape Cod, was not at home at the time.

Heinkle Lists Plan for Fair Farm Standards

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — A five-point "fair farm standards program" to correct "chronic disparity of income realized by farmers," was proposed today by Fred V. Heinkel, president of the Missouri and Midcontinent Farmers Associations.

Speaking at the annual conventions of the two cooperatives, Heinkel pointed out farmers have efficiently utilized mechanization, research and education with the hope of improving the quality of their products and of bettering their individual position.

"However, this has resulted in greater total production than the free markets will take at prices that provide farm people with an income commensurate with the income of non-farm people," he said.

To correct this "chronice disparity of income realized by farmers," he proposed a "Fair Farm Standards Program," which should consist of:

Continuation of the Agricultural Act of 1965, with emphasis on Administrative policy to improve farm income.

Increase efforts toward development of more effective marketing cooperatives, including needed legislation and administrative assistance from the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Additional sources of capital for farmer cooperatives.

New legislation to provide market power for farmers.

A national food reserve.

"New legislation to permit the Commodity Credit Corporation to purchase farm products in the open market at up to 115 to 120 per cent of the loan rate could be most helpful," he said. The same law should provide that these products cannot be dumped back into the market but can be used only in case of emergency."

He said the loan rate on corn should be raised to $1.15 a bushel for 1968 and that the parity payment should be increased 10 cents a bushel. He added that that loan rate and parity payment for grain sorghums should receive similar increases.

More than 6,000 farmers are expected for the convention.

Ike's Illness Rated Minor

WASHINGTON (AP)— Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, suffering a minor digestive ailment, continued under observation today at the Army's Walter Reed General Hospital, his condition unchanged since Sunday, a spokesman said.

The hospital issued a one-sentence statement saying, "There has been no appreciable change in General Eisenhower's condition; medical observations continue."

The 76-year-old five-star general became ill Friday night at his home in Gettysburg, Pa., and was flown to Walter Reed on Saturday by helicopter.

His ailment has been described by hospital spokesman only in general terms, as a "minor gastro-intestinal upset."

On Sunday his condition was reported as greatly improved, and the statement said Eisenhower probably would not stay long in the hospital.

Medical tests and X-rays, they said Sunday, were encouraging.

Eisenhower's doctors, it was announced, planned to take advantage of his present stay to perform routine examinations and dental work which had been scheduled for later this month.

Eisenhower suffered an attack of acute gastroenteritis — an inflammation of the lining of the stomach and small intestine — last May and was hospitalized for eight days.

There has been no indication whether his present illness was recurrence of that ailment.

General Trying Rescue Hit

SAIGON (AP)— A U.S. Army brigadier general was wounded in the leg today when Viet Cong fire hit his helicopter as he was trying to rescue two crewmen from a downed helicopter on the outskirts of Saigon, U.S. sources reported.

There were other reports that three U.S. helicopters burned after being shot down and that two more were badly damaged in action 12 miles north of the capital.

The sources said the general, wounded in the lower right leg, was taken to the U.S. Army 3rd Field Hospital in Saigon, where he was reported in good condition. They said his aide, a lieutenant, was wounded in both legs and was also in good condition.

The names of the two officers were not disclosed pending notification of relatives.

The U.S. sources said the general was directing an air mobile assault of one American company and a company of South Vietnamese rangers when he saw that the helicopter had been shot down.

Just as the general's helicopter set down to try to rescue the crew, Viet Cong guerrillas opened fire with small arms and automatic weapons.

The helicopter quickly took off again without picking up the downed crewmen, the sources said. The crew of the general's helicopter was not hurt.

Military spokesmen said ground units were within 100 yards of reaching the two crewmen.

In other action, North Vietnamese troops stormed a U.S. Special Forces camp near the Cambodian border, inflicting moderate casualties on 600 South Vietnamese irregulars and their families. The Vietnamese army said the Communists left the bodies of 60 of their men when they were driven off after hours of fierce fighting.

There was no word if any of the dozen or so Americans in the camp were casualties.

In the air war, bad weather around Hanoi limited U.S. warplanes to strikes in the southern part of North Vietnam, with 134 missions flown against truck parks and storage areas. But Air Force pilots reported setting off 70 secondary explosions at one truck park just north of the demilitarized zone and believed they hit either surface-to-air missiles or artillery pieces.

The United States lost three more planes: an F4 Phantom shot down in the north with two crewmen missing, and a F100 Super Sabre shot down just south of Saigon, and a small observation plane shot down on a reconnaissance mission just below the demilitarized zone.

11 Injured Taken To Hospital

Eleven emergency patients were treated Saturday and Sunday at the Missouri Delta Community hospital:

Saturday Martha Ice was in a car accident on Davis Boulevard; Kenneth Wayne Marcum, East Prairie, was bitten by a dog.

Sunday Matthews Stevenson injured a finger on a jack; Carol Mulcahy was injured in a fall; Anderson Moore, East Prairie, stuck a stick in his eye; Russell Jones, New Madrid, fell and hurt an arm; Angela Ditto, East Prairie, cut her head on a coffee table; Barbara Dock stuck wire in a foot; Amos Pulliam, St. Peters, injured in a motorcycle accident; Virginia Pulliam, St. Peters, injured in a motorcycle accident; Chery Garrett, East Prairie, fell out of a car.

Fall Injures Cyclists

Two Sikeston youths were taken to Southeast Hospital in Cape Girardeau Sunday afternoon after suffering minor injuries in a motorcycle accident.

Clarence Templeton, 211 Daniel, the driver, and passenger Tony Poole, 16, 822 Ruth, were treated and released for cuts to the knees, elbows and shoulders.

The accident occurred at 2 p.m. Sunday in the 500 block of Carroll street when a large white German Shepherd ran in front of the motorcycle.

The dog was not injured.

Hearing Set for Youth Held in Family's Deaths

GEORGETOWN, Tex. (AP) — James Wolcott, who won't be 16 years old until Aug. 14, was held today for a juvenile delinquency hearing after gunfire killed his father, mother and sister.

Victims of the slayings in their home early Saturday were Dr. Gordon Wolcott, 56; his wife Elizabeth, 43, and their pretty daughter, also named Elizabeth, 17.

The father was a biology professor at Southwestern University in Georgetown. He formerly worked with the U.S. Public Health Service.

Funeral services for young Wolcott's family were set for today at the First Methodist Church.

Late Sunday night the youth said, "For all concerned it is best that I don't attend."

Officers said he had made an oral statement about the three deaths but they disclosed no details. He has been held in the Williamson County jail since the shootings. No charges had been filed.

County Judge Sam Stone said he would set the juvenile delinquency hearing, a civil proceeding, after burial of the slain Wolcotts.

Police Chief Frank Masur said seven shots from a .22-caliber rifle killed them.

The professor was found on a living room floor, two bullet wounds in his chest, his daughter, in her room, apparently shot twice as she prepared for bed. Mrs. Wolcott apparently was sleeping, the police chief said, when she was struck with three bullets.

Waters Files for New Senate Term

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Sen. William Baxter Waters, D-Liberty, filed for the Democratic nomination for state senator from the 17th senatorial district Friday.

Willard C. Reine

Former Area Man Named to Revenue Post

JEFFERSON CITY -- For the first time the Missouri department of revenue has engaged an assistant to the director for research and counsel.

Willard C. Reine joined the departmental staff Aug. 1 to assist the department of revenue in all phases of legal problems that might arise. He also will be responsible for determining the best method of updating the state revenue laws and associated rules and regulations.

Reine's appointment to the department of revenue was made in the conjunction with recommendations submitted in the Herzel Report, a study on departmental reorganization.

From 1960 to 1965 he was engaged in private law practice in East Prairie, and Charleston, Missouri. For the last three years he was assistant general counsel for the state division of insurance where he participated in the revision of the Missouri insurance law, adopted by the last general assembly.

Reine received a bachelor of science degree in political science from Central Missouri State College at Warrensburg in 1957. He graduated from the Missouri University law school at Columbia in 1960.

Enrolling Will Begin

Parents of elementary school children, grades one through six, who have moved to Sikeston and whose children did not attend in the public schools at the close last year, can enroll their children Thursday and Friday at the elementary school nearest their home.

Pupils will be assigned to their building and other enrollment procedures will be completed.

Parents who have first-graders who were not enrolled on spring enrollment Day May 12 may enroll their first-graders Thursday and Friday. First-graders must be six years old on or before Sept. 15, 1967.

All new students should present a valid birth certificate and a record or other evidence of a smallpox vaccination and immunizations against tetanus, diptheria, and polio.

Parents who have moved to a different location within the Sikeston school district may call the school where the child last attended and give the new address. If they are in a different school attendance area, their child's records will be sent to the school where he will attend.

A few of classrooms are expected to have excessive enrollments, making it necessary to transfer children to other schools.

Parents who have questions are asked to call the elementary school nearest their home or call the director of elementary education at 471-4454.

EAST PRAIRIE - Jimmy Welch, a night policeman, was found beaten unconscious at 2 a.m. today.

He was taken to Missouri Delta Community hospital at Sikeston.

Sheriff's officers are investigating.

Welch suffered a blow on the right side of his forehead and reportedly is doing fine, Mrs. Welch said today. X-rays will be taken later today.

Welch had stopped near the bowling alley to question two persons in an nearby alley. They ran and he followed. Someone jumped from some bushes and struck him, Mrs. Welch related.

East Prairie police reported that Welch's blackjack was found near the scene. Welch said he did not use the blackjack.

Troop Shifting Planned

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Pentagon plans to order to Vietnam large chunks of the last remaining combat divisions in the United States - and may not replace those units, sources report.

This would help meet President Johnson's new troop authorization for Vietnam which would raise the U.S. manpower commitment in the war to 525,000 by next summer.

Two top White House advisers indicate that meanwhile, U.S. allies in Vietnam are considering what additional troops they might send to back up their reported agreement on the need for increased pressure now against the Communists.

The advisers, Clark Clifford and Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, reported to President Johnson Saturday upon their return from a visit to South Vietnam, Thailand, Australia, New Zealand and South Korea.

"In each instance in our talks with each country, there was recognition that additional pressure should be exerted," said Clifford.

"Everyone feels now is the time for maximum effort," said Taylor, a former ambassador to Saigon. But both said they did not directly ask allies for more troops.

The 45,000-man increase in U.S. strength over the currently authorized 480,000 will go to Southeast Asia between October and next July and will consist mainly of units now classed as part of the Strategic Reserve.

This is an active duty force kept at home primarily to meet sudden contingencies abroad. For example, one Strategic Reserve division - the 82nd Airborne in North Carolina - provided a brigade to help squelch the 1965 Dominican Republic crisis.

Sources say Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara probably would defend this approach on two grounds:

-The Strategic Reserve exists to be used.

-President Johnson has directed McNamara to help hold down military expenditures.

The Pentagon could replace units pulled from the Strategic Reserve only after perhaps a year or 18 months, sources say. They reason the country might be able to risk temporary diminishing of the force while meeting the challenge of Vietnam.

Another alternative to meet the new manpower authorization is raising draft calls to levels much higher than the planned 24,000 a month. These men would go into entirely new fighting units for Vietnam service.

Police Report Three Accidents

Sikeston police investigated three accidents Saturday.

Charles C. Aters, 19, 846 Vernon, was charged with driving while intoxicated and operating a vehicle with defective brakes at 6:29 p.m.

The automobile he was driving struck the rear of a car driven by George B. Rucker, 214 Goode Dr., at North Main and Hunter, police reported. No injuries resulted.

Cars driven by Robert A. Grojean, 133 West Wakefield, and Mrs. Martha A. Ice, 28 Green Meadows, collided Saturday at Baker Lane and Davis Road. Both drivers and Charlie Ice, 3, a passenger in the Ice vehicle, were taken to the Missouri Delta Community hospital. Only Mrs. Ice was admitted. She is reported in satisfactory condition today.

A three car accident occurred at 8:15 p.m. Saturday in front of the Malone Theater on Malone. A car driven by the Rev. Fr. Justin Monaghan struck the rear of a stopped car driven by Michael Andrews, New Madrid, forcing it into the rear of another stopped automobile driven by Larry G. Gady, 627 East Gladys, police reported. No injuries resulted.

In other police activity, Ronnie R. Crawford, route four, Sikeston, and Lewis M. Gilliland, route four, Sikeston, were each charged with careless and imprudent driving at 7:45 p.m. Sunday at Main and Malone.

W. D. Simmon, Parma, was charged at 9:50 p.m. Friday on Murray Lane with driving while intoxicated, operating a vehicle with improper registration and improper exhaust.

Earl Watson, 320 Edmondson, reported to police that his daughter's blue and white English racer bicycle was taken from the front yard Saturday night.

Mrs. Doris Overby, Miner, reported that a gold and silver bicycle was taken from her residence during the weekend. She called police at 1:30 p.m. Sunday.

John Heller, 413 Illinois, reported to police Sunday that his daughter's blue and white bicycle was stolen.

Mother Charged in Death of 4 Children

DUNSTABLE, Mass. (AP) — The bodies of four children, all of whom had been shot, were found today following an early morning fire at their Main Street home.

Dist. Atty. John J. Droney of Middlesex County said the children's mother, Mrs. Mary Connolly, about 40, had been booked and that the charge would be murder.

Droney said the four children had been shot and apparently had been dead since Sunday night.

The victims were the children of Mr. and Mrs. Francis G. Connolly Jr. Officials said the parents had returned to their home at 7 a.m., after the fire, which was discovered by a neighbor about three hours earlier, had been extinguished.

The victims were identified as Brenda, 16; Gregory, 11; Gary, 7, and Thomas, 3. Droney said three of the bodies were discovered in the living room, two of them on a mattress. The fourth child's body was found in a first-floor bedroom.

Capt. Daniel Murphy of the state police said the mother admitted shooting the children Sunday evening and setting fire to the house about 3:30 this morning.

He said she then drove to the town dump intending to commit suicide by carbon monoxide poisoning. The attempt failed and she was treated at St. Joseph's Hospital in nearby Lowell.

Dunstable is a small town in northeastern Massachusetts near the New Hampshire border.

A fifth Connolly child, Debbie, 18, who is working as a waitress on Cape Cod, was not at home at the time.

Heinkle Lists Plan for Fair Farm Standards

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — A five-point "fair farm standards program" to correct "chronic disparity of income realized by farmers," was proposed today by Fred V. Heinkel, president of the Missouri and Midcontinent Farmers Associations.

Speaking at the annual conventions of the two cooperatives, Heinkel pointed out farmers have efficiently utilized mechanization, research and education with the hope of improving the quality of their products and of bettering their individual position.

"However, this has resulted in greater total production than the free markets will take at prices that provide farm people with an income commensurate with the income of non-farm people," he said.

To correct this "chronice disparity of income realized by farmers," he proposed a "Fair Farm Standards Program," which should consist of:

Continuation of the Agricultural Act of 1965, with emphasis on Administrative policy to improve farm income.

Increase efforts toward development of more effective marketing cooperatives, including needed legislation and administrative assistance from the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Additional sources of capital for farmer cooperatives.

New legislation to provide market power for farmers.

A national food reserve.

"New legislation to permit the Commodity Credit Corporation to purchase farm products in the open market at up to 115 to 120 per cent of the loan rate could be most helpful," he said. The same law should provide that these products cannot be dumped back into the market but can be used only in case of emergency."

He said the loan rate on corn should be raised to $1.15 a bushel for 1968 and that the parity payment should be increased 10 cents a bushel. He added that that loan rate and parity payment for grain sorghums should receive similar increases.

More than 6,000 farmers are expected for the convention.

Ike's Illness Rated Minor

WASHINGTON (AP)— Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, suffering a minor digestive ailment, continued under observation today at the Army's Walter Reed General Hospital, his condition unchanged since Sunday, a spokesman said.

The hospital issued a one-sentence statement saying, "There has been no appreciable change in General Eisenhower's condition; medical observations continue."

The 76-year-old five-star general became ill Friday night at his home in Gettysburg, Pa., and was flown to Walter Reed on Saturday by helicopter.

His ailment has been described by hospital spokesman only in general terms, as a "minor gastro-intestinal upset."

On Sunday his condition was reported as greatly improved, and the statement said Eisenhower probably would not stay long in the hospital.

Medical tests and X-rays, they said Sunday, were encouraging.

Eisenhower's doctors, it was announced, planned to take advantage of his present stay to perform routine examinations and dental work which had been scheduled for later this month.

Eisenhower suffered an attack of acute gastroenteritis — an inflammation of the lining of the stomach and small intestine — last May and was hospitalized for eight days.

There has been no indication whether his present illness was recurrence of that ailment.

Hearing Set for Youth Held in Family's Deaths

GEORGETOWN, Tex. (AP) — James Wolcott, who won't be 16 years old until Aug. 14, was held today for a juvenile delinquency hearing after gunfire killed his father, mother and sister.

Victims of the slayings in their home early Saturday were Dr. Gordon Wolcott, 56; his wife Elizabeth, 43, and their pretty daughter, also named Elizabeth, 17.

The father was a biology professor at Southwestern University in Georgetown. He formerly worked with the U.S. Public Health Service.

Funeral services for young Wolcott's family were set for today at the First Methodist Church.

Late Sunday night the youth said, "For all concerned it is best that I don't attend."

Officers said he had made an oral statement about the three deaths but they disclosed no details. He has been held in the Williamson County jail since the shootings. No charges had been filed.

County Judge Sam Stone said he would set the juvenile delinquency hearing, a civil proceeding, after burial of the slain Wolcotts.

Police Chief Frank Masur said seven shots from a .22-caliber rifle killed them.

The professor was found on a living room floor, two bullet wounds in his chest, his daughter, in her room, apparently shot twice as she prepared for bed. Mrs. Wolcott apparently was sleeping, the police chief said, when she was struck with three bullets.

General Trying Rescue Hit

SAIGON (AP)— A U.S. Army brigadier general was wounded in the leg today when Viet Cong fire hit his helicopter as he was trying to rescue two crewmen from a downed helicopter on the outskirts of Saigon, U.S. sources reported.

There were other reports that three U.S. helicopters burned after being shot down and that two more were badly damaged in action 12 miles north of the capital.

The sources said the general, wounded in the lower right leg, was taken to the U.S. Army 3rd Field Hospital in Saigon, where he was reported in good condition. They said his aide, a lieutenant, was wounded in both legs and was also in good condition.

The names of the two officers were not disclosed pending notification of relatives.

The U.S. sources said the general was directing an air mobile assault of one American company and a company of South Vietnamese rangers when he saw that the helicopter had been shot down.

Just as the general's helicopter set down to try to rescue the crew, Viet Cong guerrillas opened fire with small arms and automatic weapons.

The helicopter quickly took off again without picking up the downed crewmen, the sources said. The crew of the general's helicopter was not hurt.

Military spokesmen said ground units were within 100 yards of reaching the two crewmen.

In other action, North Vietnamese troops stormed a U.S. Special Forces camp near the Cambodian border, inflicting moderate casualties on 600 South Vietnamese irregulars and their families. The Vietnamese army said the Communists left the bodies of 60 of their men when they were driven off after hours of fierce fighting.

There was no word if any of the dozen or so Americans in the camp were casualties.

In the air war, bad weather around Hanoi limited U.S. warplanes to strikes in the southern part of North Vietnam, with 134 missions flown against truck parks and storage areas. But Air Force pilots reported setting off 70 secondary explosions at one truck park just north of the demilitarized zone and believed they hit either surface-to-air missiles or artillery pieces.

The United States lost three more planes; an F4 Phantom shot down in the north with two crewmen missing, and a F100 Super Sabre shot down just south of Saigon, and a small observation plane shot down on a reconnaissance mission just below the demilitarized zone.

11 Injured Taken To Hospital

Eleven emergency patients were treated Saturday and Sunday at the Missouri Delta Community hospital;

Saturday Martha Ice was in a car accident on Davis Boulevard; Kenneth Wayne Marcum, East Prairie, was bitten by a dog.

Sunday Matthews Stevenson injured a finger on a jack; Carol Mulcahy was injured in a fall; Anderson Moore, East Prairie, stuck a stick in his eye; Russell Jones, New Madrid, fell and hurt an arm; Angela Ditto, East Prairie, cut her head on a coffee table; Barbara Dock stuck wire in a foot; Amos Pulliam, St. Peters, injured in a motorcycle accident; Virginia Pulliam, St. Peters, injured in a motorcycle accident; Chery Garrett, East Prairie, fell out of a car.

Fall Injures Cyclists

Two Sikeston youths were taken to Southeast Hospital in Cape Girardeau Sunday afternoon after suffering minor injuries in a motorcycle accident.

Clarence Templeton, 211 Daniel, the driver, and passenger Tony Poole, 16, 822 Ruth, were treated and released for cuts to the knees, elbows and shoulders.

The accident occurred at 2 p.m. Sunday in the 500 block of Carroll street when a large white German Shepherd ran in front of the motorcycle.

The dog was not injured.

Willard C. Reine

Former Area Man Named to Revenue Post

JEFFERSON CITY -- For the first time the Missouri department of revenue has engaged an assistant to the director for research and counsel.

Willard C. Reine joined the departmental staff Aug. 1 to assist the department of revenue in all phases of legal problems that might arise. He also will be responsible for determining the best method of updating the state revenue laws and associated rules and regulations.

Reine's appointment to the department of revenue was made in the conjunction with recommendations submitted in the Herzel Report, a study on departmental reorganization.

From 1960 to 1965 he was engaged in private law practice in East Prairie, and Charleston, Missouri. For the last three years he was assistant general counsel for the state division of insurance where he participated in the revision of the Missouri insurance law, adopted by the last general assembly.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

THE U.S. BUILD UP IN THAILAND

The United States is carrying out a military build up in Thailand against the possibility that the Vietnam war may spill over the Thai borders and spread to all of Southeast Asia and beyond.

From the viewpoint of both the nations the move makes sense. Thailand has been designated as a Communist target by a dissident Thai element operating from Communist territory and believed coached by the Red Chinese. There has also been Communist infiltration into the country. So far this country is putting millions of dollars into building air and land bases, ports and roads, and railroads to serve them. It has increased the size of the U.S. military contingent in Thailand to 12,000 men, and more are believed to be on the way. There is some indication of plans to station big B52 bombers in the country.

BACKGROUND

Background of the buildup:

- Thailand is the United States' staunchest friend in Southeast Asia, the home of SEATO. It is strongly anti-Communist.

- There has been talk recently about a possible American move into Laos to cut the flow of Red troops and arms from North to South Vietnam along the Ho Chi Minh trail. There has also been talk about chasing Communist troops across the Vietnam border into Cambodia, which the Reds are using as a sanctuary.

- Thailand has been used by the United States as a base from which to bomb both North Vietnam and Communist positions in Laos.

The Communists - well aware of the U.S. buildup, Thailand's position and their own effort to infiltrate the country and set up a guerrilla campaign like that of the Viet Cong in South Vietnam - charged a few days ago that Thialand has moved invasion forces into Laos.

The U.S. State Department termed the report a bit of Communist propaganda.

KHORAT

The United States has a big base at Khorat (Nakon Ratchasima), 155 miles northeast of Bangkok, the Thai capital, with at least three squadrons of F-105 Thunder chiefs and F-4 Phantom jets presently used for patrolling Laos and Thailand.

Khorat also serves as headquarters for the 9th U.S. Army Logistical Command. Five miles outside the city, the U.S. has $50 million worth of tanks, armored personnel carriers, jeeps, artillery, field hospitals and heavy construction equipment.

Engineers built an all-weather road from Khorat to Chon Buri Port, 40 miles southeast of Bangkok, bypassing the congested Bangkok area and providing a separate supply route directly to the interior of the country. They are planning a 120-mile railroad on a parallel route.

Improvements are also being made on Sattahip Navy Base, 30 miles south of Chon Buri.

Khorat is ideally located for supporting operations in Laos or Cambodia, or both, if the war should break out in either place.

RAIL JUNCTION

Khorat is the junction for the two major railways serving the Thai northeast: one runs east to Ubon where the U.S. has a major air base; the other travels northwest to Udon Thani (and a third air base) and on to its terminal at Nong Khai, just across the Mekong River from Vientiane, the Laotian administrative capital.

Udon Thani, 420 miles northeast of Bangkok, has at least one squadron of Voodoo jets flying reconnaissance missions over Laos and Vietnam.

Ubon is connected by road to the north with Nakhon Phanom, across the Mekong from Thakek City, where there has been fighting between Laotian government forces and the pro-Communist Pathet Lao for the past three months.

Thakek, astride the easiest overland route into Communist - held Tchepone in Eastern Laos, is believed to be a threat to the Communists, since Tchepone would be the easiest from which to attack the Ho Chi Minh trail.

The Americans have a battalion of Seabees near where the Burmese, Laotian and Thai borders meet and they are busy constructing roads leading toward that border, intersection and toward the border of Laos' Houa Khong and Luang Prabang provinces, which the Pathet Lao have controlled for several years.

Weeds grow high on vacant lots on Davis Boulevard.

They are rank and unsightly, marring the well kept beauty of landscaped adjoining homes and are a menace to safety.

Particularly at intersections the high weeds obscure the view and could cause or contribute to an automobile accident in which occupants of cars might be killed or injured with heavy property damage.

Davis is posted for 30-mile-an-hour travel but some motorists go much faster than that probably because it normally is not heavily traveled and goes through a comparatively isolated area not built up on both sides of the street.

The speeding adds to the hazard to which high weeds are a contributing factor.

Property owners should cut the weeds.

If they don't the city should lose no time in cutting the weeds for them and billing the property owners for it.

This policy should be maintained throughout the summer for esthetic and safety reasons as well to maintain real estate values in an otherwise inviting residential area.

Continuous police patroling for speeders should hold down the temptation to convert the stretch into a raceway.

WHY ALLIES SHUN U.S.

Increasingly the United States finds itself virtually alone in meeting threats to the peace in the Far East, the Middle East and elsewhere around the world.

Our ally-less position is drawn into sharp focus by the announced plan of the British to pull out of the Far East entirely by the mid-1970s.

It also is underscored by the necessity to send Gen. Maxwell Taylor and Clark Clifford to allied nations fighting in Vietnam to request they increase troop commitments.

Just prior to the start of the Arab-Israeli war the United States attempted to gather together a task force of allied ships to test Egypt's blockade at the Gulf of Aqaba, but reportedly found so little support that plans were under way to go it alone when the war broke out.

Why does the United States find so little genuine support from once firm allies?

Undoubtedly a great deal of coolness stems from the indecisiveness and confusion that has marked our foreign policy since the Bay of Pigs fiasco. Some of it is probably due to a failure of our leaders to inspire allies to meet their responsibilities and help check Red aggression.

An amazing lack of discernment over which nations are friends and which are foes has marked this country's foreign policy in recent years. This dismal myopia has caused billions of foreign aid dollars to go to such tyrants as Tito of Yugoslavia, Sukarno of Indonesia, Nasser of Egypt and Nkrumah of Ghana.

Our allies must have weighed the advisability of lining up too strongly with a nation that apparently is unable to distinguish friend from sworn enemy.

Leaders of Rhodesia and Israel must wonder how United States foreign policy is formed.

With great gusto the United States joined in a United Nations punitive essay against friendly Rhodesia, voting to invoke economic sanctions against that African nation. Rhodesia's only offense was its refusal to bow to a demand by Great Britain that it turn over its government to natives totally incapable of ruling.

After watching the Russians send great quantities of planes, tanks and all manner of arms to Egypt, to replace perhaps half the equipment lost in the Arab-Israeli war, the United States Government continued officially to support a policy that would mean disaster for Israel - namely that they pull back from territory taken in the brief war.

In response to the heavy Russian arms buildup, the Administration's sole reply was to talk peevishly about punishing the amount of arms that had gone into the area.

Until the President resolves to win the war in Vietnam and greatly strengthen United States foreign policy, a continued coolness by our once strong allies can be predicted. - Globe-Democrat

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

If you had all the gold ever mined by man, it would be worth $112 billion and could be stacked, 90-feet deep, within a single baseball diamond. Incidentally, gold is so well distributed throughout the earth's crust there is probably some right in your own back yard—about a penny's worth per ton of dirt.

There are only three kinds of animals in the world that have black tongues—polar bears, chow dogs, and children who eat licorice.

The spirit-electrifying words of Jesus Christ have been translated into scores of languages, but if He returned to earth and spoke again in the same tongue, He would be understood only in three small villages on the Syrian-Lebanese border. They are the only places left where Western Aramaic, the language of Christ, is still in daily use.

No, Matilda, "blueberry slump" isn't a posture ailment among underprivileged berry pickers. It's a type of bread pudding popular on Cape Cod.

Still room for more: Despite all the worry about the population explosion, the United States is far from crowded. Only 6 per cent of our land is used for residential purposes.

Can you recall later in the day the dream that seemed so vivid last night? Inability to do so may indicate you're aging. Tests show that young people remember their dreams better than old people.

How it began: In the 12th century Emperor Swun-ho of China became so annoyed with the bickering in his harem that he invented a game played with 120 cards to keep his quarreling wives quiet. This may have been the first forerunner of the modern bridge club.

Quips from our contemporaries: Catholic Digest magazine reports this sign in a toy store: "If you don't see what you want, just cry for it."

Pleasures of the rich: For a man once believed to be the wealthiest in the world, the old Nizam of Hyderabad, who died last February, had a couple of inexpensive hobbies: he liked to write poetry—and to watch surgical operations.

Worth remembering: "There is no use going back to look for a lost opportunity. Someone else has found it."

Money to burn: Despite the popularity of the credit card Americans still wear out about $40 million in paper currency each day, which the government consigns to the flames. They say it makes a lovely light.

History lesson: Can you identify these U.S. presidents by the following nicknames— "Farmer President," "Ten-Cent Jimmy," "Grand Wrestler," "Prosperity's Advance Agent," and "Houdini in the White House"? They were George Washington, James Buchanan, Abraham Lincoln, William McKinley, and Franklin D. Roosevelt.

LOVELY LIFE FOR THE LAZY

We know all about tired blood, of course, from watching the television commercials.

But it's getting harder and harder to have tired blood. Or tired muscles, or tired bones, or tired anything except tired bank accounts.

That's because more and more things are being invented to make it easier and easier for us to put out less and less physical effort --and more and more money.

We can now, for example, sit hour after hour in front of the television set without once getting up or without moving anything but our eyes and, occasionally, a finger.

We can switch programs, adjust the picture, control the volume, turn the set on and off, even silence the commercials -- all by fingering a little gimmick in our hand.

On the highway, we can shift gears with minimal exertion by automatic drive. We can stop effortlessly on a devaluated dime by tiptoe - pressure power brakes. We can raise and lower the car windows, the radio antenna, the trunk lid, the convertible top, and goodness knows what else, by fiddling with little buttons and things here and there.

We can heat the house all winter long without ever doing anything but soaking up the heat -- and paying for it.

If we care for our lawns, we can ride a nice, comfy power mower.

Haul out garbage? Use the disposer.

Tired businessmen can avoid the toil of changing razor blades by using miracle cutters which, you get the impression, outlast the shaver.

Men are also spared the fatigue of handknotting a cravat by wearing one that comes already tied. And the labor of stuffing a pocket handkerchief into a pocket has been eliminated with prepuffed kerchiefs.

Pants are now perma-pressed, shirts and dresses dry and iron themselves. And the ladies are promised that they soon can have a dishwasher that also scrubs pots and pans and polishes silverware, a light beam that disintegrates garbage and waste, an automatic potato, vegetable --yes, and onion -- peeler, a home laundry that washes, dries, irons, folds and . . .

What are we going to do with all our unused energy?

No problem. We can yell louder and fiercer at other drivers, travel farther and faster on more crowded highways, pay extra for stick-shift autos, lug logs for fireplaces, and eat outdoors, where we have to tote all the stuff back and forth.

And be as tired as ever.

DISQUALIFY THE POOR

One of the big issues in Washington these days is whether or not "poor" people should have a part in setting policy in the "war on poverty," or if they should be given jobs at "the neighborhood level" carrying out orders of Washington bureaucrats or local politicians. This, we agree, is a tough problem. Somehow, it just doesn't seem right to set some poverty-stricken fellow down as a member of the planning board alongside a bureaucrat who is drawing $18,000 a year -- unless you pay him something. Yet, if you pay him even a fraction of the salary of his bureaucrat fellow board members, suddenly he "ain't poor no more" and, theoretically, is disqualified.

If the poor fellow sits with the board at little or no pay, and doesn't get to say anything, or if the others pay his comments no mind, then sooner or later it will dawn on him and the impoverished citizens he supposedly represents that he's there just for show. On the other hand, if he makes suggestions which are adopted by the high-priced officials, then the question will eventually arise as to why he shouldn't be in charge.

Similar problems are certain if a few impoverished individuals are given anti-poverty jobs at the neighborhood level. From the moment they receive their first paycheck, those fellows will no longer be in the poverty class and other down-and-outers not lucky enough to get on the anti-poverty payroll will be aware of the fact. Anyone who thinks this will inspire impoverished onlookers to go out and look for real working-type jobs had better enroll in a correspondence course on human nature.

One side fears that unless the poor set policy, political bigwigs will exploit the program and the funds to further their own political ambitions. The other side contends that if the poor set policy, the program will be taken over by dissident political factions and opportunists who claim to speak for the poor. And Solomon himself would have to admit they are both right.

If the whole program can't be cancelled, what about converting all the funds into small bills, loading the money into crop-duster airplanes, and shovelling it out over poverty-stricken areas? Such a "dusting" would eradicate some poverty at least.

SUBVERSION
ON OUR DOORSTEP

Last week the Latin American Solidarity Organization held a convention in Havana. This outfit is an offshoot of the 1966 subversive Tricontinental Congress, also held in Havana. The recent meeting drew an attendance of far - out leftists from all parts of the Western Hemisphere. Their objective was to conspire with Fidel Castro on ways and means of escalating the bearded dictator's openly proclaimed program of spreading sabotage, terrorism and armed violence throughout the Americas.

The announced goal is to create "little Vietnams" in South America. Recent riots in Detroit, Newark and other U.S. cities should give Americans a good idea of what Castro is trying to do in neighboring countries to the South. And his territorists are making headway.

Castro said recently that the uprising he has manipulated in Bolivia, for instance, "proves that a regular army cannot defeat guerillas." A guerilla landing on the Venezuelan coast in May has been found to have been planned and executed under Castro direction and the landing force included Cuban military personnel. A branch of the Latin American Solidarity Organization has been established in Chile.

No doubt there was much gloating at the Havana meeting over such events as these. The U.S., incidentally, was "represented" at the convention by none other than Stokely Carmichael, who said in Havana: "In Newark, we applied war tactics of the guerillas. We are preparing groups of urban guerillas for our defense in the cities."

The Castro problem will not go away. It is literally on our doorstep, and is a constant theat to the hemisphere's freedom. HLH.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON - Vice President Hubert Humphrey pointed an accusing finger in the right direction when he blamed Congress last week for failing to respond to the crisis in our cities.

What Humphrey could have said, but discreetly didn't mention, is that Congress is run by a gaggle of old men from small towns, who have never been much interested in the problems of the cities.

Even as riots raged out of control in city after city, the old men cracked the whip and the House obediently voted down the rent-subsidy and rat-control programs. They also looped a whopping two thirds off the model-cities program. These are measures that would ease the pressure in the slums and help to prevent future riots.

Nor did the Senate Appropriations Committee, contemplating the House action, show much disposition to restore the cuts. Throughout the three-day hearings senators wandered in and out of the Ornate Committee Chamber without the slightest show or urgency.

At its most crowded moments only eight of the 17 committee members bothered to show up at the hearing. Usually only two or three were present.

Only 69-year-old Sen. Milton Young of LaMoure, N.D., showed any awareness that the riot-wrecked cities might have to be rebuilt. He demanded to know whether these cities would be "rewarded by receiving priority over other cities in the model-cities program."

Robert Weaver, the Negro secretary of Housing and Urban Development, hastily assured Young that no favoritism would be shown to cities hit by riots.

"It's a sad commentary," piped up 60-year-old Sen. Gordon Allott of Lamar, Colo., "that the Federal government has to provide 80 per cent of the money to help cities do the things they should have done anyway."

Weaver suggested tactfully: "The cities just don't have the financial capacity to do this."

PORK MORE POPULAR

Meanwhile, the House demonstrated far more eagerness to vote $4.6 billion for dams, parks, harbor improvements and other public works projects. This is the pork that wins them votes back home.

The bill was steered easily through the House by 80-year-old Rep. Mike Kirwan of Youngstown, Ohio, who received enthusiastic back pats from his pork-hungry colleagues.

One of the most ecstatic was 57-year-old Congressman Jamie Whitten of Charleston, Miss., who has blocked funds to help feed hungry Mississippi Negroes. Yet while he opposed spending one cent for food, he got $4 million out of Kirwan for public works projects in his state.

He verbally embraced Kirwan. "I have come to love him," exclaimed Whitten happily, "and to appreciate his great contributions to our nation."

This was how Congress fiddled while Newark and Detroit burned. It is also typical of how Congress has lost touch with the times.

For Congress has become largely a council of elders, dominated by tired old men whose only claim to power is their ability to outlive their colleagues. The seniority system has given command of the committees to these men, with no consideration for their ability, honesty, or possible senility.

The system has produced chairmen who are not representative of the country's geography, its desires, its politics or its people.

ALL-POWERFUL CHAIRMEN

The committee chairmen have the power to appoint subcommittees, to set hearings, to decide what witnesses will appear and to determine when and whether committee meetings will be held. They also have the first and last words in the floor debates.

With half the electorate under 30, the committee chairmen average more than 67 years of age. Most of them come from small rural towns. Most are southerners; thus Congress is not unlike a union army run by Confederate generals.

In the Senate, ten of the sixteen chairmen are from the south; the rest are westerners. Although 65 is often the mandatory retirement age in private industry, ten of the Senate chairmen are past that age and six are past 70.

The situation is much the same in the House. Of the twenty chairmanships, fourteen are held by Congressmen from southern and border states. Thirteen of these legislators are past 65, seven over 70.

Texas alone has five house chairmen -- Agriculture Chairman W. R. Poage, 68, of Waco; Appropriations Chairman George Mahon, 68, of Lubbock; Banking and Currency Chairman Wright Patman, 75, of Texarkana; Administration Chairman Omar Burleson, 62, of Anson, and Veterans Chairman Olin Teague, 57, of College Station.

The clamor to investigate big-city riots has come chiefly from House Un-American Activities Chairman Edwin Willis, 64, of St. Martinville, La.; Senate Internal Security Chairman James Eastland, 63, of Doddsville, Miss.; House Armed Services Chairman L. Mendel Rivers, 63, of Charleston, S.C., and Senate Armed Services Chairman Richard Russell, 70, of Winder, Ga.

Most of them belong to the clique in Congress which blames the Communists for all our evils. They apparently believe the race riots can be solved by sending Stokely Carmichael and his ilk to jail.

But while these old men are busy looking under their beds for the culprits, Humphrey's accusing finger is really pointing at them.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Harassed Firemen, Terrified Service Workers Urge 'Ghettos' To Cooperate With Them Against Guerrilla Hoodlums.

WASHINTGON, D.C.: -- Some call them "dangerous areas." Some call them "ghettos." But call these locations what you will, tens of thousands of unionized men and women, troubled and terrified, fear going into the districts to service them in "peaceful" moments or help reconstruct them after the turbulence.

For the first time, national labor leaders who have been in the vanguard of the fight to aid these very same ghettos are talking bluntly though not yet publicly.

These union chiefs want the ghetto to protect its friends -- the men and women who work for a living making life more livable in the big cities' inner cores. Hoodlum guerilla bands "in peace time" have assaulted female social workers, robbed and shot even sexually molested male telephone repairmen and installers, and during the riots have developed a system of fire bombings to draw off the police so more stores can be looted. There are local police records and FBI reports to verify all this.

Just the other day the leaders of the International Assn. of Fire Chiefs, conferring with William Buck, president of the International Assn. of Fire Fighters (AFL-CIO), realized there has been far more excessive guerrilla punishment of firemen than had been reported. The Fire Chiefs now are polling scores of communities for statistics on injury as well as publicized deaths occurring during civil disorders. When these questionnaires have been returned and analyzed there will be joint action by the Fire Chiefs and the Fire Fighters.

Few realize how many injuries, cripplings and defacements have resulted from the hurling of Molotov cocktails or rocks into fire squad cars, cutting the men or causing crashes.

The FBI has traced the riot strategy of the criminal bands. An incident flares on a hot weekend night. The hoods whip up "the action." Then they loot. Then they fire some buildings. This brings the hook-and-ladder equipment screaming in. Snipers take over. Police reinforcements are summoned. In one big city the red wagons have been protected by police cars manned by officers carrying submachine guns. This draws the cops from the store fronts. More looting.

Also, the thieves turn in false alarms on the theory that the howling sirens will excite and incite the community. So, the sirens are turned off. This results in auto crashes since the warning sounds are no longer heard. Thus there are hundreds of unreported injuries inflicted on the firemen.

Now the fire fighters union is offering $1,000 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of anyone thus causing the death or permanent injury of a fireman. The union still is fighting for Congressional legislation to make it a federal crime to interfere with firemen doing their duty.

This could cut down the vast number of false alarms now turned in. Over 60 per cent of all fire alarms in this city are false.

". . . (the fireman) must cope with great dangers: onrushing flames, great heat, poisonous gases, falling walls and the dangers of driving vehicles through crowded city streets," said Bill Buck recently. ". . . (but) we need help in getting protection in our flank from gun-toting, rock-wielding rioters."

The protection and cooperation of the ghetto community itself is being sought, too, by the Communications Workers of America (CWA), thousands of whose members struck AT&T in New York City the other day.

The local there has been urging the training of Negro youth for telephone company repairs and installation jobs -- there are many vacancies. Yet in some of the "dangerous areas" CWA men working in manholes or backyards are hit by garbage and tin cans, say the union officials bitterly.

"We want to help and will work anywhere," said Morton Barr, one CWA official. "But our people are frightened, not so much by the number of incidents but by the constant danger.

"We work alone. One of our men was picked up by three young hoodlums, two males and a girl. They took the chap's trousers. They put a gun to his temple. They rushed him to the roof. They wanted to amuse themselves, while waving that gun, by inflicting homosexual indignities on him. Today that chap's nerves are shattered. We got him transferred. But what of his replacement?"

The telephone installers go into dark basements and on to roof tops. They have had their cash and wristwatches stolen. Now they want to work in teams and help the ghettos. But they insist there must also be self-help. Otherwise the national union will offer a plan to bunch up all installation jobs on one street, close off that block and do the works in groups under protection.

Working in teams or groups has saved the electricians and the utility people.

But there is an uneasiness among all the skilled workers. The New York walkouts, involving all telephone service, including the overseas communications, are warnings which must alert the nation to the threat of a spreading boycott which can only irritate social wounds -- already raw.

The service men and women work hard for their daily bread. They want to make life easier for all communities. But theirs is an appeal to reason. They demand the hoodlums be taken off their backs.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

THE U.S. BUILD UP IN THAILAND

The United States is carrying out a military build up in Thailand against the possibility that the Vietnam war may spill over the Thai borders and spread to all of Southeast Asia and beyond.

From the viewpoint of both the nations the move makes sense. Thailand has been designated as a Communist target by a dissident Thai element operating from Communist territory and believed coached by the Red Chinese. There has also been Communist infiltration into the country. So far this country is putting millions of dollars into building air and land bases, ports and roads, and railroads to serve them. It has increased the size of the U.S. military contingent in Thailand to 12,000 men, and more are believed to be on the way. There is some indication of plans to station big B52 bombers in the country.

BACKGROUND

Background of the buildup:

- Thailand is the United States' staunchest friend in Southeast Asia, the home of SEATO. It is strongly anti-Communist.

- There has been talk recently about a possible American move into Laos to cut the flow of Red troops and arms from North to South Vietnam along the Ho Chi Minh trail. Why does the United States find so little genuine support from once firm allies?

Undoubtedly a great deal of coolness stems from the indecisiveness and confusion that has marked our foreign policy since the Bay of Pigs fiasco. Some of it is probably due to a failure of our leaders to inspire allies to meet their responsibilities and help check Red aggression.

An amazing lack of discernment over which nations are friends and which are foes has marked this country's foreign policy in recent years. This dismal myopia has caused billions of foreign aid dollars to go to such tyrants as Tito of Yugoslavia, Sukarno of Indonesia, Nasser of Egypt and Nkrumah of Ghana.

Our allies must have weighed the advisability of lining up too strongly with a nation that apparently is unable to distinguish friend from sworn enemy.

Leaders of Rhodesia and Israel must wonder how United States foreign policy is formed.

With great gusto the United States joined in a United Nations punitive essay against friendly Rhodesia, voting to invoke economic sanctions against that African nation. Rhodesia's only offense was its refusal to bow to a demand by Great Britain that it turn over its government to natives totally incapable of ruling.

After watching the Russians send great quantities of planes, tanks and all manner of arms to Egypt, to replace perhaps half the equipment lost in the Arab-Israeli war, the United States Government continued officially to support a policy that would mean disaster for Israel - namely that they pull back from territory taken in the brief war.

In response to the heavy Russian arms buildup, the Administration's sole reply was to talk peevishly about punishing the amount of arms that had gone into the area.

Until the President resolves to win the war in Vietnam and greatly strengthen United States foreign policy, a continued coolness by our once strong allies can be predicted. - Globe-Democrat

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

If you had all the gold ever mined by man, it would be worth $112 billion and could be stacked, 90-feet deep, within a single baseball diamond. Incidentally, gold is so well distributed throughout the earth's crust there is probably some right in your own back yard—about a penny's worth per ton of dirt.

There are only three kinds of animals in the world that have black tongues—polar bears, chow dogs, and children who eat licorice.

The spirit-electrifying words of Jesus Christ have been translated into scores of languages, but if He returned to earth and spoke again in the same tongue, He would be understood only in three small villages on the Syrian-Lebanese border. They are the only places left where Western Aramaic, the language of Christ, is still in daily use.

No, Matilda, "blueberry slump" isn't a posture ailment among underprivileged berry pickers. It's a type of bread pudding popular on Cape Cod.

Still room for more: Despite all the worry about the population explosion, the United States is far from crowded. Only 6 per cent of our land is used for residential purposes.

Quotable notables: "Unrest of spirit is a mark of life."—Dr. Karl Menninger.

Can you recall later in the day the dream that seemed so vivid last night? Inability to do so may indicate you're aging. Tests show that young people remember their dreams better than old people.

How it began: In the 12th century Emperor Swun-ho of China became so annoyed with the bickering in his harem that he invented a game played with 120 cards to keep his quarreling wives quiet. This may have been the first forerunner of the modern bridge club.

Quips from our contemporaries: Catholic Digest magazine reports this sign in a toy store: "If you don't see what you want, just cry for it."

Pleasures of the rich: For a man once believed to be the wealthiest in the world, the old Nizam of Hyderabad, who died last February, had a couple of inexpensive hobbies: he liked to write poetry—and to watch surgical operations.

Worth remembering: "There is no use going back to look for a lost opportunity. Someone else has found it."

Money to burn: Despite the popularity of the credit card Americans still wear out about $40 million in paper currency each day, which the government consigns to the flames. They say it makes a lovely light.

History lesson: Can you identify these U.S. presidents by the following nicknames— "Farmer President," "Ten-Cent Jimmy," "Grand Wrestler," "Prosperity's Advance Agent," and "Houdini in the White House"? They were George Washington, James Buchanan, Abraham Lincoln, William McKinley, and Franklin D. Roosevelt.

It was John Masefield who observed, "Success is the brand on the brow of the man who aimed too low."

LOVELY LIFE FOR THE LAZY

We know all about tired blood, of course, from watching the television commercials.

But it's getting harder and harder to have tired blood. Or tired muscles, or tired bones, or tired anything except tired bank accounts.

That's because more and more things are being invented to make it easier and easier for us to put out less and less physical effort --and more and more money.

We can now, for example, sit hour after hour in front of the television set without once getting up or without moving anything but our eyes and, occasionally, a finger.

We can switch programs, adjust the picture, control the volume, turn the set on and off, even silence the commercials -- all by fingering a little gimmick in our hand.

On the highway, we can shift gears with minimal exertion by automatic drive. We can stop effortlessly on a devaluated dime by tiptoe - pressure power brakes. We can raise and lower the car windows, the radio antenna, the trunk lid, the convertible top, and goodness knows what else, by fiddling with little buttons and things here and there.

We can heat the house all winter long without ever doing anything but soaking up the heat -- and paying for it.

If we care for our lawns, we can ride a nice, comfy power mower.

Haul out garbage? Use the disposer.

Tired businessmen can avoid the toil of changing razor blades by using miracle cutters which, you get the impression, outlast the shaver.

Men are also spared the fatigue of handknotting a cravat by wearing one that comes already tied. And the labor of stuffing a pocket handkerchief into a pocket has been eliminated with prepuffed kerchiefs.

Pants are now perma-pressed, shirts and dresses dry and iron themselves. And the ladies are promised that they soon can have a dishwasher that also scrubs pots and pans and polishes silverware, a light beam that disintegrates garbage and waste, an automatic potato, vegetable --yes, and onion -- peeler, a home laundry that washes, dries, irons, folds and . . .

What are we going to do with all our unused energy?

No problem. We can yell louder and fiercer at other drivers, travel farther and faster on more crowded highways, pay extra for stick-shift autos, lug logs for fireplaces, and eat outdoors, where we have to tote all the stuff back and forth.

And be as tired as ever.

Replied the mother: "My son, the yolk flinger."

DISQUALIFY THE POOR

One of the big issues in Washington these days is whether or not "poor" people should have a part in setting policy in the "war on poverty," or if they should be given jobs at "the neighborhood level" carrying out orders of Washington bureaucrats or local politicians. This, we agree, is a tough problem. Somehow, it just doesn't seem right to set some poverty-stricken fellow down as a member of the planning board alongside a bureaucrat who is drawing $18,000 a year -- unless you pay him something. Yet, if you pay him even a fraction of the salary of his bureaucrat fellow board members, suddenly he "ain't poor no more" and, theoretically, is disqualified.

If the poor fellow sits with the board at little or no pay, and doesn't get to say anything, or if the others pay his comments no mind, then sooner or later it will dawn on him and the impoverished citizens he supposedly represents that he's there just for show. On the other hand, if he makes suggestions which are adopted by the high-priced officials, then the question will eventually arise as to why he shouldn't be in charge.

Similar problems are certain if a few impoverished individuals are given anti-poverty jobs at the neighborhood level. From the moment they receive their first paycheck, those fellows will no longer be in the poverty class and other down-and-outers not lucky enough to get on the anti-poverty payroll will be aware of the fact. Anyone who thinks this will inspire impoverished onlookers to go out and look for real working-type jobs had better enroll in a correspondence course on human nature.

One side fears that unless the poor set policy, political bigwigs will exploit the program and the funds to further their own political ambitions. The other side contends that if the poor set policy, the program will be taken over by dissident political factions and opportunists who claim to speak for the poor. And Solomon himself would have to admit they are both right.

If the whole program can't be cancelled, what about converting all the funds into small bills, loading the money into crop-duster airplanes, and shovelling it out over poverty-stricken areas? Such a "dusting" would eradicate some poverty at least.

On a holiday I can't imagine anything nicer than to sit idly in the living room and inhale the fragrance of a ham being baked in the adjoining kitchen by a fond female.

H. L. Hunt Says

SUBVERSION ON OUR DOORSTEP

Last week the Latin American Solidarity Organization held a convention in Havana. This outfit is an offshoot of the 1966 subversive Tricontinental Congress, also held in Havana. The recent meeting drew an attendance of far - out leftists from all parts of the Western Hemisphere. Their objective was to conspire with Fidel Castro on ways and means of escalating the bearded dictator's openly proclaimed program of spreading sabotage, terrorism and armed violence throughout the Americas.

The announced goal is to create "little Vietnams" in South America. Recent riots in Detroit, Newark and other U.S. cities should give Americans a good idea of what Castro is trying to do in neighboring countries to the South. And his territorists are making headway.

Castro said recently that the uprising he has manipulated in Bolivia, for instance, "proves that a regular army cannot defeat guerillas." A guerilla landing on the Venezuelan coast in May has been found to have been planned and executed under Castro direction and the landing force included Cuban military personnel. A branch of the Latin American Solidarity Organization has been established in Chile.

No doubt there was much gloating at the Havana meeting over such events as these. The U.S., incidentally, was "represented" at the convention by none other than Stokely Carmichael, who said in Havana: "In Newark, we applied war tactics of the guerillas. We are preparing groups of urban guerillas for our defense in the cities."

The Castro problem will not go away. It is literally on our doorstep, and is a constant theat to the hemisphere's freedom. HLH.

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON - Vice President Hubert Humphrey pointed an accusing finger in the right direction when he blamed Congress last week for failing to respond to the crisis in our cities.

What Humphrey could have said, but discreetly didn't mention, is that Congress is run by a gaggle of old men from small towns, who have never been much interested in the problems of the cities.

Even as riots raged out of control in city after city, the old men cracked the whip and the House obediently voted down the rent-subsidy and rat-control programs. They also looped a whopping two thirds off the model-cities program. These are measures that would ease the pressure in the slums and help to prevent future riots.

Nor did the Senate Appropriations Committee, contemplating the House action, show much disposition to restore the cuts. Throughout the three-day hearings senators wandered in and out of the Ornate Committee Chamber without the slightest show or urgency.

At its most crowded moments only eight of the 17 committee members bothered to show up at the hearing. Usually only two or three were present.

Only 69-year-old Sen. Milton Young of LaMoure, N.D., showed any awareness that the riot-wrecked cities might have to be rebuilt. He demanded to know whether these cities would be "rewarded by receiving priority over other cities in the model-cities program."

Robert Weaver, the Negro secretary of Housing and Urban Development, hastily assured Young that no favoritism would be shown to cities hit by riots.

"It's a sad commentary," piped up 60-year-old Sen. Gordon Allott of Lamar, Colo., "that the Federal government has to provide 80 per cent of the money to help cities do the things they should have done anyway."

Weaver suggested tactfully: "The cities just don't have the financial capacity to do this."

PORK MORE POPULAR

Meanwhile, the House demonstrated far more eagerness to vote $4.6 billion for dams, parks, harbor improvements and other public works projects. This is the pork that wins them votes back home.

The bill was steered easily through the House by 80-year-old Rep. Mike Kirwan of Youngstown, Ohio, who received enthusiastic back pats from his pork-hungry colleagues.

One of the most ecstatic was 57-year-old Congressman Jamie Whitten of Charleston, Miss., who has blocked funds to help feed hungry Mississippi Negroes. Yet while he opposed spending one cent for food, he got $4 million out of Kirwan for public works projects in his state.

He verbally embraced Kirwan. "I have come to love him," exclaimed Whitten happily, "and to appreciate his great contributions to our nation."

This was how Congress fiddled while Newark and Detroit burned. It is also typical of how Congress has lost touch with the times.

For Congress has become largely a council of elders, dominated by tired old men whose only claim to power is their ability to outlive their colleagues. The seniority system has given command of the committees to these men, with no consideration for their ability, honesty, or possible senility.

The system has produced chairmen who are not representative of the country's geography, its desires, its politics or its people.

ALL-POWERFUL CHAIRMEN

The committee chairmen have the power to appoint subcommittees, to set hearings, to decide what witnesses will appear and to determine when and whether committee meetings will be held. They also have the first and last words in the floor debates.

With half the electorate under 30, the committee chairmen average more than 67 years of age. Most of them come from small rural towns. Most are southerners; thus Congress is not unlike a union army run by Confederate generals.

In the Senate, ten of the sixteen chairmen are from the south; the rest are westerners. Although 65 is often the mandatory retirement age in private industry, ten of the Senate chairmen are past that age and six are past 70.

The situation is much the same in the House. Of the twenty chairmanships, fourteen are held by Congressmen from southern and border states. Thirteen of these legislators are past 65, seven over 70.

Texas alone has five house chairmen -- Agriculture Chairman W. R. Poage, 68, of Waco; Appropriations Chairman George Mahon, 68, of Lubbock; Banking and Currency Chairman Wright Patman, 75, of Texarkana; Administration Chairman Omar Burleson, 62, of Anson, and Veterans Chairman Olin Teague, 57, of College Station.

The clamor to investigate big-city riots has come chiefly from House Un-American Activities Chairman Edwin Willis, 64, of St. Martinville, La.; Senate Internal Security Chairman James Eastland, 63, of Doddsville, Miss.; House Armed Services Chairman L. Mendel Rivers, 63, of Charleston, S.C., and Senate Armed Services Chairman Richard Russell, 70, of Winder, Ga.

Most of them belong to the clique in Congress which blames the Communists for all our evils. They apparently believe the race riots can be solved by sending Stokely Carmichael and his ilk to jail.

But while these old men are busy looking under their beds for the culprits, Humphrey's accusing finger is really pointing at them.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Harassed Firemen, Terrified Service Workers Urge 'Ghettos' To Cooperate With Them Against Guerrilla Hoodlums.

WASHINGTON, D.C.: -- Some call them "dangerous areas." Some call them "ghettos." But call these locations what you will, tens of thousands of unionized men and women, troubled and terrified, fear going into the districts to service them in "peaceful" moments or help reconstruct them after the turbulence.

For the first time, national labor leaders who have been in the vanguard of the fight to aid these very same ghettos are talking bluntly though not yet publicly.

These union chiefs want the ghetto to protect its friends -- the men and women who work for a living making life more livable in the big cities' inner cores. Hoodlum guerilla bands "in peace time" have assaulted female social workers, robbed and shot even sexually molested male telephone repairmen and installers, and during the riots have developed a system of fire bombings to draw off the police so more stores can be looted. There are local police records and FBI reports to verify all this.

Just the other day the leaders of the International Assn. of Fire Chiefs, conferring with William Buck, president of the International Assn. of Fire Fighters (AFL-CIO), realized there has been far more excessive guerrilla punishment of firemen than had been reported. The Fire Chiefs now are polling scores of communities for statistics on injury as well as publicized deaths occurring during civil disorders. When these questionnaires have been returned and analyzed there will be joint action by the Fire Chiefs and the Fire Fighters.

Few realize how many injuries, cripplings and defacements have resulted from the hurling of Molotov cocktails or rocks into fire squad cars, cutting the men or causing crashes.

The FBI has traced the riot strategy of the criminal bands. An incident flares on a hot weekend night. The hoods whip up "the action." Then they loot. Then they fire some buildings. This brings the hook-and-ladder equipment screaming in. Snipers take over. Police reinforcements are summoned. In one big city the red wagons have been protected by police cars manned by officers carrying submachine guns. This draws the cops from the store fronts. More looting.

Also, the thieves turn in false alarms on the theory that the howling sirens will excite and incite the community. So, the sirens are turned off. This results in auto crashes since the warning sounds are no longer heard. Thus there are hundreds of unreported injuries inflicted on the firemen.

Now the fire fighters union is offering $1,000 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of anyone thus causing the death or permanent injury of a fireman. The union still is fighting for Congressional legislation to make it a federal crime to interfere with firemen doing their duty.

This could cut down the vast number of false alarms now turned in. Over 60 per cent of all fire alarms in this city are false.

". . . (the fireman) must cope with great dangers: onrushing flames, great heat, poisonous gases, falling walls and the dangers of driving vehicles through crowded city streets," said Bill Buck recently. ". . . (but) we need help in getting protection in our flank from gun-toting, rock-wielding rioters."

The protection and cooperation of the ghetto community itself is being sought, too, by the Communications Workers of America (CWA), thousands of whose members struck AT&T in New York City the other day.

The local there has been urging the training of Negro youth for telephone company repairs and installation jobs -- there are many vacancies. Yet in some of the "dangerous areas" CWA men working in manholes or backyards are hit by garbage and tin cans, say the union officials bitterly.

"We want to help and will work anywhere," said Morton Barr, one CWA official. "But our people are frightened, not so much by the number of incidents but by the constant danger.

"We work alone. One of our men was picked up by three young hoodlums, two males and a girl. They took the chap's trousers. They put a gun to his temple. They rushed him to the roof. They wanted to amuse themselves, while waving that gun, by inflicting homosexual indignities on him. Today that chap's nerves are shattered. We got him transferred. But what of his replacement?"

The telephone installers go into dark basements and on to roof tops. They have had their cash and wristwatches stolen. Now they want to work in teams and help the ghettos. But they insist there must also be self-help. Otherwise the national union will offer a plan to bunch up all installation jobs on one street, close off that block and do the works in groups under protection.

Working in teams or groups has saved the electricians and the utility people.

But there is an uneasiness among all the skilled workers. The New York walkouts, involving all telephone service, including the overseas communications, are warnings which must alert the nation to the threat of a spreading boycott which can only irritate social wounds -- already raw.

The service men and women work hard for their daily bread. They want to make life easier for all communities. But theirs is an appeal to reason. They demand the hoodlums be taken off their backs.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Joseph Miederhoff

Deloma Carol Jordan Weds Paul Joseph Miederhoff

Miss Deloma Carol Jordan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Loy Jordan, Morehouse, exchanged marriage vows with Paul Joseph Miederhoff, son of Mrs. Clara Miederhoff, 321 Edmondson, at 10:30 a.m. June 12 in a ceremony at the St. Francis Xavier Catholic church.

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Walter J. McGrane officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride wore a white lace over satin street-length dress. Her nosetip veil was secured by a chiffon bow and flowers. She wore a corsage of pink carnations.

Miss Bonnie Warren, 404 West Murray Lane, was maid of honor. She wore a pink chiffon street-length dress. The empire waist was overlaid with pink cotton lace. She wore a corsage of white carnations.

Bob Wilson of Springfield, Ill., was best man.

The bride's mother wore a blue cotton print dress with white accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

The groom's mother wore a green whipped cream dress with beige accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

A reception was held at the home of the groom's mother.

The bride was a waitress at Thelma's Cafe in Morehouse before her marriage. The groom is serving in the navy.

Triplets Inseparable

LUBBOCK, Tex. AP - G. C. Adams and his two sisters, possibly the nation's oldest living set of triplets, celebrated their 80th birthdays at a party Sunday, and President Lyndon B. Johnson was among those sending congratulations.

Adams is a retired school teacher from Ardmore, Okla. His sisters are Nettie Clay of Lubbock and Cora Comer of Plainview, Tex.

Mrs. Clay said the trio never kept secrets from one another.

"We were inseparable," she related.

"That's for sure," broke in her husband, Tom. "Why, I could hardly ever get her alone when I was courting her. Those two were always around."

SNAKE SELLER

ELGIN, Ill. (AP) — Roy Memmin is in a business where there is no room for mistakes.

He has been collecting snakes for 42 years. He has supplied many zoos throughout the U.S. with reptiles he's caught.

"It's a nonpaying hobby," Memmin said. "I get $11 a snake for rattlers five feet and over — delivered. I sold 14 to Brookfield Zoo last year, but this year they're full up already."

He hunts snakes in Arizona's deserts, Oklahoma's hills and northwestern Illinois' hilly country around Galena.

He's only been bitten once, he said. That was in 1950 near Baraboo, Wis., and was hospitalized three days.

"Then I waited a day more, and went back to look for the one that bit me, but he'd cleared out," he said.

Hunts to Celebrate Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Orrin Hunt, Route One, will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary, Sunday at an open house from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. at their home given by their son, Orrin Hunt, Jr. and daughters, Mrs. O.M. McNeil and Mrs. Virginia Wray.

Woman Refuses To Be Given In Marriage

NOTTINGHAM, England (AP) — Elaine Boyes had no objection to marriage — she just didn't like being given away.

She insisted on walking alone to the altar rather than on her father's arm. She also objected to the Baptist minister's question: "Who gives this woman to be married to this man?"

"Marriage is an equal partnership," said Elaine, "and I have no intention of being given away like a cooker."

The preacher agreed to her objections, and without being given away she married Ian Whiting, 26, over the weekend. Elaine is 22.

The bride told newsmen: "The custom dates back to the time when girls were handed over to be dominated by the man."

Sharon Simmons Engaged to Rex Davidson Jr.

CHARLESTON -- Mrs. Mabel Simmons, route 2, announces the engagement of her daughter, Sharon, to SP4 Rex Davidson, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Rex Davidson Sr., North Main Road. SP4 Davidson has just returned from Vietnam and will leave Aug. 27 for Fort Carson, Colo. Miss Simmons is employed at Ponder Equipment Company.

No wedding date has been set.

Nancy Nyquist Pledges Vows With Gary Jolly

TWO HARBORS, Minn. ----- a bouquet of white roses and stephanotis.

Miss Nancy Nyquist, daughter of Roy Nyquist, Hawthorne, Wis. became the bride of Gary Jolly, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland Jolly, Sikeston, Mo., at a 4 p.m. ceremony at the Bethlehem Lutheran church. The Rev. John Reppe officiated. The church was decorated with coral gladioli and yellow carnations. Paul Larson was the organist.

Miss Christy Larson, Two Harbors, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. Miss Shirley McCuskey, Solon Springs, Wis. was bridesmaid. The attendants' dresses were streetlength and were fashioned of coral bloom satin under chiffon. A satin ribbon encircled the empire waistline and formed a bow in the back. Pillbox hats of matching color were chosen to complete the attire. They carried bouquets of yellow roses.

Best man was David McGroth, and James Williams was groomsman. Both are from New London, Conn.

The groom's mother was attired in a royal blue and white suit. She wore a corsage of yellow and white carnations.

The bride chose a floor-length gown of chantilly lace over linen for her marriage. The lace bodice featured an oval neckline and dainty short sleeves. A veiling of lace was worn over the high rise waistline. A streamered bow added aisle interest. A pillbox held her veil of imported silk illusion. The bride carried roses

A reception dinner at the Bon Aire Tea Rooms followed the ceremony.

For her going away costume the bride chose a navy and white suit with an orchid corsage.

The bride attended the University of Minnesota, Duluth, and was employed by Spooner City Schools, Spooner, Wis. The groom attended Missouri School of Mines. He is now serving with the navy. The couple will live in New London, Conn.

Couple Plans Oct. 8 Vows

PORTAGEVILLE --- Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hurley announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Carolyn, to Michael Lee Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Wilson of Benton, Ark.

The bride-elect is a 1965 graduate of Portageville High School and is presently employed with Cook's Gift and Jewelry.

The prospective bridegroom is a 1966 graduate of Benton, rk., high school and is stationed at Blytheville air force base.

The wedding will be Oct. 8, at the First Methodist church.

It was my first contact with the early morning commuters on the Long Island Railroad. As the regulars started to arrive, I was surprised not to hear the expected casual exchanges about baseball and golf. Instead, the conversations ran mostly to numbers: "Nineteen," "Twelve," "Fourteen," etc. Curiosity drove me to listen more closely. I then discovered that the current status symbol is the imported stainless - steel razor blade. The commuters were reporting the number of shaves they'd had from one blade.

COMING EVENTS

SATURDAY

Sikeston chapter 137, Order of the Eastern Star, will celebrate its 60th anniversary with a covered-dish dinner and share croppers party at the Masonic Temple Saturday. Dinner will begin at 6:30 p.m. and the party at 8 p.m. All Eastern Stars and their home guests from 49th, 50th, 51st and 52nd districts are invited. Admission is one covered dish.

I was completing my barn chores on a snowy, blustery November evening in nothern Minnesota when I saw the snow-covered figure of a hunter approaching. In the barn doorway the hunter wriggled out from under the carcass of a deer, which fell with a thump on the snow. "Pretty nice reward you have for bucking this kind of weather," I said.

"I was sure glad to see your lights!" a feminine voice replied. "For a while I thought I was lost in this storm."

I recognized my neighbor who lived about three miles away. "Why, Mrs. Clark," I blurted, "what are you trying to do? You're supposed to be in the hospital."

"No," she said, "the doctor discharged me yesterday - but he warned me to get more meat in my diet." E. O. Knight

Five Balks

Bob Shaw, right-handed baseball pitcher, was charged with five balks in a single day. This dubious record was made May 4, 1963, while Shaw was pitching for the Milwaukee Braves.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Joseph Miederhoff

Deloma Carol Jordan Weds Paul Joseph Miederhoff

Miss Deloma Carol Jordan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Loy Jordan, Morehouse, exchanged marriage vows with Paul Joseph Miederhoff, son of Mrs. Clara Miederhoff, 321 Edmondson, at 10:30 a.m. June 12 in a ceremony at the St. Francis Xavier Catholic church.

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Walter J. McGrane officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride wore a white lace over satin street-length dress. Her nosetip veil was secured by a chiffon bow and flowers. She wore a corsage of pink carnations.

Miss Bonnie Warren, 404 West Murray Lane, was maid of honor. She wore a pink chiffon street-length dress. The empire waist was overlaid with pink cotton lace. She wore a corsage of white carnations.

Bob Wilson of Springfield, Ill., was best man.

The bride's mother wore a blue cotton print dress with white accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

The groom's mother wore a green whipped cream dress with beige accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

A reception was held at the home of the groom's mother.

The bride was a waitress at Thelma's Cafe in Morehouse before her marriage. The groom is serving in the navy.

Triplets Inseparable

LUBBOCK, Tex. AP - G. C. Adams and his two sisters, possibly the nation's oldest living set of triplets, celebrated their 80th birthdays at a party Sunday, and President Lyndon B. Johnson was among those sending congratulations.

Adams is a retired school teacher from Ardmore, Okla. His sisters are Nettie Clay of Lubbock and Cora Comer of Plainview, Tex.

Mrs. Clay said the trio never kept secrets from one another.

"We were inseparable," she related.

"That's for sure," broke in her husband, Tom. "Why, I could hardly ever get her alone when I was courting her. Those two were always around."

SNAKE SELLER

ELGIN, Ill. (AP) — Roy Memmin is in a business where there is no room for mistakes.

He has been collecting snakes for 42 years. He has supplied many zoos throughout the U.S. with reptiles he's caught.

"It's a nonpaying hobby," Memmin said. "I get $11 a snake for rattlers five feet and over — delivered. I sold 14 to Brookfield Zoo last year, but this year they're full up already."

He hunts snakes in Arizona's deserts, Oklahoma's hills and northwestern Illinois' hilly country around Galena.

He's only been bitten once, he said. That was in 1950 near Baraboo, Wis., and was hospitalized three days.

"Then I waited a day more, and went back to look for the one that bit me, but he'd cleared out," he said.

Hunts to Celebrate Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Orrin Hunt, Route One, will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary, Sunday at an open house from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m. at their home given by their son, Orrin Hunt, Jr. and daughters, Mrs. O.M. McNeil and Mrs. Virginia Wray.

Woman Refuses To Be Given In Marriage

NOTTINGHAM, England (AP) — Elaine Boyes had no objection to marriage — she just didn't like being given away.

She insisted on walking alone to the altar rather than on her father's arm. She also objected to the Baptist minister's question: "Who gives this woman to be married to this man?"

"Marriage is an equal partnership," said Elaine, "and I have no intention of being given away like a cooker."

The preacher agreed to her objections, and without being given away she married Ian Whiting, 26, over the weekend. Elaine is 22.

The bride told newsmen: "The custom dates back to the time when girls were handed over to be dominated by the man."

Sharon Simmons Engaged to Rex Davidson Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Gary Jolly

Nancy Nyquist Pledges Vows With Gary Jolly

TWO HARBORS, Minn. ----- a bouquet of white roses and stephanotis.

Miss Nancy Nyquist, daughter of Roy Nyquist, Hawthorne, Wis. became the bride of Gary Jolly, son of Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland Jolly, Sikeston, Mo., at a 4 p.m. ceremony at the Bethlehem Lutheran church. The Rev. John Reppe officiated.

The church was decorated with coral gladioli and yellow carnations. Paul Larson was the organist.

The bride chose a floor-length gown of chantilly lace over linen for her marriage. The lace bodice featured an oval neckline and dainty short sleeves. A veiling of lace was worn over the high rise waistline. A streamered bow added aisle interest. A pillbox held her veil of imported silk illusion. The bride carried a bouquet of white roses and stephanotis.

Miss Christy Larson, Two Harbors, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. Miss Shirley McCuskey, Solon Springs, Wis. was bridesmaid. The attendants' dresses were streetlength and were fashioned of coral bloom satin under chiffon. A satin ribbon encircled the empire waistline and formed a bow in the back. Pillbox hats of matching color were chosen to complete the attire. They carried bouquets of yellow roses.

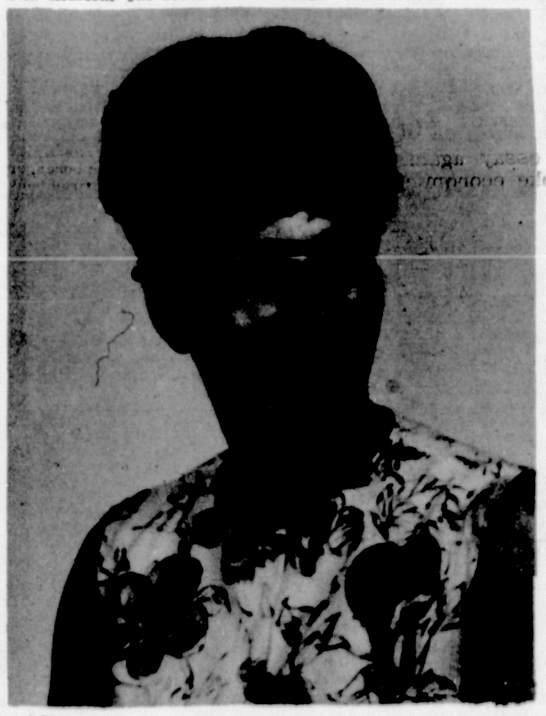
Best man was David McGroth, and James Williams was groomsman. Both are from New London, Conn.

The groom's mother was attired in a royal blue and white suit. She wore a corsage of yellow roses and white carnations.

A reception dinner at the Bon Aire Tea Rooms followed the ceremony.

For her going away costume the bride chose a navy and white suit with an orchid corsage.

The bride attended the University of Minnesota, Duluth, and was employed by Spooner City Schools, Spooner, Wis. The groom attended Missouri School of Mines. He is now serving with the navy. The couple will live in New London, Conn.



ARLENE STAGGS' engagement to Edgar Sexton of Cleveland, has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Skinner of Chester, Ill. The bride - elect, a resident of Morehouse, is employed at the War Drum. Sexton is serving in the army.

Couple Plans Oct. 8 Vows

PORTAGEVILLE --- Mr. and Mrs. Roy Hurley announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Carolyn, to Michael Lee Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Wilson of Benton, Ark.

The bride-elect is a 1965 graduate of Portageville High School and is presently employed with Cook's Gift and Jewelry.

The prospective bridegroom is a 1966 graduate of Benton, Ark., high school and is stationed at Blytheville air force base.

The wedding will be Oct. 8, at the First Methodist church.

It was my first contact with the early morning commuters on the Long Island Railroad. As the regulars started to arrive, I was surprised not to hear the expected casual exchanges about baseball and golf. Instead, the conversations ran mostly to numbers: "Nineteen," "Twelve," "Fourteen," etc. Curiosity drove me to listen more closely. I then discovered that the current status symbol is the imported stainless - steel razor blade. The commuters were reporting the number of shaves they'd had from one blade.

GENE WALKER, center of picture with glove extended forward, is receiving congratulations after retiring the Pine Bluff Connie Mack team for his second victory in two days, giving Sikeston a right to move into the south plains regional at Lamar, Colo. starting Friday. Walker won Saturday night 6-0 and 7-2 Sunday.

Walker Gives Foresters Series

Lamar, Colo., Next

Gene Walker, a pickup by the Sikeston Potlatch Forest Connie Mack baseball team is perhaps the number one reason the Foresters leave for Lamar, Colo., Thursday.

Walker, who shut out Pine Bluff, Ark. in the second game of the best two out of three series for the Midwest regional Connie Mack championship Saturday with a one hitter walked to the mound for the Foresters Sunday and pitched them to a 7-2 win and the title.

Walker, who played for Dexter in the Black River league this past season, was asked to join the Sikeston team after the Foresters claimed the league title.

In Saturday night's contest that tied the playoffs at 1-1, Walker was sailing along on a no-hitter until the sixth when the leadoff batter, Joe Grayson, laid down a bunt that was fielded by Walker but no one was covering the bag. This ended his no-hit bid. He won 6-1.

Walker pitched the Foresters to the victory after Pine Bluff jumped ahead 2-0 in the third.

The Foresters, behind the strategy of N. P. McDaniel and Wayne Limbaugh Sr. went ahead in the fourth with three runs and added three more in the fifth before capping its victory with a tally in the sixth.

Walker gave up three hits Sunday not allowing a run and got an 11-hit barrage from his teammates to corral the Arkansas.

Saturday, Sikeston battled through three scoreless frames before breaking lose for four runs in the fourth and added two in the sixth.

Gary Owens and Bruce Farris collected two hits for the Foresters Saturday while teammate Terry Scudder blasted a booming triple in the fourth to start the team off in the scoring column.

Farris and Owens again collected two hits in Sunday's game, while teammate Mike Garner had a two-hit day, including a triple. Owens had a two-run double.

Sikeston faced a pair of lefties Saturday, stroking eight hits and handing Hal Garman the loss.

Tommy Wilson, a hard throwing righthander, was the losing hurler in Sunday's game.

Ray Harrison had a double in Sunday's final game for Pine Bluff's only extra base hit of the series.

Anyone interested in helping pay the expenses of the Connie Mack's trip to Colorado may contact N. P. McDaniel at GR1-4863.

Sweep Cincy Series

Cards Continue

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The year of the streak in the National League is continuing along and about all the opponents of the St. Louis Cardinals have to console themselves with is a bit of ancient history.

The Cards won their fifth in a row Sunday, edging Cincinnati 3-2, while the Chicago Cubs lost their sixth straight, 6-4 to Atlanta, and fell into third place nine games off the pace.

The Cardinals should beware, however. It was almost exactly 10 years ago today that they started a nine-game losing streak while the Milwaukee Braves -- remember them? - won the first of 10 in a row and went on to the pennant.

In other National League games Sunday, San Francisco swept two from New York 9-7 in 10 innings and 4-1, Philadelphia beat Houston 8-4 and Los Angeles edged Pittsburgh 5-4.

In the American League, Minnesota no-hit Boston 2-0 in a rain-shortened 4 1/2 inning game, Baltimore won a doubleheader from Chicago 5-2 and 4-0, Washington bounced California 7-2, New York took Kansas City 9-6 and Detroit split with Cleveland, winning 7-3 and losing 6-3.

If the Cards are to start losing games instead of winning them, they'll have to play an entirely different brand of baseball. Not only are they hitting the ball quite nicely -- Orlando Cepeda hit his 20th homer Sunday -- but also they are taking care of each other.

Nelson Briles was breezing along on a shutout until the sixth, for instance, when all of a sudden his curve ball straightened out and the Reds got two runs.

But Ron Willis came in and took care of things and not another run scored. In his last 12 appearances, Willis hasn't given up a run.

The Cubs, on the other hand, can't seem to do anything right lately.

"We need a win," moaned Manager Leo Durocher. "Any kind of win and I don't care how we do it. Just a little hitting and one lousy damned win."

Joe Torre's two-run homer went a long way toward denying the Cubs that one win Sunday. Adolfo Phillips hit one out for the Cubs.

The Giants moved into second place on the strength of their two victories over the Mets. Ty Cline drove in the deciding run in the 10th opener with a single in the 10th and Willie McCovey's three-run homer in the eighth won the nightcap.

Bill White clubbed a three-run homer, highlighting a five-run Phillies' rally in the eighth inning. It was the sixth win in a row for the Phillies. Ron Davis and pitcher Dave Giusti homered for the Astros.

Len Gabrielson had three hits and Ron Hunt drove in two runs for the Dodgers, who ended a five-game loss streak. Bob Miller got the Pirates out with men on first and third in the eighth by getting Donn Clendenon to hit into a double play.

COLUMBIA AP -- The Missouri junior boys' golf tournament was won Sunday by the four-man Columbia Country Club team for the second year in a row.

Scott Bess, Durk Price, Charles Diggins and Jeff Smith had a 36-hole score of 598 in the two-day tourney. Par on the University of Missouri course is 70.

Mike Farmer of Jefferson City was the individual champion with 141. Bess was second and Bill Koob of St. Louis was third with 144.

SEATTLE, Wash. AP -- Billy Schumacher of Seattle wheeled the sleek Miss Bardahl to an easy 1967 Gold Cup victory Sunday with a 1,500-point total in the annual unlimited hydroplane race.

All-Stars Claim 12th Annual Title

By Ron Jaynes

Sikeston's All Stars captured the 12th Annual Sikeston Little League baseball tournament championship with a victory over Ilmo-Scott City Saturday night.

The Stars banged out 10 hits and 10 runs in hustling to their 10-1 championship victory before a capacity crowd at Puckett field.

The Sikeston Aces claimed third with a 6-0 victory over Portageville after dropping an 8-2 decision to Ilmo-Scott City in a semi-final contest.

Lynn Miller of the Sikeston All-Stars and Grant Volkerding of Ilmo-Scott City were named as the tournament's outstanding players with Ken Stokes of the All-Stars, Steve Hanschen of Ilmo-Scott City, Dewayne Self of the Sikeston Aces, Danny Brooks of Ilmo-Scott City, Mark Becker of the Aces and Roy Bowman of the All-Stars being given honorable mention.

Ken Stokes teamed with Lynn Miller, Charles Miller and Roy Bowman to lead the team in hitting with two safeties each. Stokes hit a leadoff homer in the fifth inning while teammates Lynn Miller and Charles Miller connected on doubles.

Sikeston pushed across three runs in the first and added one in the fifth before wrapping up the victory with six in the sixth.

ISC's run came in the sixth. Terry Blattel led the six-hit ISC attack with a three for three performances at the plate, including a double.

Ken Stokes was the winning hurler for the Stars. Danny Brooks took the loss.

In the consolation contest, Timmy Watkins collected two hits including a double in leading a five-hit Ace attack against Portageville's Greg Jones.

Mark Becker pitched a one hitter against the Portageville squad, giving up a double with one out in the sixth.

Sikeston broke lose for four runs in the third and added two in the fifth for its six.

Mike Schaffer scattered six hits to the Sikeston Aces in the semi-final contest and sailed into the championship game with an 8-2 win.

Terry Blattel and Steve Hanshen led the six hit Ilmo attack with two safeties. Hanshen had a double, as their team scored a run in the top of the second after Sikeston jumped out front in the first and added four in the fourth and three in the fifth for the victory.

James Long had two hits for the Aces in two trips to the plate. Dewayne Self, Bruce Lawrence, Rich Schwartz and Hanshen doubled.

Softball Action Continues

BELL CITY -- The SEMO softball tournament moved along over the weekend with two games Saturday and two Sunday.

In Saturday's round, New Hamburg Shindlers rode the perfect game pitching of Gil Roberts to a 4-0 victory over the Benton Aces. Robert struck out 13.

Ray Scherer was the losing hurler.

Ken Scheeter collected the game's only extra base hit, a two-run triple for New Hamburg.

General Tire blanked Blodgett 4-0 in the final game Saturday night as Earl Cotner won, striking out seven while giving up only two hits.

General had seven hits off loser Sonny Glaus.

Sunday's games had Bell City squeaking past Atlas 3-2 and New Hamburg Blues edging the Benton Culls 5-4.

Don Robert gave up six hits, two more than the loser, Ferrell Marler, but won the game, capitalizing on Atlas walks and errors.

Norman Heuring gave New Hamburg Blues their win with a homer in the sixth inning as Junior Kern hurled a three hitter for the win. Larry Glaus was tagged with the loss, allowing five hits.

Action resumes Tomorrow night as Isco meets Oran at 7:30 p.m. and Rose Con goes against Kelso at 9 p.m.

Oran Claims

MORLEY -- Oran, behind the two-hit pitching of Tim Halter, claimed the SEMO high school baseball crown Saturday with an 8-0 victory over Scott Central.

Both teams were tied with identical records going into the game, 11-2. Oran's defeats were at the hands of Chaffee and Benton while Central's were administered by Oran and Delta.

Halter fanned 13 Central batsmen, allowing one walk and two hits in seven innings of pitching.

Morris Karnes was knocked around for 15 hits while striking out nine and walking two.

Cairo, Bloomfield Truimph In Tournament

Cairo and Bloomfield opened the 12th Annual Sikeston invitational baseball tournament for Little Leaguers 11 and 12 years old yesterday afternoon with victories. Cairo edged Sikeston's Aces 2-1 and Bloomfield crept past Bertrand 6-4.

Eighteen teams have entered the tournament. The winner will be determined Saturday night.

Three games are slated for tonight beginning at 6 p.m. with the Sikeston American League All-Stars meeting Matthews followed at 7:30 p.m. by the game matching Lilbourn and Charleston. At 9 p.m. Chaffee meets Dexter.

Jimmy Warden pitched a two hitter at the Aces. Teammates Kevin Hill and Billy Story singled in the sixth inning and scored to overcome a 10-deficit.

Dennis Breedlove was the losing Sikeston hurler, allowing four hits, two in the final frame.

Rick Eisenbach did all the hitting for the Aces with singles in the first and third innings.

Bloomfied jumped to a 4-0 lead with four runs in the bottom of the second inning and sailed to its victory, adding two runs in the fourth after Bertrand tallied in the third and pushed across three in the sixth.

Each team had a player smack a homer, Bob Roundsville connected on a two-run blast in the fourth while Bob Crosno scored a three-run job in Bertrand's sixth.

Chester Marrow had the games only other extra base hit, a double in the sixth.

George Baldwin was the winning pitcher, allowing four runs on three hits. Boyd Pattengill was the losing hurler, giving up five hits and six runs.

age 18 and over. Prepare now for U.S. Civil Service job openings during the next 12 months.

Government positions pay high starting salaries. They provide much greater security than private employment and excellent opportunity for advancement. Many positions require little or no specialized education or experience.

But to get one of these jobs, you must pass a test. The competition is keen and in some cases only one out of five pass.

Lincoln Service has helped thousands prepare for these tests every year since 1948. It is one of the lartest and oldest privately owned schools of its kind and is not connected with the Government.

GENE WALKER, center of picture with glove extended forward, is receiving congratulations after retiring the Pine Bluff Connie Mack team for his second victory in two days, giving Sikeston a right to move into the south plains regional at Lamar, Colo. starting Friday. Walker won Saturday night 6-0 and 7-2 Sunday.

Walker Gives Foresters Series

Lamar, Colo., Next

Gene Walker, a pickup by the Sikeston Potlatch Forest Connie Mack baseball team is perhaps the number one reason the Foresters leave for Lamar, Colo., Thursday.

Walker, who shut out Pine Bluff, Ark. in the second game of the best two out of three series for the Midwest regional Connie Mack championship Saturday with a one hitter walked to the mound for the Foresters Sunday and pitched them to a 7-2 win and the title.

Walker, who played for Dexter in the Black River league this past season, was asked to join the Sikeston team after the Foresters claimed the league title.

In Saturday night's contest that tied the playoffs at 1-1, Walker was sailing along on a no-hitter until the sixth when the leadoff batter, Joe Grayson, laid down a bunt that was fielded by Walker but no one was covering the bag. This ended his no-hit bid. He won 6-1.

Walker pitched the Foresters to the victory after Pine Bluff jumped ahead 2-0 in the third.

The Foresters, behind the strategy of N. P. McDaniel and Wayne Limbaugh Sr. went ahead in the fourth with three runs and added three more in the fifth before capping its victory with a tally in the sixth.

Walker gave up three hits Sunday not allowing a run and got an 11-hit barrage from his teammates to corral the Arkansas.

Saturday, Sikeston battled through three scoreless frames before breaking lose for four runs in the fourth and added two in the sixth.

Gary Owens and Bruce Farris collected two hits for the Foresters Saturday while teammate Terry Scudder blasted a booming triple in the fourth to start the team off in the scoring column.

Farris and Owens again collected two hits in Sunday's game, while teammate Mike Garner had a two-hit day, including a triple. Owens had a two-run double.

Sikeston faced a pair of lefties Saturday, stroking eight hits and handing Hal Garman the loss.

Tommy Wilson, a hard throwing righthander, was the losing hurler in Sunday's game.

Ray Harrison had a double in Sunday's final game for Pine Bluff's only extra base hit of the series.

Sweep Cincy Series

Cards Continue

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The year of the streak in the National League is continuing along and about all the opponents of the St. Louis Cardinals have to console themselves with is a bit of ancient history.

The Cards won their fifth in a row Sunday, edging Cincinnati 3-2, while the Chicago Cubs lost their sixth straight, 6-4 to Atlanta, and fell into third place nine games off the pace.

The Cardinals should beware, however. It was almost exactly 10 years ago today that they started a nine-game losing streak while the Milwaukee Braves -- remember them? - won the first of 10 in a row and went on to the pennant.

In other National League games Sunday, San Francisco swept two from New York 9-7 in 10 innings and 4-1, Philadelphia beat Houston 8-4 and Los Angeles edged Pittsburgh 5-4.

In the American League, Minnesota no-hit Boston 2-0 in a rain-shortened 4 1/2 inning game, Baltimore won a doubleheader from Chicago 5-2 and 4-0, Washington bounced California 7-2, New York took Kansas City 9-6 and Detroit split with Cleveland, winning 7-3 and losing 6-3.

If the Cards are to start losing games instead of winning them, they'll have to play an entirely different brand of baseball. Not only are they hitting the ball quite nicely -- Orlando Cepeda hit his 20th homer Sunday -- but also they are taking care of each other.

Nelson Briles was breezing along on a shutout until the sixth, for instance, when all of a sudden his curve ball straightened out and the Reds got two runs.

But Ron Willis came in and took care of things and not another run scored. In his last 12 appearances, Willis hasn't given up a run.

The Cubs, on the other hand, can't seem to do anything right lately.

"We need a win," moaned Manager Leo Durocher. "Any kind of win and I don't care how we do it. Just a little hitting and one lousy damned win."

Joe Torre's two-run homer went a long way toward denying the Cubs that one win Sunday. Adolfo Phillips hit one out for the Cubs.

The Giants moved into second place on the strength of their two victories over the Mets. Ty Cline drove in the deciding run in the opener with a single in the 10th and Willie McCovey's three-run homer in the eighth won the nightcap.

Bill White clubbed a three-run homer, highlighting a five-run Phillies' rally in the eighth inning. It was the sixth win in a row for the Phillies. Ron Davis and pitcher Dave Giusti homered for the Astros.

Len Gabrielson had three hits and Ron Hunt drove in two runs for the Dodgers, who ended a five-game loss streak. Bob Miller got the Pirates out with men on first and third in the eighth by getting Donn Clendenon to hit into a double play.

All-Stars Claim 12th Annual Title

By Ron Jaynes

Sikeston's All Stars captured the 12th Annual Sikeston Little League baseball tournament championship with a victory over Illmo-Scott City Saturday night.

The Stars banged out 10 hits and 10 runs in hustling to their 10-1 championship victory before a capacity crowd at Puckett field.

The Sikeston Aces claimed third with a 6-0 victory over Portageville after dropping an 8-2 decision to Illmo-Scott City in a semi-final contest.

Lynn Miller of the Sikeston All-Stars and Grant Volkerding of Illmo-Scott City were named as the tournament's outstanding players with Ken Stokes of the All-Stars, Steve Hanschen of Illmo-Scott City, Dewayne Self of the Sikeston Aces, Danny Brooks of Illmo-Scott City, Mark Becker of the Aces and Roy Bowman of the All-Stars being given honorable mention.

Ken Stokes teamed with Lynn Miller, Charles Miller and Roy Bowman to lead the team in hitting with two safeties each. Stokes hit a leadoff homer in the fifth inning while teammates Lynn Miller and Charles Miller connected on doubles.

Sikeston pushed across three runs in the first and added one in the fifth before wrapping up the victory with six in the sixth.

ISC's run came in the sixth. Terry Blattel led the six-hit ISC attack with a three for three performances at the plate, including a double.

Ken Stokes was the winning hurler for the Stars. Danny Brooks took the loss.

In the consolation contest, Timmy Watkins collected two hits including a double in leading a five-hit Ace attack against Portageville's Greg Jones.

Mark Becker pitched a one hitter against the Portageville squad, giving up a double with one out in the sixth.

Sikeston broke lose for four runs in the third and added two in the fifth for its six.

Mike Schaffer scattered six hits to the Sikeston Aces in the semi-final contest and sailed into the championship game with an 8-2 win.

Terry Blattel and Steve Hanshen led the six hit Illmo attack with two safeties. Hanshen had a double, as their team scored a run in the top of the second after Sikeston jumped out front in the first and added four in the fourth and three in the fifth for the victory.

James Long had two hits for the Aces in two trips to the plate. Dewayne Self, Bruce Lawrence, Rich Schwartz and Hanshen doubled.

BELL CITY -- The SEMO softball tournament moved along over the weekend with two games Saturday and two Sunday.

In Saturday's round, New Hamburg Shindlers rode the perfect game pitching of Gil Roberts to a 4-0 victory over the Benton Aces. Robert struck out 13.

Ray Scherer was the losing hurler.

Ken Scheeter collected the game's only extra base hit, a two-run triple for New Hamburg.

General Tire blanked Blodgett 4-0 in the final game Saturday night as Earl Cotner won, striking out seven while giving up only two hits.

General had seven hits off loser Sonny Glaus.

Sunday's games had Bell City squeaking past Atlas 3-2 and New Hamburg Blues edging the Benton Culls 5-4.

Don Robert gave up six hits, two more than the loser, Ferrell Marler, but won the game, capitalizing on Atlas walks and errors.

Norman Heuring gave New Hamburg Blues their win with a homer in the sixth inning as Junior Kern hurled a three hitter for the win. Larry Glaus was tagged with the loss, allowing five hits.

Action resumes Tomorrow night as Isco meets Oran at 7:30 p.m. and Rose Con goes against Kelso at 9 p.m.

Oran Claims

MORLEY -- Oran, behind the two-hit pitching of Tim Halter, claimed the SEMO high school baseball crown Saturday with an 8-0 victory over Scott Central.

Both teams were tied with identical records going into the game, 11-2. Oran's defeats were at the hands of Chaffee and Benton while Central's were administered by Oran and Delta.

Halter fanned 13 Central batsmen, allowing one walk and two hits in seven innings of pitching.

Morris Karnes was knocked around for 15 hits while striking out nine and walking two.

Cairo, Bloomfield Truimph In Tournament

Cairo and Bloomfield opened the 12th Annual Sikeston invitational baseball tournament for Little Leaguers 11 and 12 years old yesterday afternoon with victories. Cairo edged Sikeston's Aces 2-1 and Bloomfield crept past Bertrand 6-4.

Eighteen teams have entered the tournament. The winner will be determined Saturday night.

Three games are slated for tonight beginning at 6 p.m. with the Sikeston American League All-Stars meeting Matthews followed at 7:30 p.m. by the game matching Lilbourn and Charleston. At 9 p.m. Chaffee meets Dexter.

Jimmy Warden pitched a two hitter at the Aces. Teammates Kevin Hill and Billy Story singled in the sixth inning and scored to overcome a 10-deficit.

Dennis Breedlove was the losing Sikeston hurler, allowing four hits, two in the final frame.

Rick Eisenbach did all the hitting for the Aces with singles in the first and third innings.

Bloomfield jumped to a 4-0 lead with four runs in the bottom of the second inning and sailed to its victory, adding two runs in the fourth after Bertrand tallied in the third and pushed across three in the sixth.

Each team had a player smack a homer, Bob Roundsville connected on a two-run blast in the fourth while Bob Crosno scored a three-run job in Bertrand's sixth.

Chester Marrow had the games only other extra base hit, a double in the sixth.

George Baldwin was the winning pitcher, allowing four runs on three hits. Boyd Pattengill was the losing hurler, giving up five hits and six runs.

age 18 and over. Prepare now for U.S. Civil Service job openings during the next 12 months.
Government positions pay high starting salaries. They provide much greater security than private employment and excellent opportunity for advancement. Many positions require little or no specialized education or experience.
But to get one of these jobs, you must pass a test. The competition is keen and in some cases only one out of five pass.
Lincoln Service has helped thousands prepare for these tests every year since 1948. It is one of the lartest and oldest privately owned schools of its kind and is not connected with the Government.

Mr. C. L. Blanton, Jr.
SIKESTON STANDARD
Sikeston, Missouri

Dear Mr. Blanton:

A poll financed by the AFL-CIO reveals that union members do not share the hostility of salaried union officials toward state laws prohibiting compulsory union membership.

This revelation confirms the widespread suspicion that union professionals speak for themselves - and not for the rank and file -- on this fundamental issue.

Union officials obviously have a selfish interest in collective bargaining agreements which authorize the firing of employees who refuse to pay union dues. Today thousands of Missouri workers are victims of such agreements.

There is nothing wrong with the labor movement which cannot be cured by a dose of voluntarism. A Missouri Right To Work law will benefit union members and the general public. It will restrain dictatorial union bosses by restoring control of the unions to the rank and file.

Very truly yours,
Gene Mittelberg
Executive Secretary,
Missourians For Right To Work

The Sikeston Standard
Sikeston, Missouri

Gentlemen:

Enclosed is a statement of facts concerning my recent arrest for speeding and the disposition of the case in BENTON, MISSOURI which I am sure will interest your legal department.

Records will show that my drivers license of the State of Illinois does not show any violations other than a meter parking violation in past years and that insurance companies have issued a safe driver certificate for my liability and accident insurance.

In this matter, however, I believe that the Sikeston Standard should be very much interested on behalf of their readers as well as the motoring public who visit your city. On the evening in question, I had a guaranteed (hold for arrival) reservation in the Holiday Inn in your town and therefore was not in any hurry reach my destination. I am sure that incidents like this have come to the attention of the Sikeston Standard in the past and I know that your paper is interested in stamping out practices such as these.

This was not an isolated incident over this holiday week-end as I personally observed radar patrols on I-55 in various sectors of SCOTT County on succeeding days and I am sure that a check of past holidays will show a high record of arrests of this type.

Cordially yours,
S. J. Rowley
2700 S. Avers Ave.
Chicago, Ill., 60623.

This statement of facts by S. J. Rowley is not offered as a defense or alibi for the speeding charge involved, but is detailed because of his belief that his treatment by officials of SCOTT COUNTY, BENTON, MISSOURI is not in the best interests of the motoring public that use interstate highway I-55 in SCOTT COUNTY, MISSOURI.

On June 30, 1967 at 9:05 p.m. I was stopped by the MISSOURI STATE HIGHWAY PATROL on interstate I-55 approximately 5 miles north of Sikeston, Mo., and informed that their radar unit showed me to be speeding 81 M.P.H. I protested that my speedometer showed 69 M.P.H. and that if their radar showed a car at 81 M.P.H. then they had apprehended the wrong motor vehicle. I was told to follow the officer to the sheriff's office in SIKESTON, MISSOURI.

I was introduced to deputy sheriff of SCOTT COUNTY, "J. STEWART" who showed me a graduated bond and fine schedule for arrests of this type. It called for a $25.00 bond for up to 10 M.P.H. over the speed limit of 70 M.P.H. and $1.00 per mile fine for each mile over the limit of 70 M.P.H. and $35.-00 bond for over 10 M.P.H. and $1.50 per mile for each mile over 70 M.P.H. and over 15 M.P.H. the bonds and fines graduated upwards.

I then realized why I had been conveniently charged with 81 M.P.H. and so informed both the arresting officer "N.R. GRISSOM" as well as deputy sheriff "J. STEWART" but to no avail. I then offered an American Oil Motor Club bail bond certificate and was informed by deputy "STEWART" that it would not be accepted. I then questioned the acceptance of an "A.A.A." bail bond card and was told that it would not be accepted until the "A.A.A." representative was contacted in Cape Girardeau, Mo. and came to Sikeston, Mo., which is over 30 miles away and of course as this was the July 4th week-end this would be most impossible. Personal checks would not be honored and a cash bond was the only alternative.

I then supplied the $35.00 cash and was told to sign the appearance bond, (per copy) which I did, and was then told to sign a plea of guilty to which I refused. When I refused to sign this plea of guilty, deputy "STEWART" informed me that this would change matters and that it was within his power to lock me in his jail until court convened on July 5th. I still refused and after considerable discussion in which I informed deputy "STEWART" that I intended to appear on my court date "JULY 11, 1967" and to be represented by consul and even though I did not expect to win the case, I still would protest the statement of the arresting officer as well as the correctness of his indentification of my vehicle due to poor visibility at the time of night as well as the fact that he allowed a truck that I was behind to proceed unmolested.

On July 5th, by telephone from Chicago, I called Att. C. Matthews in Sikeston, Mo. to employ him to represent me on JULY 11, 1967 and was informed that because his law partner was the prosecuting attorney, ethics would prevent him from doing so. I then called Att. Dement and because of economics did not employ him at that time. The next day I received an envelope post-marked JULY 5, 1967, Benton, Mo. and it contained (per copy) a refund check for $6.50 and with an itemized statement that a fine and court costs of $28.50 had been levied against me on JULY 5th, 1967 - A FULL 6 DAYS BEFORE MY COURT DATE OF JULY 11, 1967.

I believe that the denial of acceptance of a bail bond certificate of a reputable motor club plus the threat of incarceration to await trial and the PRIOR DISPOSAL of a court case before the trial date clearly indicates a violation of the rights of the American motoring public and should be given the maximum amount of publicity so that these rights of the motoring public can be protected to the fullest extent of the law.

Senath Man Charged with Bluff Shooting

POPLAR BLUFF -- Mickell C. Crossno, 22, a Senath area laborer, was arraigned in magistrate court on a charge of felonious assault in the alleged shooting of Clarence Allen, age 30.

Crossno waived his right to a preliminary hearing and was bound over for trial in the Circuit Court. Magistrate Jack Jolly set his bond at $10,000.

Crossno allegedly shot Allen about 8 Wednesday night at Allen's home situated just north of the Poplar Bluff Job Corps Conservation Center on Highway 67 North.

Officers arrested Crossno as a suspect a few minutes later as he drove south on the highway at Osborn's Market, south of the Loma Linda.

Authorities said Crossno formerly was married to Allen's wife.

Senath Man Charged with Bluff Shooting

POPLAR BLUFF -- Mickell C. Crossno, 22, a Senath area laborer, was arraigned in magistrate court on a charge of felonious assault in the alleged shooting of Clarence Allen, age 30.

Crossno waived his right to a preliminary hearing and was bound over for trial in the Circuit Court. Magistrate Jack Jolly set his bond at $10,000.

Dexter Signs Planning Contract

DEXTER -- Formal contracts, between the city of Dexter, the General Planning and Resource Consultants, and the State of Missouri, were formally approved by Mayor Willis Conner and the City Council here Wednesday and Dexter's share of the total cost of the project, amounting to $5,265, has been sent to the state agency in Jefferson City along with the signed documents.

The actual planning program is expected to start early in September. Gerwin Rohrbach, president of the General Planning and Resource Consultants, said this week that he was prepared to meet with the City Planning Commission early in September so that the work could begin.

Under the terms of the contract, the federal government, acting through the state agency, is paying two-thirds of the cost of the planning program and the city is paying the other one-third.

The planning program is expected to take 18 months to complete. Officials of the planning agency have emphasized that the project will need the support of the entire community if it is to be successful. A detailed "scope of services" has been approved, which calls for a detailed study of all phases of life in the community, plus recommendations for changes and improvements to meet the needs for the next several years.

The City Planning Commission will have nominal charge of the program working with the City Council and officials of the consulting firm, as well as State officials.

Shortage of Teachers Continues in State

JEFFERSON CITY - Missouri's public schools are about to begin another school year with a tremendous shortage of teachers.

The shortage was revealed today by Commission of Education Hubert Wheeler of the state department of education.

Wheeler said that more than 400 public school administrators were surveyed today at the conclusion of a two-day cooperative conference of the administrators and State Department of Education personnel at Jefferson City.

"The reports submitted indicate that we need some 1,600 additional teachers -- about the same as last year at this time -- when we open the new school year in a few weeks," Wheeler stated. "The situation is a critical one and we're doing everything that the professional limitations will allow to alleviate the problem."

Wheeler noted that the report represented 39,878 professional employees in Missouri's public schools -- or approximately 90 per cent of the total staff. Total vacancies listed in the survey numbered 1,455.

The classification and number of teachers needed:

Agriculture 2, English 73, home economics 13, music 59, art 30, foreign language 42, industrial arts 73, science 67, business 31, physical education and Driver Education 77, mathematics 82, total secondary teachers: 584.

Elementary 552, kindergarten 83, special education 147, guidance counselors 51 and librarians 39.

At the conference, Wheeler reminded the superintendents that the state board of education has approved an emergency measure which was designed to assist in alleviating the teacher shortage. The measure reads, in part:

"A person holding a baccalaureate degree such as a bachelor of arts, bachelor of journalism, bachelor of science, etc., with an academic major, even though he has little or no professional education, may be able to qualify for a one-year teacher's certificate. The prospective teacher must first sign an academic contract with an accredited college outlining all requirements for full certification. Signing the contract will signify the person's commitment to work toward full certification as a teacher. The state department of education will then, on the request of the superintendent, issue one-year teacher's certificiate."

(Z0768) SANTA ANA, CALIF. (FHTNC) -- Marine Corporal Robert H. Bean, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Bean of 227 Alabama, St., Sikeston, Mo., has reported for duty with Marine Heavy Helicopter Squadron 462, an element of Marine Aircraft Group 56 at the El Toro Marine Corps Air Station, in Santa Ana, Calif.

El Toro, is the home of the Third Marine Aircraft wing, which is an aviation counterpart to a Marine infantry division, constantly in training and ready to move at a moment's notice to any trouble spot in the world.

Helicopters, transports and jets of the wing provide air support for the infantrymen of the First Marine Division and units of the Fleet Marine Force, Pacific based at nearby Camp Pendleton, Calif.

(Z0653) USS TRIPOLI (LPH-10) (FHTNC) - Aviation Boatswain's Mate Second Class Gary A. Fortner, USN, son of Mrs. Louis Wagonor of R., 2, Dexter, Mo., took part in an assault on enemy positions near Hue, South Vietnam, as a crewman aboard the helicopter amphibious assault ship USS Tripoli.

The Tripoli, part of an operation called "Bear Chain," landed Marines and their equipment simultaneously with troops being put ashore by other ships. Hue, inland from the shores of the South China Sea, is about halfway between the Demilitarized Zone which divides North and South Vietnam, and Da Nang.

While in the Southeast Asia combat zone, the Tripoli is serving as part of the U.S. Seventh Fleet.

MOLOKAI, HAWAII (AHTNC)-- Army Private Larry M. Rodgers, 20, son of Mrs. Willia Rodgers, 244 Watson St., Sikeston, Mo., is participating in "Exercise Coral Sands II," a joint - service amphibious assault on the island of Molokai, Hawaii, August 1-10.

Stationed at Schofield Barracks, Hawaii, he is one of more than 6,000 soldiers and sailors participating in the mock operation.

A member of the Army Landing Force, he will land on the "enemy - held" beach to seize and destroy several enemy missile bases. After proceeding through the rugged interior of the island, he and his unit will conduct counterinsurgency operations against the guerrillas and accomplish a tactical withdrawal from the island.

Rodgers is an infantryman assigned to Company C, 1st Battalion of the 11th Infantry Brigade's 20th Infantry.

(Z0738) USS ENTERPRISE (CVA(N)-65) (FHTNC) -- Seaman Dale W. Capps, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Otis Capps of 1722 Oklahoma St., Sikeston, Mo., has reported for duty aboard the world's largest warship, the nuclear powered attack carrier USS Enterprise.

He joined the carrier's 5,000 man crew shortly after the ship returned from operations off the coast of North Vietnam.

While in Vietnam, the Enterprise flew combat strikes against supply lines in the North and was the second combat tour in Vietnam for the Enterprise.

(Z0770) EL TORO, CALIF. (FHTNC) -- Marine Corporal Jesse R. Todd, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Todd of Pollard, Ark., and husband of the former Mary A. Spec. Edwards, a driver assigned to the command's 1st Signal Brigade, entered the Army in March 1966, completed his basic training at Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo., and arrived overseas in September of last year.

The 24 - year - old soldier is a 1961 graduate of Dexter High School.

His wife, Carolyn, lives in Bloomfield, Mo.

Four mockingbirds top the list of pet species - not counting the customary dogs - that have shared the households of Presidents of the United States. Martha Washington brought to the President's Palace (there wasn't yet a White House) a mockingbird given to her by a suitor who predated George. Thomas Jefferson, a widower, got much enjoyment from his pet mockingbird; when alone, he let the bird out of its cage to perch on a shoulder and pluck a cherry from his lips. Grover Cleveland was irked by his wife's mockingbird. Its outpouring of song disturbed him, as well it might; a robust mocker has been clocked by an orinithologist at 143 calls in 16 minutes - averaging nine per minute - that included imitations of 24 other kinds of birds. The Calvin Coolidges in 1924 received a gift mockingbird that became musical director of the Coolidges' canaries. The somebody informed Mrs. Coolidge that, as its owner, she was liable for a fine of $50 or a month in jail -- so the bird went. Wild-songbird protection laws had decreed that the era of mockingbirds in the White House -- or any other house -- has passed forever.

Sergeant Treadwell, a helicopter maintenance technician, previously served with an Air Force unit at Ft. Eustis, Va. He is assigned to the Strategic Air Command, America's long-range nuclear bomber and missile force.

The Korean War veteran is a graduate of Bakersfield (Calif.) High School.

His wife, Joyce, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Brown of 2520 Virginia Ave., Bakersfield.

The sergeant's father, Delmer Treadwell, resides in Columbia.

SAIGON, VIETNAM (AHTNC)-- Jimmy V. Edwards, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glendon Edwards, Route 2, Dexter, Mo., was promoted to Army specialist five July 15 near Saigon, where he is serving with the U.S. Army Strategic Communications Command.

Spec. Edwards, a driver assigned to the command's 1st Signal Brigade, entered the Army in March 1966, completed his basic training at Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo., and arrived overseas in September of last year.

The 24 - year - old soldier is a 1961 graduate of Dexter High School.

His wife, Carolyn, lives in Bloomfield, Mo.

Four mockingbirds top the list of pet species - not counting the customary dogs - that have shared the households of Presidents of the United States. Martha Washington brought to the President's Palace (there wasn't yet a White House) a mockingbird given to her by a suitor who predated George. Thomas Jefferson, a widower, got much enjoyment from his pet mockingbird; when alone, he let the bird out of its cage to perch on a shoulder and pluck a cherry from his lips. Grover Cleveland was irked by his wife's mockingbird. Its outpouring of song disturbed him, as well it might; a robust mocker has been clocked by an orinithologist at 143 calls in 16 minutes - averaging nine per minute - that included imitations of 24 other kinds of birds. The Calvin Coolidges in 1924 received a gift mockingbird that became musical director of the Coolidges' canaries. The somebody informed Mrs. Coolidge that, as its owner, she was liable for a fine of $50 or a month in jail -- so the bird went. Wild-songbird protection laws had decreed that the era of mockingbirds in the White House -- or any other house -- has passed forever.

Insurance Rates on Dwellings Increased

CHICAGO --- Dwelling insurance rates and coverage in Missouri have been revised by companies affiliated with the Missouri Inspection Bureau.

The revisions, based on adverse loss experience in the state, will apply to homeowners policies as well as fire and extended coverage policies.

For most policyholders, the rate will be increased between 15 and 25 per cent, depending upon the specific type and amount of insurance selected. For most policyholders, deductibles will apply to more perils than before.

The bureau said it is expected that the wider use of deductibles will eliminate the immediate need for a much larger rate increase.

A deductible means that the policyholders pay for the first $50 of damage. Under the homeowners policy, the deductible is the disappearing type in that it gets smaller as the claim increases, disappearing altogether when the claim reaches $500.

For the vast majority of homeowners policyholders, rates will be raised 15 to 20 per cent. Homeowners policies are written for three years and include reimbursement for loss caused by fire, storms and other perils as well as comprehensive personal liability coverage and theft insurance.

Most persons who insure their property by fire and extended coverage policies will receive about a 20 per cent increase. Extended coverage is a form attached to most fire policies and includes protection against windstorm, hail, explosion, riot and other perils.

Persons who desire full coverage (without the deductible feature) will continue to have it available to them. For homeowners as well as fire and extended coverage policies, the cost of full coverage is being increased.

The Missouri Inspection Bureau said that companies have been consistently losing money on dwelling insurance in the state in recent years.

For example, the bureau said, since the introduction of the homeowners policy in Missouri in 1959, companies have paid out $1.18 in losses and expenses for every $1 received in premiums.

On fire insurance policies, the losses have been even more staggering, according to the bureau.

The last rate revision on homeowners policies in Missouri was in 1964. The last fire insurance rate change was in 1965 and the last extended coverage change was in 1964.

The revisions announced have been approved by the Missouri division of insurance.

Car Topics For Lady Pedal Pushers

CARS AND PEOPLE ON VACATION

As evidenced by the travel boom, American families do enjoy traveling by car. It is the most flexible and least expensive way to go.

There is nothing like a vacation trip to bring out the best or worst in the family car and its passengers. And the condition of the vehicle itself can make a big difference in the family's emotional, even physical condition.

Car sickness, for example, can be exaggerated by a car that sets up a bobbing motion on secondary roads. Weak shock absorbers can cause this.

A shimmy or shake, caused by unbalanced or misaligned wheels, can insidiously fray passengers' nerves, not to mention what it does to the driver. Fumes from leaking exhaust or a clogged engine ventillation valve can induce nausea, or worse yet, drowsiness.

Rattles, smeary wiper blades, an erratic radio or even concern about an over-heating engine can disquiet an otherwise happy family. As the miles roll up on the odometer, the condition worsens for both car and driver, the net result often being an accident.

To help prevent this, have your car in good shape before you leave home. Then, at least, you will have started out on the right foot. And if problems should develop en route, as they sometimes do, have them corrected right away. It is foolhardy to try to live with them when excellent parts and service facilities are scattered in every city and hamlet throughout the country.

Some families keep their schedules sufficiently flexible to allow for service stops in case they should need them. This can even provide a pleasant relief from driving and give you a chance to see something of the areas you normally would roar right through.

Best of all, when the family climbs aboard to continue the trip, you all will be in a better frame of mind, knowing the car is safe. The driver particularly will be benefited by this.

With mechanical problems out of the way he can concentrate on what he is doing and, of course, watch out for th a t crazy driver who is bound to show up sooner or later.

Bombs on Coventry

For 11 hours of that night in 1940 when the Germans were bent upon the destruction of Coventry, England, the Luftwaffe dropped 225 tons of bombs on the city, practically destroying it and its famous cathedral.

Saltpeter Source

During the War of 1812, Mammoth Cave, Ky., was almost the only source of saltpeter for the blockaded and powder-poor United States. The saltpeter, an important ingredient of gunpowder, was extracted from the bat guano of the cave.

WHERE'S MY BABY?

PERTH (AP) — Taxi driver Glen Lawson, 39, picked up a young woman and four young children in the suburb of Floreat.

As the family climbed into his taxi, Lawson folded up the woman's pram and packed it in the trunk of the car.

They had travelled only half a mile when the woman suddenly asked: "Where's my baby? I've got five children."

Lawson pulled up quickly and opened the trunk. He pulled the pram out, unfolded it—and found the baby unharmed.

Said a shaken Lawson: "I thought she had groceries in the pram. We had a good laugh over it."

CLOTHES CRAZY IN PAPER

Would you rather be a paper tigress or a paper doll? Throw away your fashion inhibitions and wrap yourself up in a bright, new paper package. Paper fabric is now available by the yard in bold prints, brilliant colors and textured solids. If you tend to be timid when choosing a fabric and style for a garment you expect to wear several seasons, turn yourself on to the possibilities of paper. Paper clothes are inexpensive, quick to make and meant to be utterly mad.

Paper dressing started as a larky party thing and exploded into a whole new way of thinking about leisure-time clothes. Begin your paper wardrobe with a brief Bikini, for sunning only, and finish with a floor-length hostess gown. Fill the blank spaces in between with any whim your sensible side has been repressing; and don't forget to add paper jewelry and accessories. Wear a paper garment once, twice, even three times and throw it away. You might find a new style that's absolutely you and make it again in a durable fabric.

Is paper fabric really paper? No, if you want to be technical, it's a nonwoven cellulose strengthened with a synthetic fiber. It should be flame proof. Always check the label to be sure, before you buy.

HOW TO

To make a paper dress, you need a pattern. We asked the sewing experts at Coats & Clark for some words of wisdom on the subject of what and how. This yoked tent dress with an inverted front pleat (McCalls 8755) perfectly illustrates their pointers for sewing paper material. The style is simple: collarless, sleeveless, easy-fitting. It has few pattern pieces to cut and few seams to sew. The new "Dual Duty" thread is ideal. Adjust your machine for a long stitch (8-10 stitches per inch); a smaller stitch would chop too many holes in the paper. Press seams open with a dry iron set for synthetic fabrics.

Neck and armhole facings are out; double fold bias tape is in, as the best way to protect these stress areas. A zipper is optional. It can easily be removed from a discarded paper dress to use again. The zipper alternative is to leave an opening in the center back seam large enough for your head. Close the neck opening with a loop and button. The loop is made from an extension of the neck binding and the button must be stitched to the fabric tape, not the paper. The final step is snip . . . snip . . . snip around the hemline. Are you ready for the fun of your first public appearance in paper?

The Quick Cover-Up

It's a summer when towels are made for wearing. They're too pretty to waste their talents indoors.

Intricate sculptured designs and rich colorings of new cotton terry towels lend themselves beautifully to beachwear.

Here's an example of what can be done with just two bath towels, some pre-folded cotton tape, and your sewing machine. It's a clever cover-up called a "mini-toga" that can be made without a pattern. And you'll have enough fabric left to make a matching beach bag.

Instructions also include easy-to-follow directions for stitching up an ankle-length toga from two bath towels.

For free leaflet, send a self-addressed stamped envelope to The Singer Company, Mini-Toga Leaflet, Box 224, Times Square Station, New York, N. Y. 10036.

Scott County Health

1966 Annual Report

INTRODUCTION

1966 was the first year for some time that the Scott County Health Department operated without a deficit. We are in the black again. The coding system of recorded work was again simplified. This left off some items we would like to record at the local level. Our personnal tried to keep separate records for these, and succeeded partially.

In August 1966, our very superior nurse, Mrs. Sandra Burke, who was working on a special state immunization project, was sent to the District Number 4 office. Her departure left a decided gap in our staff.

In September, Mrs. Anna Smith, P.H.N. and Midwife, who taught parent classes, trained and supervised our midwives, retired after years of excellent service. Miss Emily White, PHN, who worked under Mrs. Smith's guidance, replaced her in Scott, Mississippi, and New Madrid Counties. Since her work was not entirely satisfactory, she left December 23, 1966.

Dr. Buckthorpe, Health Officer, went on part time; because full time employment had become difficult for her.

SHE FLUNKED

PRESTONSBURG, Ky. (AP) — Norman Allen overheard this conversation while a woman was taking her exam for a driver's license.

"What is the white line for in the middle of the road?" asked the state trooper.

"That," she replied positively, "is for bicycles."

Insurance Rates on Dwellings Increased

CHICAGO --- Dwelling insurance rates and coverage in Missouri have been revised by companies affiliated with the Missouri Inspection Bureau.

The revisions, based on adverse loss experience in the state, will apply to homeowners policies as well as fire and extended coverage policies.

For most policyholders, the rate will be increased between 15 and 25 per cent, depending upon the specific type and amount of insurance selected. For most policyholders, deductibles will apply to more perils than before.

The bureau said it is expected that the wider use of deductibles will eliminate the immediate need for a much larger rate increase.

A deductible means that the policyholders pay for the first $50 of damage. Under the homeowners policy, the deductible is the disappearing type in that it gets smaller as the claim increases, disappearing altogether when the claim reaches $500.

For the vast majority of homeowners policyholders, rates will be raised 15 to 20 per cent. Homeowners policies are written for three years and include reimbursement for loss caused by fire, storms and other perils as well as comprehensive personal liability coverage and theft insurance.

Most persons who insure their property by fire and extended coverage policies will receive about a 20 per cent increase. Extended coverage is a form attached to most fire policies and includes protection against windstorm, hail, explosion, riot and other perils.

Persons who desire full coverage (without the deductible feature) will continue to have it available to them. For homeowners as well as fire and extended coverage policies, the cost of full coverage is being increased.

The Missouri Inspection Bureau said that companies have been consistently losing money on dwelling insurance in the state in recent years.

For example, the bureau said, since the introduction of the homeowners policy in Missouri in 1959, companies have paid out $1.18 in losses and expenses for every $1 received in premiums.

On fire insurance policies, the losses have been even more staggering, according to the bureau.

The last rate revision on homeowners policies in Missouri was in 1964. The last fire insurance rate change was in 1965 and the last extended coverage change was in 1964.

The revisions announced have been approved by the Missouri division of insurance.

Car Topics For Lady Pedal Pushers

CARS AND PEOPLE ON VACATION

As evidenced by the travel boom, American families do enjoy traveling by car. It is the most flexible and least expensive way to go.

There is nothing like a vacation trip to bring out the best or worst in the family car and its passengers. And the condition of the vehicle itself can make a big difference in the family's emotional, even physical condition.

Car sickness, for example, can be exaggerated by a car that sets up a bobbing motion on secondary roads. Weak shock absorbers can cause this.

A shimmy or shake, caused by unbalanced or misaligned wheels, can insidiously fray passengers' nerves, not to mention what it does to the driver. Fumes from leaking exhaust or a clogged engine ventillation valve can induce nausea, or worse yet, drowsiness.

Rattles, smeary wiper blades, an erratic radio or even concern about an over-heating engine can disquiet an otherwise happy family. As the miles roll up on the odometer, the condition worsens for both car and driver, the net result often being an accident.

To help prevent this, have your car in good shape before you leave home. Then, at least, you will have started out on the right foot. And if problems should develop en route, as they sometimes do, have them corrected right away. It is foolhardy to try to live with them when excellent parts and service facilities are scattered in every city and hamlet throughout the country.

Some families keep their schedules sufficiently flexible to allow for service stops in case they should need them. This can even provide a pleasant relief from driving and give you a chance to see something of the areas you normally would roar right through.

Best of all, when the family climbs aboard to continue the trip, you all will be in a better frame of mind, knowing the car is safe. The driver particularly will be benefited by this.

With mechanical problems out of the way he can concentrate on what he is doing and, of course, watch out for th a t crazy driver who is bound to show up sooner or later.

Bombs on Coventry

For 11 hours of that night in 1940 when the Germans were bent upon the destruction of Coventry, England, the Luftwaffe dropped 225 tons of bombs on the city, practically destroying it and its famous cathedral.

Saltpeter Source

During the War of 1812, Mammoth Cave, Ky., was almost the only source of saltpeter for the blockaded and powder-poor United States. The saltpeter, an important ingredient of gunpowder, was extracted from the bat guano of the cave.

WHERE'S MY BABY?

PERTH (AP) — Taxi driver Glen Lawson, 39, picked up a young woman and four young children in the suburb of Floreat.

As the family climbed into his taxi, Lawson folded up the woman's pram and packed it in the trunk of the car.

They had travelled only half a mile when the woman suddenly asked: "Where's my baby? I've got five children."

Lawson pulled up quickly and opened the trunk. He pulled the pram out, unfolded it—and found the baby unharmed.

Said a shaken Lawson: "I thought she had groceries in the pram. We had a good laugh over it."

Scott County Health

1966 Annual Report

INTRODUCTION

1966 was the first year for some time that the Scott County Health Department operated without a deficit. We are in the black again. The coding system of recorded work was again simplified. This left off some items we would like to record at the local level. Our personnal tried to keep separate records for these, and succeeded partially.

In August 1966, our very superior nurse, Mrs. Sandra Burke, who was working on a special state immunization project, was sent to the District Number 4 office. Her departure left a decided gap in our staff.

In September, Mrs. Anna Smith, P.H.N. and Midwife, who taught parent classes, trained and supervised our midwives, retired after years of excellent service. Miss Emily White, PHN, who worked under Mrs. Smith's guidance, replaced her in Scott, Mississippi, and New Madrid Counties. Since her work was not entirely satisfactory, she left December 23, 1966.

Dr. Buckthorpe, Health Officer, went on part time; because full time employment had become difficult for her.

SHE FLUNKED

PRESTONSBURG, Ky. (AP) — Norman Allen overheard this conversation while a woman was taking her exam for a driver's license.

"What is the white line for in the middle of the road?" asked the state trooper.

"That," she replied positively, "is for bicycles."

HINTS FOR TEENAGERS

...From your Sewing Editor

CLOTHES CRAZY IN PAPER

Would you rather be a paper tigress or a paper doll? Throw away your fashion inhibitions and wrap yourself up in a bright, new paper package. Paper fabric is now available by the yard in bold prints, brilliant colors and textured solids. If you tend to be timid when choosing a fabric and style for a garment you expect to wear several seasons, turn yourself on to the possibilities of paper. Paper clothes are inexpensive, quick to make and meant to be utterly mad.

Paper dressing started as a larky party thing and exploded into a whole new way of thinking about leisure-time clothes. Begin your paper wardrobe with a brief Bikini, for sunning only, and finish with a floor-length hostess gown. Fill the blank spaces in between with any whim your sensible side has been repressing; and don't forget to add paper jewelry and accessories. Wear a paper garment once, twice, even three times and throw it away. You might find a new style that's absolutely you and make it again in a durable fabric.

Is paper fabric really paper? No, if you want to be technical, it's a nonwoven cellulose strengthened with a synthetic fiber. It should be flame proof. Always check the label to be sure, before you buy.

HOW TO

To make a paper dress, you need a pattern. We asked the sewing experts at Coats & Clark for some words of wisdom on the subject of what and how. This yoked tent dress with an inverted front pleat (McCalls 8755) perfectly illustrates their pointers for sewing paper material. The style is simple: collarless, sleeveless, easy-fitting. It has few pattern pieces to cut and few seams to sew. The new "Dual Duty" thread is ideal. Adjust your machine for a long stitch (8-10 stitches per inch); a smaller stitch would chop too many holes in the paper. Press seams open with a dry iron set for synthetic fabrics.

Neck and armhole facings are out; double fold bias tape is in, as the best way to protect these stress areas. A zipper is optional. It can easily be removed from a discarded paper dress to use again. The zipper alternative is to leave an opening in the center back seam large enough for your head. Close the neck opening with a loop and button. The loop is made from an extension of the neck binding and the button must be stitched to the fabric tape, not the paper. The final step is snip . . . snip . . . snip around the hemline. Are you ready for the fun of your first public appearance in paper?

The Quick Cover-Up

It's a summer when towels are made for wearing. They're too pretty to waste their talents indoors.

Intricate sculptured designs and rich colorings of new cotton terry towels lend themselves beautifully to beachwear.

Here's an example of what can be done with just two bath towels, some pre-folded cotton tape, and your sewing machine. It's a clever cover-up called a "mini-toga" that can be made without a pattern. And you'll have enough fabric left to make a matching beach bag.

Instructions also include easy-to-follow directions for stitching up an ankle-length toga from two bath towels.

For free leaflet, send a self-addressed stamped envelope to The Singer Company, Mini-Toga Leaflet, Box 224, Times Square Station, New York, N. Y. 10036.

Neighbor Girl in Bikini Increases Yard Work

Dear Ann Landers: I just walked out on the front porch to check the mail box and I was amazed to see our neighbor, a 15-year-old girl, washing the family car. Nothing unusual, you might say? Well, it is 65 degrees outside and the girl is wearing a bikini.

This young lady is as voluptuous and full blown as any Hollywood star you can name. You ought to see the husbands on this block gawking. Two of them suddenly decided to work on their lawns. My old geezer is out there now, fixing the front step. I've been begging him for two months to do this repair job for me but he was never able to find the time. Until NOW.

Is there a law against appearing in public almost naked? To whom should I complain? --- LOVE THY WHAT?

Dear Love: You complained to me. That's enough. There is a law against indecent exposure, but since bikinis are not illegal, you would have no case. Be glad you got the step fixed and forget it.

Dear Ann Landers: Our two-year-old son had some dark spots on his teeth which I feared might be the start of decay. I made an appointment with a new dentist in town.

When we arrived the nurse informed me that mothers are not allowed beyond the reception room door. I might add our child is very shy and is not accustomed to strangers.

The dentist heard me arguing with the nurse and agreed to let me come in with my child since he was only having a checkup. One of these days the child will need dentistry and then what should I do?

My husband who will not even leave our car alone with a mechanic says I should leave the boy in the hands of the professionals.

I can't help but feel it would be a mistake to dump a shy child with two strangers and a drill. What do you say? --- CONSCIENTIOUS OBJECTOR

Dear Con: It's time your child become "accustomed to strangers" because he will be meeting a good many of them out there in the world.

Apparently you selected a dentist in whom you had confidence. Now you must abide by his rules. One thing is certain -- the dentist has had more experience along these lines than you.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a mother who needs an answer to something that has been bothering me for quite some time.

I have two daughters -- 14 months apart. The younger girl is quite a bit larger than the older girl. She is also quicker to learn and makes better grades than her older sister. The younger girl breaks, tears and spills things about three times as often as the older one. She has fractured the same arm twice and has dislocated her collar bone three times. What does this mean? --- RIVERSIDE

Dear Riverside: It means that the younger girl is high-strung, less careful than her older sister, and she is also accident-prone.

Confidential to Best Foot Forward?: Who are you trying to kid? You know perfectly well if you really wanted to put your best foot forward you would step out of the picture.

Symington Opposed to Troop Order

WASHINGTON -- In answer to requests for comment on the President's message to Congress, asking for a tax increase and additional troops in Vietnam, Senator Stuart Symington (D-Mo) said:

"No one wants to pay higher taxes, but if the President believes additional taxes are necessary, because of this great and growing debt, along with our continuing unfavorable balance of payments, I will support his decision.

"But I cannot support a decision to send additional ground troops to Vietnam. The new figure mentioned will result in our having over 500,000 troops in the Vietnamese theater, not counting the Fleet.

"For over two years it has been my considered opinion that we would have far more success in Vietnam with less troops if we would take the shackles off of our air power and sea power so they could both attack the scores of meaningful military targets in North Vietnam which even today remain untouched."

Parma Circle Has Luncheon

PARMA -- Mrs. Tom Womack of Catron was hostess at a luncheon at her home Thursday. Guests were women of the afternoon circle of the Women's Society of Christian Service of the First Methodist church.

Mrs. E. J. Reynolds, secretary-treasurer, conducted the business meeting in the absence of the circle chairman. A social hour concluded the afternoon.

Others attending were Mrs. Walter Frailey, Mrs. C. D. Brorain, Mrs. H. R. Woodside and Mrs. Sidney Lindley of Parma and Mrs. Martin Bondurant and Mrs. Henry Womack of Catron.

Ste. Genevieve to Greet Visitors This Weekend

STE. GENEVIEVE -- St. Genevieve will be host to its second annual Jour de Fete celebration Saturday and Sunday. A variety of continuous and special activities is being planned for the days of celebration.

Highlighting the program of continuous events will be tours of historic buildings and sites. Among them are the Bolduc House, Amoureaux House, Old Slave House, The Green Tree Tavern, Old Brick House, Ste. Genevieve Museum, the old cemetery and the churches. The city has more than 20 homes built before 1800.

An art show will be held during the two-day festival with professional and amateur artists exhibiting their works. The work of many Ozark craftsmen will be on isplay.

The city square will be transformed into the village Ste. Genevieve was in the 1700's. Store windows will display antiques of a bygone era. Storekeepers and townspeople will be dressed in costume of 18th century Ste. Genevieve. A French market place will grace the city square with booths offering for sale the typical products for which Ste. Genevieve is famous; sausages, hams, homemade foods, quilts, soap, pecans and pralines. Traveling bands of musicians and dancers will perform.

Special events are planned. The Jour de Fete will officially begin with the dedication of the Pierre Marquette park at 10 a.m. Saturday. Following will be a parade featuring floats recalling the history of Ste. Genevieve. Other events scheduled for Saturday include an antique auction, German beer garden, old tyme street dancing, and the king's ball. A western rodeo will revive the Spanish and Wild West days. The famous La Guinolee also will appear.

Sunday morning is reserved for worship services in the city's churches. Sunday afternoon there will be a repeat performance of the rodeo together with band concert by the municipal band. A swimming exhibition and a muzzle loading rifle contest will round out the program.

Food is an important part of any celebration. In addition to Ste. Genevieve's famous restaurants organizations will offer everything from French ice cream to fried chicken and liver dumplings.

For those who venture to Ste. Genevieve, the oldest town West of the Mississippi a weekend of fun, excitement, and adventure is in store. For more information write: Ste. Genevieve Jour de Fete Committee, Box 368, Ste. Genevieve, Mo.

The Prayer
From The Upper Koom

Whosoever heareth these sayings of mine, and doeth them, I will liken him unto a wise man, which built his house upon a rock. (Matthew 7;24)

PRAYER: "In thee, O Lord, do I put my trust; let me never be ashamed: deliver me in thy righteousness. Bow down thine ear to me; deliver me speedily: be thou my strong rock, for an house of defence to save me. For thou art my rock and my fortress; therefore for thy name's sake lead me, and guide me." Amen.

In certain instances, if President Charles de Gaulle wants to charm or dazzle, he gives one a glimpse of his phenomenal memory.

A prominent financier called to discuss a complicated technical problem. With the help of his associates, he had prepared a careful summation. His arguments were closely reasoned and in perfect order. He had committed them to memory and recorded his talk on tape. It covered 11 points and took exactly 16 minutes.

He was ushered in and invited courteously to explain his problem. The banker discussed the 11 points according to plan. When he finished, de Gaulle took over, repeated the 11 points without distortion and in order, and methodically gave his advice on each one.

The financier left stupefied with admiration and permanently won over. - Pierre Viansson-Ponte

By Jack Strauss, LL.D.

Patient Patty strolled nonchalantly out of a mental institution, found an automobile with its motor running and drove out onto the highway. Unfortunately, Patty's driving proved worse than her mental condition.

After scaring a dozen or more motorists off the road, she crashed head - on into Melvin's shiny new sports car. Hobbled by the accident, Melvin limped ferociously into court where he sued Patty for the damage to both himself and his car.

"I would have given her half the road," he told the judge plaintively, "but I couldn't tell which half she wanted. The girl drove like a nut!"

"That's exactly right," snapped Patty's attorney. "That's our defense. Patty was a nut! She was a patient in a mental institution and therefore Melvin can't collect. A person who isn't responsible can't be held responsible."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you make nutty Patty shell out?

This is how the judge ruled: He held that Patty had to pay. In doing so, he pointed out that as a general principal, an insane person may be held responsible for his civil wrongs the same as a sane person, except, perhaps in those cases where malice and therefore intention is a necessary ingredient.

In this case, concluded the judge, the general principal was applicable since the negligent operation of an automobile requires no specific intent or malice.

Dear Love: You complained to me. That's enough. There is a law against indecent exposure, but since bikinis are not illegal, you would have no case. Be glad you got the step fixed and forget it.

Dear Ann Landers: Our two-year-old son had some dark spots on his teeth which I feared might be the start of decay. I made an appointment with a new dentist in town.

When we arrived the nurse informed me that mothers are not allowed beyond the reception room door. I might add our child is very shy and is not accustomed to strangers.

The dentist heard me arguing with the nurse and agreed to let me come in with my child since he was only having a checkup. One of these days the child will need dentistry and then what should I do?

My husband who will not even leave our car alone with a mechanic says I should leave the boy in the hands of the professionals.

I can't help but feel it would be a mistake to dump a shy child with two strangers and a drill. What do you say? --- CONSCIENTIOUS OBJECTOR

Dear Con: It's time your child become "accustomed to strangers" because he will be meeting a good many of them out there in the world.

Apparently you selected a dentist in whom you had confidence. Now you must abide by his rules. One thing is certain -- the dentist has had more experience along these lines than you.

Dear Ann Landers: I am a mother who needs an answer to something that has been bothering me for quite some time.

I have two daughters -- 14 months apart. The younger girl is quite a bit larger than the older girl. She is also quicker to learn and makes better grades than her older sister. The younger girl breaks, tears and spills things about three times as often as the older one. She has fractured the same arm twice and has dislocated her collar bone three times. What does this mean? --- RIVERSIDE

Dear Riverside: It means that the younger girl is high-strung, less careful than her older sister, and she is also accident-prone.

Confidential to Best Foot Forward?: Who are you trying to kid? You know perfectly well if you really wanted to put your best foot forward you would step out of the picture.

What awaits you on the other side of the marriage veil? How can you be sure your marriage will work? Read Ann Landers' booklet "Marriage -- What To Expect." Send your request to Ann Landers in care of your newspaper enclosing 50¢ in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Symington Opposed to Troop Order

WASHINGTON -- In answer to requests for comment on the President's message to Congress, asking for a tax increase and additional troops in Vietnam, Senator Stuart Symington (D-Mo) said:

"No one wants to pay higher taxes, but if the President believes additional taxes are necessary, because of this great and growing debt, along with our continuing unfavorable balance of payments, I will support his decision.

"But I cannot support a decision to send additional ground troops to Vietnam. The new figure mentioned will result in our having over 500,000 troops in the Vietnamese theater, not counting the Fleet.

"For over two years it has been my considered opinion that we would have far more success in Vietnam with less troops if we would take the shackles off of our air power and sea power so they could both attack the scores of meaningful military targets in North Vietnam which even today remain untouched."

Parma Circle Has Luncheon

PARMA -- Mrs. Tom Womack of Catron was hostess at a luncheon at her home Thursday. Guests were women of the afternoon circle of the Women's Society of Christian Service of the First Methodist church.

Mrs. E. J. Reynolds, secretary-treasurer, conducted the business meeting in the absence of the circle chairman. A social hour concluded the afternoon.

Others attending were Mrs. Walter Frailey, Mrs. C. D. Brorain, Mrs. H. R. Woodside and Mrs. Sidney Lindley of Parma and Mrs. Martin Bondurant and Mrs. Henry Womack of Catron.

Ste. Genevieve to Greet Visitors This Weekend

STE. GENEVIEVE -- St. Genevieve will be host to its second annual Jour de Fete celebration Saturday and Sunday. A variety of continuous and special activities is being planned for the days of celebration.

Highlighting the program of continuous events will be tours of historic buildings and sites. Among them are the Bolduc House, Amoureaux House, Old Slave House, The Green Tree Tavern, Old Brick House, Ste. Genevieve Museum, the old cemetery and the churches. The city has more than 20 homes built before 1800.

An art show will be held during the two-day festival with professional and amateur artists exhibiting their works. The work of many Ozark craftsmen will be on isplay.

The city square will be transformed into the village Ste. Genevieve was in the 1700's. Store windows will display antiques of a bygone era. Storekeepers and townspeople will be dressed in costume of 18th century Ste. Genevieve. A French market place will grace the city square with booths offering for sale the typical products for which Ste. Genevieve is famous; sausages, hams, homemade foods, quilts, soap, pecans and pralines. Traveling bands of musicians and dancers will perform.

Special events are planned. The Jour de Fete will officially begin with the dedication of the Pierre Marquette park at 10 a.m. Saturday. Following will be a parade featuring floats recalling the history of Ste. Genevieve. Other events scheduled for Saturday include an antique auction, German beer garden, old tyme street dancing, and the king's ball. A western rodeo will revive the Spanish and Wild West days. The famous La Guinolee also will appear.

Sunday morning is reserved for worship services in the city's churches. Sunday afternoon there will be a repeat performance of the rodeo together with band concert by the municipal band. A swimming exhibition and a muzzle loading rifle contest will round out the program.

Food is an important part of any celebration. In addition to Ste. Genevieve's famous restaurants organizations will offer everything from French ice cream to fried chicken and liver dumplings.

For those who venture to Ste. Genevieve, the oldest town West of the Mississippi a weekend of fun, excitement, and adventure is in store. For more information write: Ste. Genevieve Jour de Fete Committee, Box 368, Ste. Genevieve, Mo.

The Prayer
From The Upper Room

Whosoever heareth these sayings of mine, and doeth them, I will liken him unto a wise man, which built his house upon a rock. (Matthew 7:24)

PRAYER: "In thee, O Lord, do I put my trust; let me never be ashamed; deliver me in thy righteousness. Bow down thine ear to me; deliver me speedily; be thou my strong rock, for an house of defence to save me. For thou art my rock and my fortress; therefore for thy name's sake lead me, and guide me." Amen.

Mental Patient Must Pay For Damage on Highway

By Jack Strauss, LL.D.

Patient Patty strolled nonchalantly out of a mental institution, found an automobile with its motor running and drove out onto the highway. Unfortunately, Patty's driving proved worse than her mental condition.

After scaring a dozen or more motorists off the road, she crashed head - on into Melvin's shiny new sports car. Hobbled by the accident, Melvin limped ferociously into court where he sued Patty for the damage to both himself and his car.

"I would have given her half the road," he told the judge plaintively, "but I couldn't tell which half she wanted. The girl drove like a nut!"

"That's exactly right," snapped Patty's attorney. "That's our defense. Patty was a nut! She was a patient in a mental institution and therefore Melvin can't collect. A person who isn't responsible can't be held responsible."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you make nutty Patty shell out?

This is how the judge ruled: He held that Patty had to pay. In doing so, he pointed out that as a general principal, an insane person may be held responsible for his civil wrongs the same as a sane person, except, perhaps in those cases where malice and therefore intention is a necessary ingredient.

In this case, concluded the judge, the general principal was applicable since the negligent operation of an automobile requires no specific intent or malice.

Seven Vie in Primary Race For Governor

JACKSON, Miss., (AP)--Mississippi holds a Democratic primary election for governor Tuesday.

For any of the seven candidates for governor, a victory in the primary would be only one stop on the hard road to the governor's office. The consensus among political observers here is that the top two candidates will meet in a runoff second primary Aug. 29.

The victor in the second primary will face Republican Rubel L. Phillips in the general election Nov. 7. Phillips is a proven vote-getter who ran for governor in 1963 but lost to Paul B. Johnson.

Mississippi governors are forbidden by the state constitution to succeed themselves, so Gov. Johnson took the unprecedented step of running for lieutenant governor. He held the post when Ross R. Barnett was governor, from 1960 to 1964.

Observers generally agree that the leaders in the campaign for governor are Barnett, 69, whose determined opposition to integration of the University of Mississippi brought him national notice in 1962; U.S. Rep. John Bell Williams, 48, who bolted Democratic party discipline in 1964 to support Republican Barry Goldwater for president and as a result was stripped of his congressional seniority; and state Treasurer William F. Winter, 44, whose record as an administrator has been established in a series of state offices he has held.

William L. Waller of Jackson, the district attorney for three counties, and James E. Swan of Hattiesburg, part owner of a radio station, are also considered strong contenders, but not eough to earn places in the second primary.

Grandson of Morley Man Dies in Vietnam

MORLEY -- Word has been received of the death of Sgt. Le Roy O'Neal of St. Charles, grandson of Walter O'Neal.

Sergeant O'Neal died from gunshot wounds accidentally inflicted by American soldiers in Vietnam.

He had been in a hospital being treated for wounds sustained in combat and had walked outside the hospital, where he was shot by American soldiers.

The announcement of his promotion was made three hours after his death.

Survivors include his grandfather; his parents, the Rev. and Mrs. Leon O'Neal, St. Charles; three uncles, David and Abraham O'Neal, both of Morley, and Jim O'Neal, Sikeston, and three aunts, Mrs. Kenneth Emerson and Mrs. Jim Milan, both of Advance, and Barbara O'Neal, Morley.

O'Neal died July 31.

Services will be at 2 p.m. Thursday at Baue Funeral Home at St. Charles.

Burial will be in a St. Charles cemetery.

Spirit of Jesse James Haunts Former Home

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP)-- The ghost of Jesse James hovered over his former home Wednesday when two billfolds were stolen there.

Missouri's well known train robber once lived at 1002 South 21st St. The present home of Miss Cumi Murdock, who reported the theft.

Miss Murdock and John Cox, were in the front yard working when the house was entered during the afternoon. Both Miss Murdock's and Cox's billfolds and a checkbook were stolen.

The man's billfold held between $125 and $139, police were told, while Miss Murdock's contained about $130.

The house was the home of Jessie James before he moved to the better known residence in the 1300 block of Lafayette St. where he was killed a few months later.

Woman Political Leader Dies

MEXICO, Mo. (AP) - Mrs. Linda Buffington, prominent in Missouri Democratic politics for many years, died Saturday in Audrain Hospital. She had been ill for months and had been hospitalized several times.

She was 78, had been a delegate to state and national Democratic party conventions, and had served as vice president of the Missouri Federation of Democratic Women.

She had been president of the League of Women Voters in Mexico and former president of the Women's Democratic Club of Audrain County.

She was the widow of James W. Buffington who practiced law here for more than 50 years before his death last year. Her father had been the mayor of Louisiana, Mo., the site of her birth.

Surviving are three children; Jim Buffington, Detroit, Mich.; Mrs. Melvin Whitesides, Jefferson City; and Mrs. W. E. Treibly, Overland, Mo.

Funeral services will be at 10:30 a.m. Monday at Arnold Funeral Home with burial at Elmwood Cemetery.

One of former President Eisenhower's favorite golf stories concerns a golfer who tried to induce a friend to join his foursome one day. "I'd love to," said the friend, "but I promised my wife. . ."

"Ah, come on," the golfer persisted, "forget your wife. Are you a man or a mouse?"

"I'm a man," the friend replied. "My wife is afraid of a mouse."
